Abd-El-Krim, leader of the Riffs against the French, is reported killed in battle.

It's not unlikely, for the Arab leader, a fighter by choice, does not conduct war from a safe distance, as do the rulers of Europe. And, his death would mean more than any dozen deaths in our modern "civilized" war.

With us the power is in guns, gas, science and money.

With the Arabs, still living back in the days of Mohammed, the power is in personal leadership.

David Cowan, a young Canadian, won $5,000 for the best essay predicting the developments in electrical energy between 1920 and 1930.

At the end of 1930, the American super power corporation will give $10,000 to the essay writer whose predictions come nearest to the truth.

Young Cowan knew nothing about electricity, when Bonbright & Co. offered the prize. He used his brains, studied the history of electricity in industry, let his imagination work, and won.

Some time imagination does more than knowledge. The inventor of the sewing machine could not sew.

No one can guess at the possibilities of electricity in industry. For one thing, according to Haldane, able British scientist, chemistry and electricity combined may make sugar as cheap as sawdust.

Industry already produces money on a big scale. The Du Pont Co. is expected to "cut a melon" in the slang of Wall Street, by handing to its stockholders a bonus of $50,000,000 in stock. Increasing capitalization from one hundred to one hundred and fifty millions will do it. That will seem to stockholders more impressive than making sugar as cheap as sawdust.

With such melons you can afford to buy sugar at old prices.

So say the experts.

This is a frightfully rich nation. The countries of Europe owe us ten thousand million and will pay us, including interest, thirty thousand millions in the next 61 years.

Old Rome, with her consuls pouring in men and slaves from conquered territory was not nearly as "well fixed" as Uncle Sam. No wonder some of our friends in Europe worry, and ask "did we fight each other only to make Uncle Sam rich?"

Our answer is, "we didn't ask you to fight. Be wiser next time."

BOARD OF EDUCATION DEFERS RULING UNTIL ATTORNEY GENERAL ACTS

Proponents and Opponents of Ministerial Association's Proposal to Use Public Schools During Fall Term Crowd Assembly Room to Hear Arguments at Board Meeting.

REV. DR. F. G. FOWLER OUTLINES PLAN; DR. SAMUEL RICH LEADS OPPOSITION

After Listening to 90-Minute Debate, in Which J. H. Brookes Submits Series of Questions, Board Members Decide to Await Opinion on Legality of Pastor's Suggestion.

The board of education last night decided to defer action on the Ministerial association's proposal to use the public schools next fall for classes in religious education until Attorney General C. C. Crabbe makes a ruling upon the legality of the plan. The question will likely come up for a vote at a special meeting which has been called for Friday evening, June 26.

This decision was reached after a public hearing in a high school assembly room was crowded with proponents and opponents of the pastors' proposal, numbering approximately 150. Supporters of the ministers' plan probably outnumbered the opposition five to one. Once during the hearing, the crowd applauded and near the close they booed.

Rev. Dr. Frank G. Fowler, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, outlined the ministers' proposal.

Dr. Samuel Rich, eye, throat and nose specialist, was chief spokesman for the opposing forces.

The argument, during which President J. H. Brookes, of the board of education, submitted 18 questions to the pastors, continued for 90 minutes.

That to teach the Protestant or any other religion in the "tax supported" public school would be a "step backwards" in the educational system of the city, was the charge made by a committee who protested against the proposal.

Dr. Fowler Outlines Plan.

"Let us carry out our plan and within 10 years we will present to you a better East Liverpool than we have today."

This statement from Dr. Fowler caused friends of the proposal to cheer and applaud.

Dr. Fowler, at the opening of the hearing explained the plan of the Ministerial association. He declared that the school board had dismissed children for these classes last year but that the course had not proved as successful as it would have been had the children remained in the school building where they would be under an atmosphere of discipline.

He explained that no child except those whose parents would make written application would be permitted to take the course. A competent teacher would be sent to the schools for one period each week to conduct these classes. Rooms which were lighted and heated and furnished with janitor service under ordinary circumstances would be used, eliminating any additional expense. The salary of the teacher would be paid by the various co-operating churches.

The teacher would work under the direction of an organization to be known as the East Liverpool Council of Religious Education, which would include a representative of the board of education and the superintendent of schools.

In touching upon the recent decision of the supreme court in declaring the Oregon school law unconstitutional, Dr. Fowler declared that the court's decision was the great American thing.

"The court held that 'we should not

FIVE SCHOOL ROOMS NEEDED

Additional Accommodations Planned in Three Districts.

Five additional school rooms will be opened in the East Liverpool city school district next September, the board of education decided last night, when report of School Enumerator W. C. Dickey for the Lincoln highway, Pleasant Heights and East End districts was submitted.

A two-room portable building will be erected on Pleasant Heights. Another one-room structure will be added to the Glenmoor group, while two one-room structures will be placed in the East End.

When the enumerator completes his work, the school board will determine the exact locations for the two East End structures. At least one, and possibly both, will be on the Horace Mann grounds, however.

Manufacturers of portable schools were asked to submit bids on or before next Friday, June 26, when a special meeting will be held. The five structures will cost approximately $9,000.

A committee made up of D. F. White and F. T. Weaver, named to negotiate with Henry Goodwin for the purchase of a school site in East End, was continued. The committee will get prices from Mr. Goodwin on three and one-half acres of the tract and also on the entire seven acres making up the site.

CAPT. AMUNDSEN NATIONAL HERO OF NORWAY AS PARTY RETURNS

Expedition Got Within 150 Miles of North Pole.

Explorer and Ohio Aviator Arrive at King's Bay.

OSLO, Norway, June 19.—Captain Roald Amundsen was the national hero of Norway today.

An official message of congratulation was forwarded by the Norwegian government to the explorer, who with his party, has returned safely to King's Bay, Spitzenbergen, after being missing 28 days in the regions of the North pole.

"The Norwegian government," the message said, "sends you and your brave companions hearty greetings and congratulations on your wonderful journey. Welcome home."

Cheers for Amundsen.

Members of the Norwegian parliament, stood while the president opened the chambers session today with congratulations for Captain Amundsen. Dr. Skatum told the chamber the soundings made by Amundsen within 160 miles of the pole were significant and valuable.

Mr. Salvesen, president of the Baltic White Sea conference, proposed three cheers for Amundsen, which were enthusiastically given.

Ellsworth Rescues Polar Observers From Icy Waters.

LONDON, June 19.—Lieut. Lincoln Ellsworth, the Ohio aviator who accompanied Roald Amundsen in his attempt to fly to the North Pole, rescued two members of the expedition from drowning while Amundsen's plane was ice bound, Commander Christian Prestrud, naval attache in London of the Norweigian government, declared here today. Prestrud was with Amundsen when he discovered the South Pole.

"I have not all of the details as yet of what happened during Amundsen's flight," Prestrud said, "but I have heard a great deal of Ellsworth and his determination to reach the pole."

"I feel sure Ellsworth will work with Amundsen to start a new expedition, but probably the new expednion will be with an airship because, it seems to be, Amundsen has demonstrated the impracticability of aeroplanes flying to the Pole. An airship could not land at the Pole, but it could fly over it and make many observations, and possibly anchor over the Pole.

"You will hear more of Amundsen and Ellsworth. I am sure they have not finished with their ambition, and that they will yet reach the North Pole."

Dr. Tucker Scores Modernists In Closing Lecture On Bible

Tells Large Audience at First United Presbyterian Church That He Stands for Every Fundamental Part of Faith.

Declaring the Bible humanly unmakable, unbreakable and unshakable, Dr. Leon W. Tucker, of New York city, eloquently and unqualifiedly asserted its 66 books to be divinely inspired and without a doubt God's revelation to man in a farewell address at the United Presbyterian church Thursday evening that concluded a week's series of scriptural study under auspices of the First Baptist church.

Dr. Tucker unhesitatingly maintained that the greatest conrtibutors to lawlessness in the world were those who had sworn to proclaim, preach and expound its tenets and then denied the fundamentals of the doctrines which, he held, exuded from it. "I hold that this book of books is the conservator of all our liberties," he explained. "I believe it from cover to cover and stand for every fundamental part of our faith as against every modernistic, nationalistic and materialistic fight that is now being waged against it."

Mayor Expresses Appreciation.

At the request of Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist church, Dr. Tucker spoke on "The Bible" instead of his announced subject of "Morals and Sex in the Light of God's Word."

In behalf of the First Baptist congregation, under whose auspices Dr. Tucker and party came to East Liverpool, Mayor Charles Brown voiced its appreciation at "being steeped in the facts of the book we all love," wished the party God-speed and expressed the hope it would return here soon again. "You have, all of you, made us feel that 'our Redeemer liveth,'" he said, "and, I am sure, will cause all of us to stand more firmly upon its truths."

Rev. O'Brien also spoke his appreciation of every member of the party and announced its tentative return to East Liverpool for a period, including two Sundays, in December, following which Dr. Tucker and his assistants will proceed to the Pacific coast

NEW ANTI-FOREIGN RIOTS BREAK OUT IN SHANGHAI AND CHUNG KING

Rioters Wreck British and Japanese Shops — General Strike Is Threatened in Canton.

LONDON, June 19.—New anti-foreign riots have broken out in Shanghai and Chung King and rioters have wrecked British and Japanese shops, according to dispatches reaching here today. A general strike was threatened for Canton.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Anti-foreign agitation is rapidly growing at Chung King, a port 1,500 miles up the Yangtse river from Shanghai, American Vice Consul Robert L. Smyth advised the state department today.

Three foreigners, a Britisher, Swede and Pole, have been severely beaten by mobs, Smyth reported, but there is no agitation at the present time against Americans.

The chief danger, the dispatch stated, is that General Yuan Tsu Ming's troops may assist the agitators.

The British consul has moved from the consulate in the city to a British gunboat in the river because of the forced desertion of his Chinese staff and servants as well as because the bitter anti-British feeling.

CHUNG KING, China, June 19. — The situation here has reached a point of grave danger for foreign residents.

All foreigners are preparing to take refuge on foreign war craft.

The British consulate has been evacuated. Foreigners have been stoned by mobs and anti-foreign feeling is at its height

PEKING, June 19.—With anti-British feeling apparently reaching new heights, responsible organizations were today going so far as to urge the Chinese government to sever relations with Great Britain and prepare to fight.

Shipping in Black Sea Harried by Storm Which Sweeps From Southern Siberian Province Along Coast

MOSCOW, June 19.—Twenty-eight persons were killed and hundreds injured in a tornado which wiped out two villages in the province of Altai, according to advices received here today.

Shipping in the Black sea also was harried by the storm, which swept from the southern Siberian province along the coast.

Snow covered northern Russia for the first time in a century in June as an aftermath of the southern storm.

Croxall Dump Fire Sends Smoke Screen Over Downtown Zone

Sections of Dresden avenue, West Eighth street, West Ninth street, and other adjoining thoroughfares were hidden behind a smoke screen for more than two hours last night, as a result of fire breaking out in the Croxall dump, Claiborne avenue.

Firemen were called about 10 o'clock and kept a stream of water on the blaze for about two and one half hours before it was extinguished. The fire is said to have been started by persons living near the dump.

Harry F. Sinclair Wins Decision in Teapot Dome Case

CHEYENNE, Wyo., June 19.—The Teapot Dome naval oil reserve lease granted Harry F. Sinclair by former Secretary of the Interior A. B. Fall was secured without conspiracy or fraud. This decision was rendered by Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy in district court here today in a lengthy opinoin in the equity suit wherein the United States government sought to annul the lease Sinclair has on the $50,000,000 Wyoming naval oil field.

Va., late last night upon a charge of criminally assaulting 10-year-old Edna May Reed, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Lawrence Reed, of Mannington, formerly of Newell and East Liverpool.

Straight was arrested following his alleged attack upon the child on Memorial day. The case went to the jury Thursday morning. The jury recommended mercy.

Judge L. S. Schwenk will pronounce sentence at the close of the present term of court.

TRIBUTE PAID LAFOLLETTE IN FLOWER-FILLED CAPITAL HOME

Senator's Body Will Be Taken Today to Madison.

SIMPLE FUNERAL

Burial Will Be Made in Wisconsin on Monday.

By KENNETH CLARK.

WASHINGTON, June 19. — Away from the strive of politics, away from the scenes of his greatest triumps, away from the worries and toils of a swift-moving world, Senator Robert Marion La Follette, of Wisconsin, will be taken today.

And he goes, as he said just before his death, "At peace with all the world," and "with love in my heart for all the people which sustained me throughout life."

But before he is carried away for the last time to Madison, Wisconsin, he will lie quietly in that little home in Wyoming avenue where, with a smile on his lips, and surrounded by those dearest to him—his family—he closed his eyes in eternal sleep.

There he will pause for a brief few hours that the people he loved and for whom he fought for so many years might pay final tribute to his memory.

Grief in Flower-Filled Home.

And to him these people came throughout the long, hot day. They were of all sorts, rich and poor, high official and clerk, one in grief at the passing of this dynamic little man who for more than three decades had been so prominently known in the national political arena.

They came to express condolences to the widow and the two sons and two daughters, and to pause a moment before the unpretentious coffin that held his mortal remains. There was grief, deepest grief, in the little flower-filled home, but for all, it seemed as if "Dad," as they always called him, had laid down to rest and had fallen asleep, and the whisperings and tip-toeing were that he should not be awakened.

They were a brave lot—his family, and they bore up well under the terrific strain. For weeks they had gone

WIDOW MAY GET SENATE PLACE

LaFollette's Death Probably Means Third Party's Collapse

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The political consequences of the death of Senator LaFollette will be far-reaching.

In the opinion of Republican and Democratic leaders here his removal from the American political scene at this time will mean:

1—The collapse of the independent third party movement which LaFollette started a year ago

2—The crumbling of the little bloc of insurgents in the senate, and

3—An opportunity for the regular Republican organization, not only in Wisconsin, but throughout the northwest, to capture control from the LaFollette followers.

In Wisconsin, the field is wide open for candidates to succeed to the seat which La Follette has held in the senate for 20 years. It is expected that La Follette's death will greatly improve the chances for re-election of Senator Irvine Lenroot, now the senior senator from Wisconsin, who is a strong supporter of the Coolidge administration. Governor John J. Blaine, of Wisconsin, a La Follette lieutenant, is known to have senatorial aspirations and would give Lenroot a stiff fight in the primaries.

Under the Wisconsin law, the man who is named to succeed La Follette can only serve until the elections of 1926. There were reports here today that the senator's widow, Mrs. Belle Case La Follette, who fought by his side through a dozen political campaigns, might be named by Governor Blaine to take his seat and finish up the odds and ends of his work left uncompleted at his death.

EIGHTEEN QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS IN SCHOOL BOARD DEBATE ON PLAN OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

The proposal of the Ministerial association to conduct classes in religious training in the public school buildings, starting next September, was explained by Rev. Dr. Frank G. Fowler in a series of answers to 18 question submitted by President J. H. Brookes, of the board of education, at last night's public hearing on the question.

Here are the questions asked by Mr. Brookes and the answers given by Dr. Fowler:

Q.—Does the Ministerial association that you represent consist of Protestant ministers only?

A.—To the best of my knowledge it does at the present time. I am not exactly certain though.

Q.—Well, the Ministerial association of East Liverpool now consists of Protestant ministers only, does it?

A.—To the best of my knowledge.

Q.—Who will compose the organization that you have spoken of to be known as The East Liverpool Council of Religious Education?

A.—Yes—any churches that want to come in and affiliate.

Q.—Will only Protestant churches be represented on this board?

A.—Not exactly so.

Q.—Do you know of anybody now desiring to join with you except Protestants?

A.—I don't know. I don't know who is with us or who is not.

Q.—Do you know of anybody interested in this matter except Protestants?

A.—No, I cannot say that I do.

Q.—What do you mean when you say that you expect to carry on religious instruction in the schools in a "co-operative way," quoting your statement in the newspaper the other night?

A.—Just what it says. Everybody who comes into the East Liverpool Council of Religious Education will co-operate in the work of religious education that is done in the city by way of teaching the Bible.

Q.—You would hardly expect the Catholics or Jews to join with you in this?

A.—They are certainly welcome.

Q.—You would hardly expect them, would you?

A.—It is a matter for them to determine. I am mighty sure that we would be very glad to have them.

Q.—You would not expect them to join in the method of teaching the Bible by a teacher in the employ of the association, would you?

A.—I will say this, Mr. Brookes, that we might as well recognize this now: If there is to be perfect harmony, we should recognize the fact that our teaching is not the same as the Jewish teaching. Our teaching is not the same as the Roman Catholic teaching, and I am sure that as far as representing my own attitude is concerned we would not want to teach the Catholics or the Jews—we have enough to do to convert our own people.

Q.—Are you asking for the use of the public school rooms in public school times with all facilities such as lighting, heating, supplies, janitor service and supervision of principal and superintendent?

A.—We are not asking for supervision of the superintendent or the principal. The superintendent will be a member of the council of religious education and will help to select the teacher and will also help to decide how much money is paid to the teacher. We are asking for the room. We assume that the room will already be heated. Therefore, we are not asking for any extra expenditures in this way. We assume that the same janitor service will take place whether we use the room or do not use it.

Q.—Do you expect to select, hire and pay these teachers from privately contributed funds?

A.—We do.

Ellsworth Rescues Polar Observers From Icy Waters.

LONDON, June 19.—Lieut. Lincoln Ellsworth, the Ohio aviator who accompanied Roald Amundsen in his attempt to fly to the North Pole, rescued two members of the expedition from drowning while Amundsen's plane was ice bound, Commander Christian Presturd, naval attache in London of the Norweigian goverument, declared here today. Prestrud was with Amundsen when he discovered the South Pole.

"I have not all of the details as yet of what happened during Amundsen's flight," Presturd said, "but I have heard a great deal of Ellsworth and his determination to reach the pole."

"I feel sure Ellsworth will work with Amundsen to start a new expedition, but probably the new expednton will be with an airship because, it seems to be, Amundsen has demonstrated the impracticability of aeroplanes flying to the Pole. An airship could not land at the Pole, but it could fly over it and make many observations, and possibly anchor over the Pole.

"You will hear more of Amundsen and Ellsworth. I am sure they have not finished with their ambition, and that they will yet reach the North Pole."

Rev. K. J. Stewart Will Preach in Bell School House

Rev. K. J. Stewart, pastor of the Yellow Creek and Long's Run Presbyterian churches, will preach in the Bell school house, seven miles north of here, at 8 o'clock Sunday night. Special music will be featured. The public is invited.

Dr. Tucker Scores Modernists In Closing Lecture On Bible

Tells Large Audience at First United Presbyterian Church That He Stands for Every Fundamental Part of Faith.

Declaring the Bible humanly unmakable, unbreakable and unshakable, Dr. Leon W. Tucker, of New York city, eloquently and unqualifiedly asserted its 66 books to be divinely inspired and without a doubt God's revelation to man in a farewell address at the United Presbyterian church Thursday evening that concluded a week's series of scriptural study under auspices of the First Baptist church.

Dr. Tucker unhesitatingly maintained that the greatest conrtibutors to lawlessness in the world were those who had sworn to proclaim, preach and expound its tenets and then denied the fundamentals of the doctrines which, he held, exuded from it. "I hold that this book of books is the conservator of all our liberties," he explained. "I believe it from cover to cover and stand for every fundamental part of our faith as against every mednernistic, nationalistic and materialistic fight that is now being waged against it."

Mayor Expresses Appreciation.

At the request of Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist church, Dr. Tucker spoke on "The Bible" instead of his announced subject of "Morals and Sex in the Light of God's Word."

In behalf of the First Baptist congregation, under whose auspices Dr. Tucker and party came to East Liverpool, Mayor Charles Brown voiced its appreciation at "being steeped in the facts of the book we all love," wished the party God-speed and expressed the hope it would return here soon again. "You have, all of you, made us feel that 'our Redeemer liveth,'" he said, "and, I am sure, will cause all of us to stand more firmly upon its truths."

Rev. O'Brien also spoke his appreciation of every member of the party and announced its tentative return to East Liverpool for a period, including two Sundays, in December, following which Dr. Tucker and his assistants will proceed to the Pacific coast

NEW ANTI-FOREIGN RIOTS BREAK OUT IN SHANGHAI AND CHUNG KING

Rioters Wreck British and Japanese Shops — General Strike Is Threatened in Canton.

LONDON, June 19.—New anti-foreign riots have broken out in Shanghai and Chung King and rioters have wrecked British and Japanese shops, according to dispatches reaching here today. A general strike was threatened for Canton.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Anti-foreign agitation is rapidly growing at Chung King, a port 1,500 miles up the Yangtse river from Shanghai, American Vice Consul Robert L. Smyth advised the state department today.

Three foreigners, a Britisher, Swede and Pole, have been severely beaten by mobs, Smyth reported, but there is no agitation at the present time against Americans.

The chief danger, the dispatch stated, is that General Yuan Tsu Ming's troops may assist the agitators.

The British consul has moved from the consulate in the city to a British gunboat in the river because of the forced desertion of his Chinese staff and servants as well as because the bitter anti-British feeling.

CHUNG KING, China, June 19. — The situation here has reached a point of grave danger for foreign residents.

All foreigners are preparing to take refuge on foreign war craft.

The British consulate has been evacuated. Foreigners have been stoned by mobs and anti-foreign feeling is at its height

PEKING, June 19.—With anti-British feeling apparently reaching new heights, responsible organizations were today going so far as to urge the Chinese government to sever relations with Great Britain and prepare to fight.

28 KILLED, HUNDREDS ARE INJURED AS TORNADO WIPES OUT VILLAGES

Shipping in Black Sea Harried by Storm Which Sweeps From Southern Siberian Province Along Coast

MOSCOW, June 19.—Twenty-eight persons were killed and hundreds injured in a tornado which wiped out two villages in the province of Altai, according to advices received here today.

Shipping in the Black sea also was harried by the storm, which swept from the southern Siberian province along the coast.

Snow covered northern Russia for the first time in a century in June as an aftermath of the southern storm.

Croxall Dump Fire Sends Smoke Screen Over Downtown Zone

Sections of Dresden avenue, West Eighth street, West Ninth street, and other adjoining thoroughfares were hidden behind a smoke screen for more than two hours last night, as a result of fire breaking out in the Croxall dump, Claiborne avenue.

Firemen were called about 10 o'clock and kept a stream of water on the blaze for about two and one half hours before it was extinguished. The fire is said to have been started by persons living near the dump.

Harry F. Sinclair Wins Decision in Teapot Dome Case

CHEYENNE, Wyo., June 19.—The Teapot Dome naval oil reserve lease granted Harry F. Sinclair by former Secretary of the Interior A. B. Fall was secured without conspiracy or fraud. This decision was rendered by Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy in district court here today in a lengthy opinoin in the equity suit wherein the United States government sought to annul the lease Sinclair has on the $50,000,000 Wyoming naval oil field.

West Virginian Guilty of Attack Upon Girl, Aged 10

William E. Straight, 58, Mannington, faces a penitentiary sentence of from five to twenty years, following his conviction in Fairmont, W. Va., late last night upon a charge of criminally assaulting 10-year-old Edna May Reed, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Lawrence Reed, of Mannington, formerly of Newell and East Liverpool.

Straight was arrested following his alleged attack upon the child on Memorial day. The case went to the jury Thursday morning. The jury recommended mercy.

Judge L. S. Schwenk will pronounce sentence at the close of the present term of court.

TRIBUTE PAID LAFOLLETTE IN FLOWER-FILLED CAPITAL HOME

Senator's Body Will Be Taken Today to Madison.

SIMPLE FUNERAL

Burial Will Be Made in Wisconsin on Monday.

By KENNETH CLARK.

WASHINGTON, June 19. — Away from the strive of politics, away from the scenes of his greatest triumps, away from the worries and toils of a swift-moving world, Senator Robert Marion La Follette, of Wisconsin, will be taken today.

And he goes, as he said just before his death, "At peace with all the world," and "with love in my heart for all the people which sustained me throughout life."

But before he is carried away for the last time to Madison, Wisconsin, he will lie quietly in that little home in Wyoming avenue where, with a smile on his lips, and surrounded by those dearest to him—his family—he closed his eyes in eternal sleep.

There he will pause for a brief few hours that the people he loved and for whom he fought for so many years might pay final tribute to his memory.

Grief in Flower-Filled Home.

And to him these people came throughout the long, hot day. They were of all sorts, rich and poor, high official and clerk, one in grief at the passing of this dynamic little man who for more than three decades had been so prominently known in the national political arena.

They came to express condolences to the widow and the two sons and two daughters, and to pause a moment before the unpretentious coffin that held his mortal remains. There was grief, deepest grief, in the little flower-filled home, but for all, it seemed as if "Dad," as they always called him, had laid down to rest and had fallen asleep, and the whisperings and tip-toeing were that he should not be awakened.

They were a brave lot—his family, and they bore up well under the terrific strain. For weeks they had gone

WIDOW MAY GET SENATE PLACE

LaFollette's Death Probably Means Third Party's Collapse

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The political consequences of the death of Senator LaFollette will be far-reaching.

In the opinion of Republican and Democratic leaders here his removal from the American political scene at this time will mean:

1—The collapse of the independent third party movement which LaFollette started a year ago

2—The crumbling of the little bloc of insurgents in the senate, and

3—An opportunity for the regular Republican organization, not only in Wisconsin, but throughout the northwest, to capture control from the LaFollette followers.

In Wisconsin, the field is wide open for candidates to succeed to the seat which La Follette has held in the senate for 20 years. It is expected that La Follette's death will greatly improve the chances for re-election of Senator Irvine Lenroot, now the senior senator from Wisconsin, who is a strong supporter of the Coolidge administration. Governor John J. Blaine, of Wisconsin, a La Follette lieutenant, is known to have senatorial aspirations and would give Lenroot a stiff fight in the primaries.

Under the Wisconsin law, the man who is named to succeed La Follette can only serve until the elections of 1926. There were reports here today that the senator's widow, Mrs. Belle Case La Follette, who fought by his side through a dozen political campaigns, might be named by Governor Blaine to take his seat and finish up the odds and ends of his work left uncompleted at his death.

EIGHTEEN QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS IN SCHOOL BOARD DEBATE ON PLAN OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

The proposal of the Ministerial association to conduct classes in religious training in the public school buildings, starting next September, was explained by Rev. Dr. Frank G. Fowler in a series of answers to 18 question submitted by President J. H. Brookes, of the board of education, at last night's public hearing on the question.

Here are the questions asked by Mr. Brookes and the answers given by Dr. Fowler:

Q.—Does the Ministerial association that you represent consist of Protestant ministers only?

A.—To the best of my knowledge it does at the present time. I am not exactly certain though.

Q.—Well, the Ministerial association of East Liverpool now consists of Protestant ministers only, does it?

A.—To the best of my knowledge.

Q.—Who will compose the organization that you have spoken of to be known as The East Liverpool Council of Religious Education?

A.—Yes—any churches that want to come in and affiliate.

Q.—Will only Protestant churches be represented on this board?

A.—Not exactly so.

Q.—Do you know of anybody now desiring to join with you except Protestants?

A.—I don't know. I don't know who is with us or who is not.

Q.—Do you know of anybody interested in this matter except Protestants?

A.—No, I cannot say that I do.

Q.—What do you mean when you say that you expect to carry on religious instruction in the schools in a "co-operative way," quoting your statement in the newspaper the other night?

A.—Just what it says. Everybody who comes into the East Liverpool Council of Religious Education will cooperate in the work of religious education that is done in the city by way of teaching the Bible.

Q.—You would hardly expect the Catholics or Jews to join with you in this?

A.—They are certainly welcome.

Q.—You would hardly expect them, would you?

A.—It is a matter for them to determine. I am mighty sure that we would be very glad to have them.

Q.—You would not expect them to join in the method of teaching the Bible by a teacher in the employ of the association, would you?

A.—I will say this, Mr. Brookes, that we might as well recognize this now: If there is to be perfect harmony, we should recognize the fact that our teaching is not the same as the Jewish teaching. Our teaching is not the same as the Roman Catholic teaching, and I am sure that as far as representing my own attitude is concerned we would not want to teach the Catholics or the Jews—we have enough to do to convert our own people.

Q.—Are you asking for the use of the public school rooms in public school times with all facilities such as lighting, heating, supplies, janitor service and supervision of principal and superintendent?

A.—We are not asking for supervision of the superintendent or the principal. The superintendent will be a member of the council of religious education and will help to select the teacher and will also help to decide how much money is paid to the teacher. We are asking for the room. We assume that the room will already be heated. Therefore, we are not asking for any extra expenditures in this way. We assume that the same janitor service will take place whether we use the room or do not use it.

Q.—Do you expect to select, hire and pay these teachers from privately contributed funds?

A.—We do.

JAZZ OPERA OF FUTURE, IS KAHN'S BELIEF

Banker Ready to Produce it as National Duty.

SON IS STUDENT

New Yorker Prophesies While he Visits in England.

LONDON, June.—Otto Kahn, famous banker, has been prophesying, while in England, regarding the future of music, and also of his son.

"Jazz is going to be the music of the future,' said Kahn, as reported in an English newspaper. "I will go further and say that jazz is going to be the opera of the future. If any composer can come to me with a well-developed jazz opera I will produce it at the Metropolitan opera house as a national duty."

Kahn, after publication of the interview, wrote to the newspaper complaining that it had misinterpreted the spirit of the interview.

"America," continued the banker, "has only produced two great national inspirations. One of these is the sky-scraper, the other is jazz music.

"I was brought up in Germany in an atmosphere of music. I have loved it all my life, but the first music that I learned to love was that of Wagner and the other great classical masters of the past. When I went to live in America and became naturalized there, my son showed the same love for music that I had shown, but, because he was in different surroundings, his appreciation of the art developed along different lines. He is American and imbued with all that is finest in America. He knew the hurry and bustle of American life, and that became manifest in his music. It was not the classical musical mind that he developed but the jazz mind.

Vinorously Alive.

"It is true for the moment that musical expression called jazz is imperfect and spotted with crudities, but yet it is vigorously alive and characteristically novel. It will bear its fruit and, to my mind, will be the music of the future.

"For this I am anxious that my son should go to those schools of thought where classical music is still predominant. I, therefore, suggested that he should come to Europe and study in Rome and Paris, where he will find himself up against something entirely new.

"What will be the result? Surely a combination of what is best in the old and in the new. From that experience I am certain he will discover the jazz of the future.

"At the moment he is playing in a hotel in New York. I was not keen on his playing in public at first, but now his jazz band has become the second finest jazz band in the world. He can play every instrument in his orchestra and is a clever and accomplished musician.

"Opera is languishing because new blood has not ben put into it. And there is a point to be noted. No foreign composer has ever been able to copy jazz. It is a thing of its own. It is America's peculiar form of self-expression, just as the skyscraper has been her form of producing wonderful architectural structures.

Yankee Tang.

"A first-rate jazz band, or a first-rate Broadway revue or musical comedy, with its swiftly rushing pace, the spontaneous grace, zest and swing of its dancing, the tang of its humor, the kaleidoscope of its color, the hustling, palpitating rhythm of its orchestra; have more claim to be ranked as an approximation to American art than a savorless grand opera composed with painstaking erudition and technical impeccability after the model of Wagner, Debussy and Strauss.

"Jazz will have to pure itself from crudities. It will have to frown upon vulgarity. It will have to eliminate, not humor, but clowning. It will have to aim, as some of its leaders do, at evolution from its present stage. We should try to help to hasten that process.

"Instead of turning up our noses at jazz, in superior musical virtue, we ought to take the attitude of spurring it on with friendly interest."

Officials of United States Lighthouse Service Face Task

HONOLULU, Hawaii, June — Officials of the United States lighthouse service here have a task of almost herculean proportions in store for them this summer in the establishment of an automatic light on the bleak rock of Kaula.

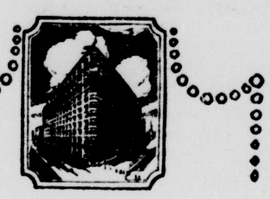

So far as known, only one white man has been on this rock, which is about 550 feet high at its greatest elevation. The lighthouse service will rely mainly on the natives to carry out the project.

A native legend relates that a shark god lives in a huge cave below the rock. Before the natives will trust themselves in the water roundabout, they consult the shark god. If they find that he is favorably inclined, they are then not afraid to leap into the water and swim about the place.

Crowds of merrymakers at recent race meets in Ireland have caused the prediction that Ireland has come back to her old life again.

One-fourth of the people of Mexico now are able to read and write.

Dodging Progress

Is about the hardest thing we know of. Did you read of the famous novelist who buried himself in the wilds last year in order to escape the radio? Well, it seems that same chap has become a radio "bug" now. Says "it's the most enjoyable hobby ever devised, and helps him immensely to keep "in tune" for his work.

Every forward step brings its momentary objections from some quarters. "Old-timers" may recall with what pessimism some merchants regarded the transition of the department store from a mere place of barter, to the semi-public institution it is today.

Vacation Time! Ogilvie's Is the Center of Vacation Preparations

Dodging Progress

Is about the hardest thing we know of. Did you read of the famous novelist who buried himself in the wilds last year in order to escape the radio? Well, it seems that same chap has become a radio "bug" now. Says "it's the most enjoyable hobby ever devised, and helps him immensely to keep "in tune" for his work.

Every forward step brings its momentary objections from some quarters. "Old-timers" may recall with what pessimism some merchants regarded the transition of the department store from a mere place of barter, to the semi-public institution it is today.

The Stout Woman of Today

May be graceful and well-poised. Her clothes can fit her correctly and her figure neat and trim. But to look just right she should wear a Rengo Belt Reducing Corset.

If you are taking on weight and wish to retain your former grace of figure you can realize your desire by wearing a properly fitted Rengo Belt.

The special steelastic webbing belt over the too-prominent abdomen holds it flat and the the reinforced back and sides straighten and slenderize the hips. It corrects the abdominal and hip lines in the stout figure, yet gives a degree of ease and freedom which must be experienced to be appreciated.

The Rengo Belt Reducing Corset has a famous seventeen years reputation for long service and wearing qualities. They are sensible and hygenic.

An attractive figure is not a matter of size—it is a matter of correct proportions. Rengo Belt Reducing Corsets, through proper proportioning give the wearer an appearance of slenderness.

Age holds no tremors for the woman who moulds her figure with one of these corsets. She is assured that she will retain her graceful figure and dignity of carriage.

They are designed for comfort and style. All the beautiful contours of the body are retained and any ugly lines are made lovely to wearers of Rengo Belt Reducing Corsets.

Poker Player's Alibi Fails to Deceive Missouri Jurist

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June—Judge Ira Gardner, of the South Side Municipal Court here, does not admit being a poker player, but he does know his Hoyle, it was revealed when R. A. McCaskill pleaded he had been playing pitch and not poker.

"You don't play pitch with five cards in your hand," Judge Gardner told R. A. McCaskill. "It sounds more like poker to me."

McCaskill protested that the five-card hand was the result of a misdeal, but the judge only smiled and assessed a fine.

Predict Record Attendance At National Educators' Meet

Nationally Known Instructors Gather in June in Indianapolis Educational Convention.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June.—Predictions were made freely today that the annual convention of the National Education Association, to be held, starting June 28, will attract a record-breaking attendance from all over the country.

The tentative program outlined by J. E. Morgan, editor of the Journal of the National Education association, while on a visit here recently from Washington in connection with the convention, is unusually attractive and calls for the appearance of nationally known educators.

Unless preliminary plans are changed, the convention will be opened formally with a vesper service on the north steps of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument on the afternoon of Sunday, June 28, with Robert J. Aley, president of Butler college and an ex-president of the National Education association, presiding.

The first general gathering of the association will be held on the evening of the opening day, when James J. Tagert, United States Commissioner of Education, is slated to deliver an address on "The Faith of the American People in Public Education." Then will come more talks by leaders in the educational field of the United States on "New World Movement in Education."

Meetings of the forty departments of the association and their allied groups will be held each afternoon, at which questions pertaining to their own work will be discussed.

National figures in the educational world who will address the convention during the week include: Jesse H. Newlon, superintendent of the public schools at Denver, Col.; James A. Drain, national commander of the American Legion, Glen Frank, editor of the Century magazine; and W. P. Deering, president of Oakland City college and also president of the Indiana State Teachers' association.

Advance reservation for hotel accommodations during the convention already have started coming in.

"Fighting Bob" LaFollette

Friends and foes today paid tribute to the memory of Senator Robert Marion La Follette, the fiery independent Republican from Wisconsin, whose death occurred in Washington yesterday. And although thousands of Americans were unable to subscribe to his political and economical policies, the nation as a whole mourns the loss of a man whose potency was never denied.

"Fighting Bob," as he said just before his death, goes to his eternal reward "at peace with all the world and with love in my heart for all the people which sustained me throughout life."

Although he was the favorite son of Wisconsin, where he lost but one political battle, Senator La Follette probably died a disappointed man, for his last great effort, the independent campaign for the presidency in 1924, was a setback. While Mr. La Follette probably never expected to win the national race, he was saddened by the poor showing his independent party made in the battle in which he carried only his home state.

Despite the fact that he was the leader of a minority in the senate—a group that not infrequently was a thorn in the side of the majority—Senator La Folloette essayed an important role in his 40 years in politcal life. And many of his warmest friends were men whose policies he fought.

And his death means not only the loss of a powerful factor in Wisconsin politics, but also the recognized leader of the so-called third party movement.

China For The Chinese

The civilized western powers are growing very indignant at China, apparently because China has the nerve to take "self-determination" seriously.

Stupid old China doesn't get it through her head that while those powers are quite serious about self-determination, that commodity is intended primarily for the west, and very little if at all for the east. Particularly it is not intended for the yellow race, at least for the Chinese branch of that race.

Asiatics are presumptuous when they venture to assert their own rights, politically or economically. Japan is treated more nearly as an equal, but that is because Japan has always stood up for her rights and compelled recognition.

It is bad business, of course, this latest Chinese outbreak against "foreign devils" and their property. It is reminiscent of the Boxer troubles. But to a fair-minded Caucasian, even that Boxer Rebellion was a fairly natural reaction to foreign contempt and aggression.

The Chinese are patient and peace-loving more than most races. But there is a limit to their patience and pacifism. Their rights have been very slightly considered in any of the recent international gatherings in which they have participated. They have had opium forced on them against their will, for many years. They have had their seaports occupied, their resources seized, exploited, their dignity flouted. They have seen China regarded by the "modern nations," including Japan, as a great carcass, with every other nation eager to hack out a piece for itself. Indignation grows slowly, but now and then it has to break out.

The obvious leaders in outrages against foreigners are often, no doubt, adventurers and brigands rather than patriots, and their trained followers are often mercenaries who will serve any cause for pay. But there is a spirit back of them, and upholding their aggressive action, which the western powers would do well to take seriously. It is the Chinese dragon's way of protesting. And if baited too far, that dragon may writhe and lash around and breathe fire and smoke. If a great "yellow peril" develops, it will be the fault of the western powers.

Married Men's Minds

The married man has been having so much the best of it in public esteem in these latter years that perhaps the single man deserves an inning. He gets it, in a statement from a big Chicago taxicab owner.

"When we first hired men," he says, "we always insisted on married men, preferably those with children, believing they would be more careful and conservative. We have found, however, that single men are generally more satisfactory, and have concluded that married men, with more on their minds, are less likely to give undivided attention to the work."

Married men, indeed, usually have "more on their minds." But who would have thought that the supposedly erratic and irresponsible young bachelors would make more trustworthy automobile drivers than the heads of families?

If this is true of driving, it may be true of many less exciting and exacting occupations. Father had better get his mind on the job.

"Thus far," writes the German chancellor, "the formula of disarmament under the treaty of Versailles has led not to the pacification of Europe, but rather in the opposite direction." Still, we haven't seen much fighting in Europe since that treaty was made—nothing but arguing, which isn't near so fatal.

Having outlawed poison gas, when will that Geneva disarmament conference get around to suppressing poison booze?

"Vacation" means by derivation an "empty" period. And yet vacationers try to crowd a whole year's physical activity into it.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 19. — Thoughts while strolling around New York: Afternoon tea crowds. Heavy lashed eyes and shingled necks. Modern Becky Sharpe in a modern Vanity Fair. Whatever became of the croak-anole craze? Life seems to suave and easy.

After all life is a great adventure and I'm glad I sneaked in on it. Leisured patrons of the arts. Going to the galleries. An abandoned block in the Sixties. Mellow brick walls. And sunken plastered niches. A block away a dance hall teaches the Charleston.

Elsie Janis and, of course, her mother. And why not? The yard wherein Andrew Carnegie used to stroll. A shaggy pup asleep with a rag doll. Wonder if that policeman is rushing after me. No, he wants a match. I'll never get over my fear of police.

Across town to upper Broadway. The cheerful hubbub of children at play. Window pots. Drowsy mothers in camp chairs. Sidewalk hop-scotch. Ruddy cheeked green grocers who wear aprons. And know their customers by name. Barber shop loafers.

Firemen tilted back in their chairs. Looks like an easy life. But, O, my! in the winter time. The Yankee Stadium. Where Sunday had his tabernacle. And what has become of Billy? Congestion begins to thin. Store keepers sit out front.

The West Indians playing cricket in Van Cortland Park. And running elevators at night. The cranes in the pond. Artists sketching at their easels. Men sleeping under newspapers and women working cross-word puzzles.

And here I am out in the country. The old Post Road where coaches rumbled and whips cracked. Tankards of ale. Open fireplaces. Rounds of beef, hustling post boys and snug inns with deep feather beds. And now back to the chain store existence.

It has been definitely established that Sydney Porter picked up the pseudonym O. Henry in New Orleans when the New York writer was hibernating there to flee to Honduras from the law. One of the drinking places frequented by the writers had a drink dispenser named Henry. When he was wanted it was natural to call out "Oh, Henry!" Porter was there one night with a new manuscript. For obvious reasons he did not want to sign his own name. He asked for suggestions and then called out "Oh, Henry!" to stand treat while they thought the matter over. "Why not O. Henry?" said one. And O. Henry it was.

A stray little green Carolina parakeet flew into New York, broke into nearly all the first pages and winged its way out again. It happened to alight in that small mid-town breathing spot—Bryant Park. There are more sparrows there than jobless men. Somehow the parakeet aroused their ire and they swooped en masse. Two policemen went to the rescue and drove the sparrows off. The parakeet flew off with two tiny green feathers fluttering away as a signal of Manhattan's inhospitality.

Edna Ferber, Fannie Brice and Bebe Daniels are among the New York celebrities to have their noses bobbed—or straightened. It is now threatening to become a fad like appendicitis operations a few years ago. Two leading men, following Dempsey's example, are now in hospitals for the same purpose. And a young lady to be starred in pictures has it in her contract that she must have a nasal bump removed before she can begin working.

Calumet has more friends than any of the other brands on the market today—women who after one trial found that for uniform, wholesome bakings it has no equal.

Don't forget that a few cents worth of unreliable baking powder can ruin several dollars worth of other ingredients used in baking. Use the best and know what the results will be.

Federal Survey Shows Trend Upward and "Quite Satisfactory."

WASHINGTON, June 19. — Industrial employment is "quite satisfactory" throughout the country, the United States employment service announced today in making public a survey of working conditions during May.

"The upward trend noted in employment in April was sustained," the report said. "This increase is not large, but it is gratifying to note that there is no great amount of unemployment apparent in any section of the country."

Noting further curtailment of bituminous coal mining during the past 30 days, the report said that a number of mines were entirely closed and that many of those still open were operating on a two or three-day per week basis, while a number of the miners had found employment on road construction and seasonal farm work.

The iron and steel industry slightly curtailed operations in some plants last month, causing a decrease in the number of employes, but with few exceptions textile mills operated on a satisfactory schedule.

"The encouraging feature of this report," said Francis I. Jones, director of the employment service, "is that the automotive industry is adding to its working forces.

"The increase demand for all classes of farm labor in practically every state is affording emplyoment to large numbers of men, while some localities report a shortage of skilled agricultural help.

"There is no apparent let-up in building construction work, and all building tradesmen are able to find employment. The building of state and county roads is now well under way, and is affording a large amount of employment."

Q. Where did President Harding help harvest wheat in the summer of 1923? D. H.

A. President Harding went into the wheat fields near Hutchinson, Kansas, which is in the south central part of the state, on June 23, 1923. He had a binder and shocked a few sheathes on a hundred acre wheat field known as the Chester O'Neil farm.

Q. Why was Portsmouth, New Hampshire, chosen for the Russian-Japanese conference in 1905? O. L.

A. The naming of Portsmouth, New Hampshire, by President Roosevelt as the place where the conference between envoys of Russia and Japan for the framing of a peace treaty should take place, was on account of climatic conditions. The conference took place in the summer and it was judged that less hardship would be entailed through hot weather at this place than some others which were named.

Q. When will the Welland Canal be finished? F. T.

A. The completion of this ship canal is due in 1929. Its estimated cost is approximately $106,000,000.

Q. Why is an after dinner speech called a toast? A. S. T.

A. The origin of the term is somewhat doubtful. An old practice was to hand around a cup of wine in which each guest dipped his piece of bread or toast while wishing good health or good luck to the owner of the cup.

Q. What were the swords made of that were used in the conquest of Canaan by the Twelve Tribes? F. I. M.

A. The swords mentioned in the Scriptures had blades of iron.

Q. In England is the word government followed by a singular or a plural verb? D. A. C.

A. They were Chao Chun, "the most virtuous." Hsi Shih, "the most beautiful;" Tiao Chan, "the most patriotic" and Yong Kuei-fei, "the most artful."

Q. When were diamonds first discovered in Brazil? G. W. D.

A. They were discovered in 1720. In the following 10 years stones totaling 200,000 carats, were found. It has been estimated that the total yield of the Brazilian field from its discovery to the present time is well over 15,000,000 carats.

Q. In the heyday of Volga river traffic how many barges (freight carriers) plied the river? C. M. E.

Q. There were approximately 25,000. By 1922, however, they were said to be not more than 5,000.

Q. Did the United States government ever make a $3 paper bill? W. H. T.

A. The United States government has never issued three dollar bills. State bank notes were issued before June 3, 1864, when the state banking system went into effect. Large concerns, banking houses, produce dealers, etc., issued notes of all denominations, and they are of no value today, as far as the government is concerned. They were redeemed only by the concern by which they were issued.

SHEPHERD CASE STAR FUMBLES

State's Evidence in "Germ Murder" Shows Signs of Crumbling

CHICAGO, June 19. — The state's carefully built case against William D. Shepherd, alleged murderer of his foster son, William Nelson McClintock, shows signs of crumbling today as its star, Charles C. Faiman, openly admitted he was confused by the hammering cross-examination of the defense.

To refute his testimony given on direct examination, the defense repeatedly confronted the witness with contradictory evidence he had given at the bail hearing, until Faiman, not so dapper as he had appeared when he first took the stand, sought refuge in spaarring.

"I'm confused," he said in answer to William S. Stewart's rapid fire of questions.

"Of course, you are," answered Stewart in a tone of mock solicitude.

gines—the combustion engine being "too inefficient."

The west coast of South America has recently known torrential downpours in places where rain had been unknown for generations. Scientists attributes the change in weather to the Humboldt current, said to have wandered from its course, several miles out into the Pacific and away from the coast.

Earnest Florida real estaters are even guessing that perhaps the Humboldt current, moving out, will take Southern California's champion current away with it and leave Florida the only "winter climate." Needless to say, this does not worry California.

Redwood trees, older than Christianity, stand as proof that California is fair and not fickle. This is a good place to say that, in addition to being a perfect winter resort, California is the ideal summer resort—all things to all men, in all seasons.

In New Jersey primaries the "dry" Republican wins the nomination from the "wet" Republican. So far, prohibition wins.

The decision will come on election day, when the "dry" Republican meets a "wet" Democrat. Since Governor Edwards became Democratic governor on his promise to make New Jersey as wet as the Atlantic ocean, New Jersey's Democracy has been the wettest party in the country.

Senator La Follette is reported dangerously ill. That news will grieve even his enemies, that tried to drive him out of his party.

You admire real courage, even when you hate a man for disturbing your plans. There is no more courageous man than La Follette in public life.

China, huge dinosaur of the east, continues to take seriously her right to manage her own affairs. Crowds mob foreign policemen, 14,000 students demand that China break off diplomatic relations with England. And, England, bothered by the Shanghai strike that ties up shipping, is inclined to make any reasonable arrangement.

It pays to assert yourself, if you can follow it up.

On our side of the Pacific, Senator Borah, head of the committee on foreign affairs, declares that Uncle Sam should mind his own business and let China mind hers. He would have the United States give up all claim to special privileges on Chinese soil.

Eighteen Questions

Q.—If so, who is to determine the doctrines they shall teach?

A.—I cannot say absolutely, but I can answer it from my own standpoint, that they themselves will determine the doctrine they will teach.

Q.—You say, then, that the teachers who come in will teach their own doctrines?

A.—Yes, if we hire a teacher we turn them loose—we would not dictate to them what they should teach.

Q.—Will they be subject to the orders of the board of education, or to the orders of you who employ them, in what they teach?

A.—Well, I would say, Mr. Brookes, that they would be subject to the orders of the committee of the Council of Religious Education who has employed them.

Q.—And not to the orders of the school board?

A.—If you continue president of the board of education, you would be a member of this council. The superintendent of the schools would certainly be a member.

Q.—Suppose he did not want to be, what then?

A.—Of course, he could not be forced to be.

Q.—Do you expect to pay anything for the use of the school rooms and the facilities you ask?

A.—No, sir, we do not expect to pay.

Q.—You realize, of course that these school rooms are heated, lighted and supervised at the expense of the general taxpayers?

A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You do not expect to pay any part of that?

A.—Well, we are the taxpayers, are we not—a part of them?

Q.—But you do not expect to pay?

A.—Well, no.

Q.—Will the teachers you employ hold teachers' certificates issued by authority of the state of Ohio?

A.—Not exactly from my standpoint. Unless the superintendent would require it for religious education state certificates would not be required. Of course, some of the teachers might hold life certificates

Failure to Use Auto "Dimmers" is Blamed for Death

CINCINNATI, June 19. — The failure of another motorist to use his "dimmers" is said to have caused an automobile accident in which one man was killed and five other persons injured near Dent, O., early today. Charles Hirsch, 28, a chauffeur, was driving the auto which was wrecked. Hirsch was blinded by the lights of an approaching machine and lost control of his car which swerved from the road. Frederick Bauersfeld, 40, was dead when taken from the wreckage. His wife, Mrs. Hannah Bauersfeld, 38, and son, Charles, 18; Margaret Rapp, 14; Joe Kramer, 31, and Hirsch were injured. Kramer is expected to die and Mrs. Bauersfeld is seriously hurt.

Q.—Well, then, the teachers will not necessarily hold certificates issued by the state of Ohio?

A.—Not necessarily. As I said before, they may hold life certificates, I don't know.

Q.—The board of education and the superintendent have something to say about teachers being employed in the school who do not hold certificates issued by authority of the state.

A.—Well, of course, there is still to be an interpretation of that law. The plan that we are suggesting is already in operation in more than one city in the state.

Q.—That is, in Ashtabula, where you came from a few months ago—you helped to put it in operation there?

A—I did. It is in operation at Marietta and out of 1770 children last year 1735 were taking the course.

Q.—Will these teachers teach the Bible as recognized and approved by Protestant churches only?

A.—I would say so.

Q.—They will not, then, teach such versions of the Bible as are approved and believed by the Roman Catholics and Jews?

A.—We decided on that question a while ago—that the teaching is so different—we would teach the Protestant version only.

Q.—The Protestants are pretty well divided on certain questions. Would you teach the fundamental version or the liberal?

A.—Well, they are getting together now. It won't be long until they are united.

Q.—What will they teach—will they teach the Divine birth or will they teach the liberal version?

A.—Well, of course, that will all be settled. If the teacher was a fundamentalist I suppose he would teach that version. If he was a liberal I suppose he would teach his views. That will all be taken care of.

Q.—Are you expecting the school authorities to grade and give credit in Bible instruction as a basis for promotion?

A.—We would—that is, the teacher in religious instruction would grade the work the same as any other teacher. The matter of credits would be determined by the superintendent of the schools, I suppose.

Q. Then do you mean that promotions would be made in our schools upon the recommendations of your teachers who did not have state certificates?

A.—I think, Mr. Brookes, that all that would be worked out by the committee—worked out splendidly.

Q.—You know that we shall have approximately five thousand pupils next year—how many of these do you expect to reach with religious instruction during the school term?

A.—It will all depend upon how many teachers we could afford to employ—how much we raise in employing teachers. If we can employ only one teacher the probabilities are that we will not be able to reach more than three grades. If we employ two teachers we may be able to reach all the grades.

Q.—How many teachers do you expect to employ?

A.—At the present time we have only one teacher in mind.

Q.—Will you give me the names of any ministers whom you have not consulted or any who have not fully agreed as to the wisdom of the move?

A.—Now, I don't think that is quite a fair question because there are some of our ministers that are not decided as yet.

Q.—How many ministers are not decided?

A.—I would not be able to tell you the exact number.

Q.—Well, approximately?

A.—I think every man should speak for himself.

Q.—You could tell me how many surely?

A.—Well, I don't know exactly.

Q.—We want to know whether this is unanimous or not?

A.—It is fairly unanimous.

Q.—Are there any of the Protestant ministers who are not in accord with you?

A.—I would not say so. Three-fourths of them are anyway.

Q.—Have you approached the Catholics and Jewish people in an effort to agree upon some plan of Bible instruction that might be acceptable to all?

A.—I have talked with Leon Rubin. He is the only member of the Jewish brethren that I have talked to. I also talked with Father Walsh—I think that is his name—the name of the new Catholic priest here. Those are the only men to whom I have talked on the subject.

Q.—What does Father Walsh say about it?

A.—Father Walsh thinks that religious education ought to be carried to all children without question, but as I naturally expected his judgment is that it ought to be carried as it was last winter—away from the schools.

Q.—If you were granted the right by this board to teach the Protestant version of the Bible in the public schools, can we refuse the Catholic and Jewish people the same privilege?

A.—No more than you can refuse us.

Q.—Then if the parochial school down here on Fifth street would require more room, and it is growing, are you willing that this board shall set apart to the parochial school one or more rooms of the public school buildings where they may instruct [illegible] in Bible instruction [illegible] teachers?

A.—I am agreed.

take the care of the child out of the control of the parent.' This is an argument in favor of our plan. No one should object when this course will be available only upon the request of the parents."

Dr. Rich's Argument.

"Dr. Rich then took the floor to express his opposition to the proposal.

"One of the basic principles of the constitution of the United States is to keep the church and state separate,' said the speaker. "No one objects to the plan of releasing the children and permitting them to go to their churches for this study. But this year they want it different. They seek to transfer this course of study from the church to the schools. This is not a step forward—it's a step backward. The public schools are not Protestant schools, not Catholic schools or not Jewish schools. They are built and supported from taxation levied upon people of all creeds. To use public funds to teach religion in American institutions is wrong.'

At this point Dr. Rich stated that he had sent inquiries to more than 50 Ohio cities and towns asking for information concerning religious education. Three cities replied that the classes were meeting in the schools; three others stated that the course was given in the high school only and one other stated that the course was given in such rooms only where the children were unanimous in their request for it. The others, 41 in number, do not have the instruction at all or have a plan whereby the children are dismissed to go to their churches once each week.

"We have been facing a financial crisis lately but this situation is far more important than the matter of finances, in my opinion,' continued Dr. Rich. "I am not opposed to religious education but I am opposed to using the school buildings for such a course. It would be class legislation and would not hold before the courts. This is a country ruled by a majority with protection for the minority. It would be a step backward and I appeal to the board not to grant this request.

Attorney J. H. Brookes Speaks.

Attorney Jason H. Brookes, president of the school board, next took the floor.

"I can speak impartially on this question," he said, "for I am a member in good standing of a Protestant church. I feel as a Protestant that this is a step in the wrong direction. Our schools are opened each morning with the reading of the Bible and the repeating of the Lord's prayer. We recognize the importance of the Bible instruction for those who want it, and last year dismissed the children electing this course to go to their churches for one hour each week.

"You want to use school property built by Protestant, Jew, Catholic and unbeliever and maintained by the same persons for the teaching of the Protestant religion. This would be a violation of the constitution.

"You would be using a teacher for these classes who may not hold a teacher's certificate. This the state absolutely prohibits. Every teacher must hold a certificate. I have been opposed to this plan, am now and always will be."

Here Mr. Brookes quoted a ruling handed down by the Ohio supreme court many years ago in a case arising in Cincinnati, in which the presiding judge held that it was a violation for religion to be taught in the public schools.

Rev. F. A. Dean's Inquiry.

Rev. Frederick A. Dean, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, pointed out that in Van Wert, religious education classes were meeting in the schools and asked if it was a violation there.

"It certainly is but no one has appeared to oppose it," was Mr. Brookes' reply.

"We all want to see the right thing done,' said Dr. Fowler, who again took the floor. "We all feel that religious education is needed but in the manner of giving it, we differ. Attorney General Crabbe's decision in this matter is not final. The decision of the supreme court is final only. Mr. Brookes lays emphasis on the letter of the law rather than the spirit of the law.

"We seek this change to make a better community and do not seek to convert any one. I would not oppose the parochial school, for there Catholics are taught their religion. I do not feel that you should oppose our plan which has for its aim the making of better citizens. The letter of the law does not cut much figure, it is the spirit of the law.

Lemuel Wasbutzky at this point asked Mr. Brookes how long he had been a resident of the city.

"All my life, practically," said Mr. Brookes.

"And you, Dr. Fowler?" asked Wasbutzky.

"Less than a year, but what difference does that make?"

"That's all I wanted to know," said Wasbutzky.

Patrick McNicol, former county commissioner and pottery manufacturer, was next given the privilege of the floor.

"Is it fair to give this instruction, when it is known that either the Jews nor the Catholics will attend?" he inquired.

"No, I don't think it is," said Mr. Brookes.

Solicitor Brokaw Present.

City Solicitor Harry Brokaw took the floor and, in referring to the law cited by Mr. Brookes, charged that he had not read the entire ruling. He asked that another section be read. Mr. Brookes handed him the book and asked that he read it himself.

Mr. Brokaw stated that the decision of the courts on this matter covered more than 50 printed pages. He, however, read one section in which entire jurisdiction in the matter was left with the board of education.

"I cite this ruling as the legal adviser of the board of education," said Mr. Brokaw.

"Do you think the schools can be legally used for the teaching of the Protestant religion?" asked Mr. Brookes.

"I do," he replied.

"Did the board of educatoin ask you for a ruling on this matter?" Mr. Brookes next inquired.

"I looked into the statutes upon request of one of its members."

"The board as a whole did not solicit your advice. When we want it we will call you," was Mr. Brookes' reply.

Hoots and jeers greeted this remark from President Brookes, who only smiled.

Four Members Silent.

D. F. White, R. W. Sample, F. T. Weaver and George M. Wilhelm, other members of the board, listened in on the arguments, but declined to say a word when given the privilege by Mr. Brookes, who presided.

The hearing then adjourned, the school board going into executive session in their quarters adjoining the superintendent's office.

The crowd lingered in the school lobby and about the building for nearly an hour afterwards in hopes that the board would immediately vote on the matter, but it was not until nearly the close of their meeting, which did not adjourn until 11 o'clock that it was decided to defer a vote until Mr. Crabbe had made his ruling.

Familiar Colors Lessen Sadness in Funeral of Today

YOUNGSTOWN, June 19.—Along with other things of a past age, the old type funeral, with its unique sadness and solemnity, is dead and buried, Roscoe T. Sharer, of Alliance, president of the Ohio Funeral Directors' association, told that body at its final session here today.

"Everything that made the old-time funeral something to be dreaded has been done away with," Sharer said.

"Lengthy services have been shortened. It is no longer necessary to bury men in a black suit or women in their wedding gowns, or a white dress of black silk.

"Now they are dressed in familiar colors, except the more brilliant ones."

where the winter months will be spent.

Announcement of the probable second visit to East Liverpool of the party moved the large audience in attendance to generous applause which caused Dr. Tucker to say: "Though we have more than 100 places asking for us at this time we shall do our best to come to you again about the time designated by Rev. Mr. O'Brien."

All the members of the musical trio made brief remarks before the meeting's close in which they thanked all whom they had met for the appreciation shown of their work while in the city and the friendships that had been formed.

Miss Evelyn McKee Coons, the brilliant young harpist of the party, modestly affirmed: "I praise God for having been here. I am very glad at the thought that some of my messages have made you closer to Him; they have me. Should any of you ever go to Long Beach, Cal.," she concluded, "I hope you will at least ask about me."

Miss Alice May Schmidt, the St. Louis member of the party, who sang herself into the hearts of her hearers from her first appearance here, declared: "I am, indeed, pleased to be here. I have counted it a privilege to be with you and, perchance, as best I could, lift you through the medium of song to any livelier appreciation of the Christian graces." And, seemingly mindful the spirit of one of her songs: "In the Land Where the Roses Never Fade," she said, "should we not meet again here, we shall in glory. I ask that you pray for me as I continue to do His will."

Miss Cora Belle Young, the exceptionally capable young violinist, was slightly handicapped by the noise of a passing car, but even those in the far rear managed to discern her conclusion: "There has been so much kindness shown us here that I appreciate it deeply," she said. "I praise God for all things that He has given me, and particularly any ability that is mine to use the violin in His service. I would rather play for folks like you than any in the world. I hope I shall be remembered in your prayers and that God will bless us as never before."

Party Is Applauded.

Spontaneous and generous applause broke out at the conclusion of the young people's remarks.

Dr. Tucker was equally appreciative of his visit to East Liverpool. "Should we come again we shall not have to put in any time getting acquainted, but just start in where we leave off now," he said. "You have been kind from Rev. O'Brien down. Particularly would I thank Mrs. A. G. Ellis for assisting from time to time with the piano, and the officers of this church for the use of this beautiful auditorium, which stands out as few that I have been in anywhere."

Before Dr. Tucker's discourse, Miss Allie May Schmidt, accompanied by Mrs. A. G. Ellis on the piano and Miss Young with the violin, sang "O, Bless My Soul," from the 103rd Psalm. Miss Young gave as a violin number, "Tell Mother I'll be There."

"The Bible is God's own word," said Dr. Tucker in his address. "He is the author of it from the beginning in Genesis to the Amen in Revelations. It is the product of His forethought. It is the only inspired volume in all the earth. God breathed in it the atmosphere and breath of God. It is wonderful in its inspiration, translation, salvation, preservation and consummation. Despite the apathy of the country and the din of the city the old book lives. It will always be what it is—the impregnable rock of the Holy Scriptures."

Dr. Tucker's lecture was exceedingly trite and rich in story and reminiscences bulwarked every stage of his tribute to the volume.

At the conclusion of Dr. Tucker's lecture Miss Schmidt, accompanied by Miss Adda McLean, United Presbyterian organist, sang the 91st Psalm by McDermid and Miss Young, by request, repeated on the violin "Tell Mother I'll Be There."

Miss Coons did not have her harp at the night service, it having been previously shipped so as to be available for the initial meeting at Hardy, Ark., on Sunday morning. Her mother Mrs. Jessie McKee Coons, promoter of prayer, and Miss Hellitzer, who had charge of the books and periodicals during the campaign, left the city by an earlier train and were not at the final service. They planned to rejoin the party en route.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. O'Brien, following which a reception was tendered the party in which well wishes were given and the adieus made.

The party left East Liverpool on the 10:20 East Liverpool-Steubenville traction line for the latter city, where connection was made with the St. Louis train which point will be reached at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. There a two-hour stop will enable the travelers to dine with the parents of Miss Schmidt, following which the journey southwest will be continued. They will remain one week in Arkansas and then begin a three weeks' vacation before resuming the fall campaign.

instructor in the commercial department of the high school, Miss Lillian Brookes as principal of the Trentvale school, Mrs. Lititia Campbell as principal of the Maplewood school and Miss Gladys Campbell as principal of the West End school. The following elementary teachers were also named: Elizabeth Coleman, Jane Davidson, Helen Hannahs, Margaret Birch, Sarah Blazer, Gladys Hunter, Irma Jones, Anna Johnston, Nancy McBane, Ruth Mauderbch, Ruth Sloan, Violet Vorndran, Mary Weaver, Ruth Willis and Julia Beck; substitutes, Ada Ketchum and Mayme Shepherd. Misses Hilda Goltz and Elizabeth Bloor were granted leaves of absence to attend normal school next year.

The action on the proposed fencing of Patterson Field was taken after Member George Wilhelm submitted figures showing the cost would be from $2,000 to $2,500. The board also discussed fencing two sides of the Glenmoor school lot, but decided to defer action until the owner of adjoining property could be interviewed in an effort to have him bear one half of the cost.

The board did not discuss the election of a superintendent. The question probably will come up at the special session next Friday evening.

Simplicity Will Mark Funeral.

La Follette always hated trappings and pomp and hypocrisy. He lived a fulsome life—three score and ten—of utmost simplicity.

In death, simplicity will mark his last journey homeward, and his funeral.

The funeral train, a special section of the Capital Limited of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, will leave Washington at 3 o'clock for Madison. The coffin will be placed on a simple catafalque in the observation car. The family will occupy compartments in the same car.

advices today. No land was sighted.

Amundsen plans, it was said, again to try to fly to the pole.

Details of Amundsen's daring trip were eagerly awaited by all Norway today. The news of his safety was received with rejoicing. National anthems were played in public places and crowds stood in the streets cheering.

There was much conjecture here today what Amundsen's conclusions will be as a result of his flight. He said he was not able to see many miles beyond the point where one of his aeroplanes was frozen in an ice lane. When he started on the return journey in the second plane, he said his "observation" indicated there was no land in the vicinity of the North Pole.

It is believed from preliminary reports which have come from him at King's Bay that he is convinced that on the Norwegian side of the polar regions there is nothing but ice and open water.

Ohio Power Company Employes' Outing At Pine Ridge Camp

East Liverpool and Wellsville employes of the Ohio Power company and members of their families will picnic at Pine Ridge, the Y. M. C. A. camp in Madison township, nine miles north of here, tomorrow.

The picnickers will leave the power company office here at 9 a. m., the majority of them making the trip by motor. Basket dinner and supper will be served. Between 75 and 100 guests are expected to attend.

No fixed program for the day has been arranged, but various sports will be featured. Arrangements have been made to use the camp lodge in the event of rain.

Mercer Funeral.

Funeral services for Jacob G. Mercer, 55 years old, a former resident of East Liverpool, who died in Buffalo, N. Y., were held this afternoon. Burial was made there.

What More Could You Ask?

The contractors offered the carpenters $10 a day, which is the scale they had been working under. The carpenters refused it.

The contractors pointed out that this was really an increase, as wages are going down in many industries. The carpenters still refused.

The contractors offered to submit the whole issue to arbitration. The carpenters refused.

The contractors offered to agree, on their part, not to have the arbitration board even consider wage reduction and not to reduce wages, even if an arbitration board should suggest it. Nothing could be fairer than that, but the carpenters still refused.

The contractors have suggested, advised, urged arbitration. Anything within reason to get the thing settled. The carpenters just go on refusing.

The carpenters are now going away and working elsewhere. They have tied up East Liverpool, they have caused considerable inconvenience to people who want to build, they have refused to lend a hand in working out a settlement. And now they go away, leaving things tied up. They cannot expect things to stay that way indefinitely.

What can the contractors do but bring in other carpenters and go on with the work? Ten dollars a day is a good wage. Lots of carpenters are eager to get it.

The contractors have tried to do everything in their power. They cannot sit idly by, forever.

SHEPHERD CASE STAR FUMBLES

State's Evidence in "Germ Murder" Shows Signs of Crumbling

CHICAGO, June 19. — The state's carefully built case against William D. Shepherd, alleged murderer of his foster son, William Nelson McClintock, shows signs of crumbling today as its star, Charles C. Faiman, openly admitted he was confused by the hammering cross-examination of the defense.

To refute his testimony given on direct examination, the defense repeatedly confronted the witness with contradictory evidence he had given at the bail hearing, until Faiman, not so dapper as he had appeared when he first took the stand, sought refuge in spaarring.

"I'm confused," he said in answer to William S. Stewart's rapid fire of questions.

"Of course, you are," answered Stewart in a tone of mock solicitude.

gines—the combustion engine being "too inefficient."

The west coast of South America has recently known torrential downpours in places where rain had been unknown for generations. Scientists attributes the change in weather to the Humboldt current, said to have wandered from its course, several miles out into the Pacific and away from the coast.

Earnest Florida real estaters are even guessing that perhaps the Humboldt current, moving out, will take Southern California's champion current away with it and leave Florida the only "winter climate." Needless to say, this does not worry California.

Redwood trees, older than Christianity, stand as proof that California is fair and not fickle. This is a good place to say that, in addition to being a perfect winter resort, California is the ideal summer resort—all things to all men, in all seasons.

In New Jersey primaries the "dry" Republican wins the nomination from the "wet" Republican. So far, prohibition wins.

The decision will come on election day, when the "dry" Republican meets a "wet" Democrat. Since Governor Edwards became Democratic governor on his promise to make New Jersey as wet as the Atlantic ocean, New Jersey's Democracy has been the wettest party in the country.

Senator La Follette is reported dangerously ill. That news will grieve even his enemies, that tried to drive him out of his party.

You admire real courage, even when you hate a man for disturbing your plans. There is no more courageous man than La Follette in public life.

China, huge dinosaur of the east, continues to take seriously her right to manage her own affairs. Crowds mob foreign policemen, 14,000 students demand that China break off diplomatic relations with England. And, England, bothered by the Shanghai strike that ties up shipping, is inclined to make any reasonable arrangement.

It pays to assert yourself, if you can follow it up.

On our side of the Pacific, Senator Borah, head of the committee on foreign affairs, declares that Uncle Sam should mind his own business and let China mind hers. He would have the United States give up all claim to special privileges on Chinese soil.

Eighteen Questions

Q.—If so, who is to determine the doctrines they shall teach?

A.—I cannot say absolutely, but I can answer it from my own standpoint, that they themselves will determine the doctrine they will teach.

Q.—You say, then, that the teachers who come in will teach their own doctrines?

A.—Yes, if we hire a teacher we turn them loose—we would not dictate to them what they should teach.

Q.—Will they be subject to the orders of the board of education, or to the orders of you who employ them, in what they teach?

A.—Well, I would say, Mr. Brookes, that they would be subject to the orders of the committee of the Council of Religious Education who has employed them.

Q.—And not to the orders of the school board?

A.—If you continue president of the board of education, you would be a member of this council. The superintendent of the schools would certainly be a member.

Q.—Suppose he did not want to be, what then?

A.—Of course, he could not be forced to be.

Q.—Do you expect to pay anything for the use of the school rooms and the facilities you ask?

A.—No, sir, we do not expect to pay.

Q.—You realize, of course that these school rooms are heated, lighted and supervised at the expense of the general taxpayers?

A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You do not expect to pay any part of that?

A.—Well, we are the taxpayers, are we not—a part of them?

Q.—But you do not expect to pay?

A.—Well, no.

Q.—Will the teachers you employ hold teachers' certificates issued by authority of the state of Ohio?

A.—Not exactly from my standpoint. Unless the superintendent would require it for religious education state certificates would not be required. Of course, some of the teachers might hold life certificates

Failure to Use Auto "Dimmers" is Blamed for Death

CINCINNATI, June 19. — The failure of another motorist to use his "dimmers" is said to have caused an automobile accident in which one man was killed and five other persons injured near Dent, O., early today. Charles Hirsch, 28, a chauffeur, was driving the auto to which was wrecked. Hirsch was blinded by the lights of an approaching machine and lost control of his car which swerved from the road. Frederick Bauersfeld, 40, was dead when taken from the wreckage. His wife, Mrs. Hannah Bauersfeld, 38, and son, Charles, 18; Margaret Rapp, 14; Joe Kramer, 31, and Hirsch were injured. Kramer is expected to die and Mrs. Bauersfeld is seriously hurt.

Q.—Well, then, the teachers will not necessarily hold certificates issued by the state of Ohio?

A.—Not necessarily. As I said before, they may hold life certificates, I don't know.

Q.—The board of education and the superintendent have something to say about teachers being employed in the school who do not hold certificates issued by authority of the state.

A.—Well, of course, there is still to be an interpretation of that law. The plan that we are suggesting is already in operation in more than one city in the state.

Q.—That is, in Ashtabula, where you came from a few months ago—you helped to put it in operation there?

A—I did. It is in operation at Marietta and out of 1770 children last year 1735 were taking the course.

Q.—Will these teachers teach the Bible as recognized and approved by Protestant churches only?

A.—I would say so.

Q.—They will not, then, teach such versions of the Bible as are approved and believed by the Roman Catholics and Jews?

A.—We decided on that question a while ago—that the teaching is so different—we would teach the Protestant version only.

Q.—The Protestants are pretty well divided on certain questions. Would you teach the fundamental version or the liberal?

A.—Well, they are getting together now. It won't be long until they are united.

Q.—What will they teach—will they teach the Divine birth or will they teach the liberal version?

A.—Well, of course, that will all be settled. If the teacher was a fundamentalist I suppose he would teach that version. If he was a liberal I suppose he would teach his views. That will all be taken care of.

Q.—Are you expecting the school authorities to grade and give credit in Bible instruction as a basis for promotion?

A.—We would—that is, the teacher in religious instruction would grade the work the same as any other teacher. The matter of credits would be determined by the superintendent of the schools, I suppose.

Q. Then do you mean that promotions would be made in our schools upon the recommendations of your teachers who did not have state certificates?

A.—I think, Mr. Brookes, that all that would be worked out by the committee—worked out splendidly.

Q.—You know that we shall have approximately five thousand pupils next year—how many of these do you expect to reach with religious instruction during the school term?

A.—It will all depend upon how many teachers we could afford to employ—how much we raise in employing teachers. If we can employ only one teacher the probabilities are that we will not be able to reach more than three grades. If we employ two teachers we may be able to reach all the grades.

Q.—How many teachers do you expect to employ?

A.—At the present time we have only one teacher in mind.

Q.—Will you give me the names of any ministers whom you have not consulted or any who have not fully agreed as to the wisdom of the move?

A.—Now, I don't think that is quite a fair question because there are some of our ministers that are not decided as yet.

Q.—How many ministers are not decided?

A.—I would not be able to tell you the exact number.

Q.—Well, approximately?

A.—I think every man should speak for himself.

Q.—You could tell me how many surely?

A.—Well, I don't know exactly.

Q.—We want to know whether this is unanimous or not?

A.—It is fairly unanimous.

Q.—Are there any of the Protestant ministers who are not in accord with you?

A.—I would not say so. Three-fourths of them are anyway.

Q.—Have you approached the Catholics and Jewish people in an effort to agree upon some plan of Bible instruction that might be acceptable to all?

A.—I have talked with Leon Rubin. He is the only member of the Jewish brethren that I have talked to. I also talked with Father Walsh—I think that is his name—the name of the new Catholic priest here. Those are the only men to whom I have talked on the subject.

Q.—What does Father Walsh say about it?

A.—Father Walsh thinks that religious education ought to be carried to all children without question, but as I naturally expected his judgment is that it ought to be carried as it was last winter—away from the schools.

Q.—If you were granted the right by this board to teach the Protestant version of the Bible in the public schools, can we refuse the Catholic and Jewish people the same privilege?

A.—No more than you can refuse us.

Q.—Then if the parochial school down here on Fifth street would require more room, and it is growing, are you willing that this board shall set apart to the parochial school one or more rooms of the public school buildings where they may instruct [illegible] Bible instruction [illegible] teachers?

A.—I am agreed

Board of Education

take the care of the child out of the control of the parent.' This is an argument in favor of our plan. No one should object when this course will be available only upon the request of the parents."

Dr. Rich's Argument.

"Dr. Rich then took the floor to express his opposition to the proposal.

"One of the basic principles of the constitution of the United States is to keep the church and state separate,' said the speaker. "No one objects to the plan of releasing the children and permitting them to go to their churches for this study. But this year they want it different. They seek to transfer this course of study from the church to the schools. This is not a step forward—it's a step backward. The public schools are not Protestant schools, not Catholic schools or not Jewish schools. They are built and supported from taxation levied upon people of all creeds. To use public funds to teach religion in American institutions is wrong.'

At this point Dr. Rich stated that he had sent inquiries to more than 50 Ohio cities and towns asking for information concerning religious education. Three cities replied that the classes were meeting in the schools; three others stated that the course was given in the high school only and one other stated that the course was given in such rooms only where the children were unanimous in their request for it. The others, 41 in number, do not have the instruction at all or have a plan whereby the children are dismissed to go to their churches once each week.

"We have been facing a financial crisis lately but this situation is far more important than the matter of finances, in my opinion,' continued Dr. Rich. "I am not opposed to religious education but I am opposed to using the school buildings for such a course. It would be class legislation and would not hold before the courts. This is a country ruled by a majority with protection for the minority. It would be a step backward and I appeal to the board not to grant this request.

Attorney J. H. Brookes Speaks.

Attorney Jason H. Brookes, president of the school board, next took the floor.

"I can speak impartially on this question," he said, "for I am a member in good standing of a Protestant church. I feel as a Protestant that this is a step in the wrong direction. Our schools are opened each morning with the reading of the Bible and the repeating of the Lord's prayer. We recognize the importance of the Bible instruction for those who want it, and last year dismissed the children electing this course to go to their churches for one hour each week.

"You want to use school property built by Protestant, Jew, Catholic and unbeliever and maintained by the same persons for the teaching of the Protestant religion. This would be a violation of the constitution.

"You would be using a teacher for these classes who may not hold a teacher's certificate. This the state absolutely prohibits. Every teacher must hold a certificate. I have been opposed to this plan, am now and always will be."

Here Mr. Brookes quoted a ruling handed down by the Ohio supreme court many years ago in a case arising in Cincinnati, in which the presiding judge held that it was a violation for religion to be taught in the public schools.

Rev. F. A. Dean's Inquiry.

Rev. Frederick A. Dean, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, pointed out that in Van Wert, religious education classes were meeting in the schools and asked if it was a violation there.

"It certainly is but no one has appeared to oppose it," was Mr. Brookes' reply.

"We all want to see the right thing done,' said Dr. Fowler, who again took the floor. "We all feel that religious education is needed but in the manner of giving it, we differ. Attorney General Crabbe's decision in this matter is not final. The decision of the supreme court is final only. Mr. Brookes lays emphasis on the letter of the law rather than the spirit of the law.

"We seek this change to make a better community and do not seek to convert any one. I would not oppose the parochial school, for there Catholics are taught their religion. I do not feel that you should oppose our plan which has for its aim the making of better citizens. The letter of the law does not cut much figure, it is the spirit of the law.

Lemuel Washutzky at this point asked Mr. Brookes how long he had been a resident of the city.

"All my life, practically," said Mr. Brookes.

"And you, Dr. Fowler?" asked Washutzky.

"Less than a year, but what difference does that make?"

"That's all I wanted to know," said Washutzky.

Patrick McNicol, former county commissioner and pottery manufacturer, was next given the privilege of the floor.

"Is it fair to give this instruction, when it is known that either the Jews nor the Catholics will attend?" he inquired.

"No, I don't think it is," said Mr. Brookes.

Solicitor Brokaw Present.

City Solicitor Harry Brokaw took the floor and, in referring to the law cited by Mr. Brookes, charged that he had not read the entire ruling. He asked that another section be read. Mr. Brookes handed him the book and asked that he read it himself.

Mr. Brokaw stated that the decision of the courts on this matter covered more than 50 printed pages. He, however, read one section in which entire jurisdiction in the matter was left with the board of education.

"I cite this ruling as the legal adviser of the board of education," said Mr. Brokaw.

"Do you think the schools can be legally used for the teaching of the Protestant religion?" asked Mr. Brookes.

"I do," he replied.

"Did the board of educatoin ask you for a ruling on this matter?" Mr. Brookes next inquired.

"I looked into the statutes upon request of one of its members."

"The board as a whole did not solicit your advice. When we want it we will call you," was Mr. Brookes' reply.

Hoots and jeers greeted this remark from President Brookes, who only smiled.

Four Members Silent.

D. F. White, R. W. Sample, F. T. Weaver and George M. Wilhelm, other members of the board, listened in on the arguments, but declined to say a word when given the privilege by Mr. Brookes, who presided.

The hearing then adjourned, the school board going into executive session in their quarters adjoining the superintendent's office.

The crowd lingered in the school lobby and about the building for nearly an hour afterwards in hopes that the board would immediately vote on the matter, but it was not until nearly the close of their meeting, which did not adjourn until 11 o'clock that it was decided to defer a vote until Mr. Crabbe had made his ruling.

Familiar Colors Lessen Sadness in Funeral of Today

YOUNGSTOWN, June 19.—Along with other things of a past age, the old type funeral, with its unique sadness and solemnity, is dead and buried, Roscoe T. Sharer, of Alliance, president of the Ohio Funeral Directors' association, told that body at its final session here today.

"Everything that made the old-time funeral something to be dreaded has been done away with," Sharer said.

"Lengthy services have been shortened. It is no longer necessary to bury men in a black suit or women in their wedding gowns, or a white dress of black silk.

"Now they are dressed in familiar colors, except the more brilliant ones."

where the winter months will be spent.

Announcement of the probable second visit to East Liverpool of the party moved the large audience in attendance to generous applause which caused Dr. Tucker to say: "Though we have more than 100 places asking for us at this time we shall do our best to come to you again about the time designated by Rev. Mr. O'Brien."

All the members of the musical trio made brief remarks before the meeting's close in which they thanked all whom they had met for the appreciation shown of their work while in the city and the friendships that had been formed.

Miss Evelyn McKee Coons, the brilliant young harpist of the party, modestly affirmed: "I praise God for having been here. I am very glad at the thought that some of my messages have made you closer to Him; they have me. Should any of you ever go to Long Beach, Cal.," she concluded, "I hope you will at least ask about me."

Miss Alice May Schmidt, the St. Louis member of the party, who sang herself into the hearts of her hearers from her first appearance here, declared: "I am, indeed, pleased to be here. I have counted it a privilege to be with you and, perchance, as best I could, lift you through the medium of song to any livelier appreciation of the Christian graces." And, seemingly mindful the spirit of one of her songs: "In the Land Where the Roses Never Fade," she said, "should we not meet again here, we shall in glory. I ask that you pray for me as I continue to do His will."

Miss Cora Belle Young, the exceptionally capable young violinist, was slightly handicapped by the noise of a passing car, but even those in the far rear managed to discern her conclusion: "There has been so much kindness shown us here that I appreciate it deeply," she said. "I praise God for all things that He has given me, and particularly any ability that is mine to use the violin in His service. I would rather play for folks like you than any in the world. I hope I shall be remembered in your prayers and that God will bless us as never before."

Party Is Applauded.

Spontaneous and generous applause broke out at the conclusion of the young people's remarks.

Dr. Tucker was equally appreciative of his visit to East Liverpool. "Should we come again we shall not have to put in any time getting acquainted, but just start in where we leave off now," he said. "You have been kind from Rev. O'Brien down. Particularly would I thank Mrs. A. G. Ellis for assisting from time to time with the piano, and the officers of this church for the use of this beautiful auditorium, which stands out as few that I have been in anywhere."

Before Dr. Tucker's discourse, Miss Allie May Schmidt, accompanied by Mrs. A. G. Ellis on the piano and Miss Young with the violin, sang "O, Bless My Soul," from the 103rd Psalm. Miss Young gave as a violin number, "Tell Mother I'll be There."

"The Bible is God's own word," said Dr. Tucker in his address. "He is the author of it from the beginning in Genesis to the Amen in Revelations. It is the product of His forethought. It is the only inspired volume in all the earth. God breathed in it the atmosphere and breath of God. It is wonderful in its inspiration, translation, salvation, preservation and consummation. Despite the apathy of the country and the din of the city the old book lives. It will always be what it is—the impregnable rock of the Holy Scriptures."

Dr. Tucker's lecture was exceedingly trite and rich in story and reminiscences bulwarked every stage of his tribute to the volume.

At the conclusion of Dr. Tucker's lecture Miss Schmidt, accompanied by Miss Adda McLean, United Presbyterian organist, sang the 91st Psalm by McDermid and Miss Young, by request, repeated on the violin "Tell Mother I'll Be There."

Miss Coons did not have her harp at the night service, it having been previously shipped so as to be available for the initial meeting at Hardy, Ark., on Sunday morning. Her mother Mrs. Jessie McKee Coons, promoter of prayer, and Miss Hellitzer, who had charge of the books and periodicals during the campaign, left the city by an earlier train and were not at the final service. They planned to rejoin the party en route.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. O'Brien, following which a reception was tendered the party in which well wishes were given and the adieus made.

The party left East Liverpool on the 10:20 East Liverpool-Steubenville traction line for the latter city, where connection was made with the St. Louis train which point will be reached at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. There a two-hour stop will enable the travelers to dine with the parents of Miss Schmidt, following which the journey southwest will be continued. They will remain one week in Arkansas and then begin a three weeks' vacation before resuming the fall campaign.

The action on the proposed fencing of Patterson Field was taken after Member George Wilhelm submitted figures showing the cost would be from $2,000 to $2,500. The board also discussed fencing two sides of the Glenmoor school lot, but decided to defer action until the owner of adjoining property could be interviewed in an effort to have him bear one half of the cost.

The board did not discuss the election of a superintendent. The question probably will come up at the special session next Friday evening.

Simplicity Will Mark Funeral.

La Follette always hated trappings and pomp and hypocrisy. He lived a fulsome life—three score and ten—of utmost simplicity.

In death, simplicity will mark his last journey homeward, and his funeral.

The funeral train, a special section of the Capital Limited of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, will leave Washington at 3 o'clock for Madison. The coffin will be placed on a simple catafalque in the observation car. The family will occupy compartments in the same car.

advices today. No land was sighted.

Amundsen plans, it was said, again to try to fly to the pole.

Details of Amundsen's daring trip were eagerly awaited by all Norway today. The news of his safety was received with rejoicing. National anthems were played in public places and crowds stood in the streets cheering.

There was much conjecture here today what Amundsen's conclusions will be as a result of his flight. He said he was not able to see many miles beyond the point where one of his aeroplanes was frozen in an ice lane. When he started on the return journey in the second plane, he said his "observation" indicated there was no land in the vicinity of the North Pole.

It is believed from preliminary reports which have come from him at King's Bay that he is convinced that on the Norwegian side of the polar regions there is nothing but ice and open water.

What More Could You Ask?

The contractors offered the carpenters $10 a day, which is the scale they had been working under. The carpenters refused it.

The contractors pointed out that this was really an increase, as wages are going down in many industries. The carpenters still refused.

The contractors offered to submit the whole issue to arbitration. The carpenters refused.

The contractors offered to agree, on their part, not to have the arbitration board even consider wage reduction and not to reduce wages, even if an arbitration board should suggest it. Nothing could be fairer than that, but the carpenters still refused.

The contractors have suggested, advised, urged arbitration. Anything within reason to get the thing settled. The carpenters just go on refusing.

The carpenters are now going away and working elsewhere. They have tied up East Liverpool, they have caused considerable inconvenience to people who want to build, they have refused to lend a hand in working out a settlement. And now they go away, leaving things tied up. They cannot expect things to stay that way indefinitely.

What can the contractors do but bring in other carpenters and go on with the work? Ten dollars a day is a good wage. Lots of carpenters are eager to get it.

The contractors have tried to do everything in their power. They cannot sit idly by, forever.

LEGION NEARS DRIVE QUOTA

Lindeman Predicts End of Campaign Saturday

That the Wellsville American Legion endowment drive for $813 will be over the top by Saturday night was the prediction today of Chairman Joe Lindeman.

Reports that have reached Lindeman's hands within the past few days from various committees and workers indicate that sufficient cash and pledges will have been obtained by the end of the week to place Wellsville post 70 among the quota cities of the state.

The local post's ambition to go over first is now unattainable as a result of the fact that Findlay, home of several of the state officers of the legion, reached its quota of approximately $3,000 in a one day's drive. Findlay, in addition, contributed an excess of almost $1,500.

The campaign for the national quota of $5,000,000 is still under way with every prospect of success, Legion officers say.

The $5,000,000 obtained through the campaign will be placed on deposit and only the interest utilized. The money will be spent for the relief of wounded and disabled veterans and for orphans of the World war.

RAIL WORKERS SEEK INCREASE

Chairmen's associations of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors will hold joint divisional meetings in November to consider the proposition of seeking a wage increase from approximately 200 railroads in the United States for trainmen and conductors, W. G. Lee, president of the trainman, announced today.

The amount of the increase to be asked was not announced, but Mr. Lee said the wage reduction to railroad men in 1921 was about 12 per cent, approximately 64 cents a day, that an increase last year amounted to approximately 5 per cent and that the request would probably at least be enough to make up the 1921 reduction.

The dates of the joint meetings follow: Chicago local chairman's association, Chicago, November 1; Western general chairman's association, Chicago, November 3; Southern general chairmen's association, Washington, November 10; Eastern general chairmen's association, Cleveland, November 17.

Food and Powder Are Chief Items In U. S. Navy Maneuvers

Single Broadside by Combined Fleet in Recent War Game Cost $456,000.

LOS ANGELES, June — Food and powder!

These two items are the chief ones in the gigantic cost, totaling millions of dollars, for the American fleet maneuvers recently completed off Hawaii.

Figures revealed here today by navy officers show a single broadside fired by America's superdreadnaughts during the maneuvers cost more than $163,000.

When a broadside was fired for one minute by the more than 500 guns in the combined Atlantic and Pacific fleet during the huge mimic war, the cost to Uncle Sam was more than $456,000, official navy figures disclosed.

The cost of powder alone in a single broadside was $31,000, the balance of the expenditure being made up in the cost of the immense shells.

And America's sailors, riding the bounding main, do not go hungry for a solitary minute, according to expense reports covering food bills of the navy forces.

Mammoth Appetite.

It cost just $17,075 each day to feed the men of the combined fleet during the maneuvers in Far-Eastern waters. This was the actual cost of serving three meals daily.

LEGION NEARS DRIVE QUOTA

Lindeman Predicts End of Campaign Saturday

That the Wellsville American Legion endowment drive for $813 will be over the top by Saturday night was the prediction today of Chairman Joe Lindeman.

Reports that have reached Lindeman's hands within the past few days from various committees and workers indicate that sufficient cash and pledges will have been obtained by the end of the week to place Wellsville post 70 among the quota cities of the state.

The local post's ambition to go over first is now unattainable as a result of the fact that Findlay, home of several of the state officers of the legion, reached its quota of approximately $3,000 in a one day's drive. Findlay, in addition, contributed an excess of almost $1,500.

The campaign for the national quota of $5,000,000 is still under way with every prospect of success, Legion officers say.

The $5,000,000 obtained through the campaign will be placed on deposit and only the interest utilized. The money will be spent for the relief of wounded and disabled veterans and for orphans of the World war.

RAIL WORKERS SEEK INCREASE

Chairmen's associations of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors will hold joint divisional meetings in November to consider the proposition of seeking a wage increase from approximately 200 railroads in the United States for trainmen and conductors, W. G. Lee, president of the trainman, announced today.

The amount of the increase to be asked was not announced, but Mr. Lee said the wage reduction to railroad men in 1921 was about 12 per cent, approximately 64 cents a day, that an increase last year amounted to approximately 5 per cent and that the request would probably at least be enough to make up the 1921 reduction.

The dates of the joint meetings follow: Chicago local chairman's association, Chicago, November 1; Western general chairman's association, Chicago, November 3; Southern general chairmen's association, Washington, November 10; Eastern general chairmen's association, Cleveland, November 17.

A two course luncheon was served by the hostess, Miss Birdie Rice, assisted by Miss Jean Fogo.

The guests included Miss Mary Hammond, Mrs. Byron McLaughlin, and Misses Grace Davidson, Mary Tasker, Pearl Robinson, Genevieve Yates, Mabel McConnell, Lottie Wilson, Genevieve Wolf, Enid Yost, Birdie and Blanche Rice and Jean Fogo.

HANG UP FREIGHT RECORD IN MAY

On a basis of gross ton-miles hauled per freight train hour, the Central region of the Pennsylvania railroad hung up a new record during the month of May.

The regional record was made possible through three general divisions breaking their own records, a feat necessitating six operating divisions—the Eastern Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Pittsburgh, Conemaugh, Panhandle and Monongahela—establishing new marks.

The C. & P. division's average gross ton miles per freight train hour for May was 20,564; for April it was 17,165.

C. & P. NINE TRIMS LEAGUE RIVALS

By trimming the Babcock-Wilcox team, of East Liverpool, 7 to 1 here last night, the Wellsville C. & P. team of the City Industrial league kept out of the cellar position which their tail-end rivals now occupy.

In their series this week, the Wellsville and the Babcock-Wilcox teams split even.

The C. & P. nine got its first real pitching of the season last night with Kuntzler, of Toronto, on the hilltop. The hurling department has been a weak phase of the Wellsville club's makeup since early in the season, but from now on is expected to keep step.

Wild Man of Indian Seen in Hamilayas By Exploring Party

CALCUTTA—The "wild man of the snows" has been brought into the limelight again. Signor A. Tombazi, back from an expedition in the higher peaks, said he saw the creature walking upright. The figure was naked and covered with hair, he said.

Tibetans, Bhutans and Sikkimese believe that savages dwell in the upper regions of the Hamilayas. These savages are supposed to be cannibals, who live naked in caves. The Tibetans declare that these wild troglodytes avoid a party, but attack a lonely traveler.

Food and Powder Are Chief Items In U. S. Navy Maneuvers

Single Broadside by Combined Fleet in Recent War Game Cost $456,000.

LOS ANGELES, June — Food and powder!

These two items are the chief ones in the gigantic cost, totaling millions of dollars, for the American fleet maneuvers recently completed off Hawaii.

Figures revealed here today by navy officers show a single broadside fired by America's superdreadnaughts during the maneuvers cost more than $163,000.

When a broadside was fired for one minute by the more than 500 guns in the combined Atlantic and Pacific fleet during the huge mimic war, the cost to Uncle Sam was more than $456,000, official navy figures disclosed.

The cost of powder alone in a single broadside was $31,000, the balance of the expenditure being made up in the cost of the immense shells.

And America's sailors, riding the bounding main, do not go hungry for a solitary minute, according to expense reports covering food bills of the navy forces.

Mammoth Appetite.

It cost just $17,075 each day to feed the men of the combined fleet during the maneuvers in Far-Eastern waters. This was the actual cost of serving three meals daily.

The weight of the food consumed in one day by the fleet was 234,320 pounds.

The cost of feeding each man per day totaled 45 cents.

Here is what the men of the fleet ate in 24 hours' time:

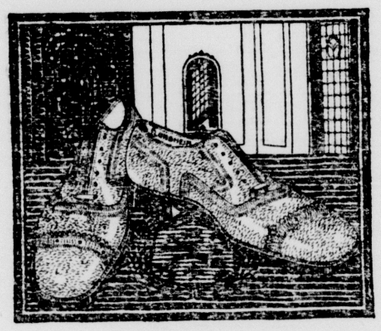

Corned beef, 3,300 pounds.
Fresh beef, 33,000 pounds.
Bread, 33,000 pounds.
Salt pork, 2,770 pounds.

STATE TO SELL HIGHWAY BONDS

Announcement Follows Governor Gore's Trip of Inspection.

West Virginia's road building program will be increased this summer by the sale of an additional $5,000,000 in road bonds, the latter part of this month, it was announced last night at the offices of Governor Howard M. Gore.

After a road inspection tour through out northern and western counties of the state, Governor Gore returned to Charleston yesterday and announced through his executive secretary that the road building program of the state is to be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

Of the $50,000,000 road bond issue provided by the state there is $15,000,000 now available. During the closing days of former Governor Morgan's administration $5,000,000 of the bonds were sold and contracts for road building projects in all section of the state were subsequently let by the state road commission.

Bids will be advertised within the next ten days for sale of the additional $5,000,000 in bonds. Governor Gore was in conference today with the state road commission to push the road building program as rapidly as possible. It will be left to the commission to decide where the $5,000,000 to be realized from the next bond sale, will be expended. The last letting included projects scattered throughout the state and it is expected the coming letting will be along similar plans.

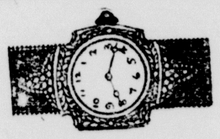

During his trip of inspection Governor Gore, with other state officials, visited the state penitentiary at Moundsville for the purpose of studying the prison labor question. It was announced at his office it is the intention to employ as much prison labor as possible on road construction of the state.

Various phases of road building and maintenance were investigated by the governor during his trip and it is expected a plan of maintenance will be worked out by the road commission during the summer.

3,000 JURORS FOR EVICTION CASES

Following close upon the eviction of close to 150 miners from houses in Brooke county owned by the West Virginia-Pittsburgh Coal company, comes the announcement that each case will be tried separately in Brooke county circuit court before Judge J. The first two cases on the docket to be called for trial are set for next Tuesday. These cases are attracting wide attention in the state and even in Ohio since many others of a like nature hinge on the outcome in Brooke county. STATE TO SELL HIGHWAY BONDS

Announcement Follows Governor Gore's Trip of Inspection.

West Virginia's road building program will be increased this summer by the sale of an additional $5,000,000 in road bonds, the latter part of this month, it was announced last night at the offices of Governor Howard M. Gore.

After a road inspection tour through out northern and western counties of the state, Governor Gore returned to Charleston yesterday and announced through his executive secretary that the road building program of the state is to be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

Of the $50,000,000 road bond issue provided by the state there is $15,000,000 now available. During the closing days of former Governor Morgan's administration $5,000,000 of the bonds were sold and contracts for road building projects in all section of the state were subsequently let by the state road commission.

Bids will be advertised within the next ten days for sale of the additional $5,000,000 in bonds. Governor Gore was in conference today with the state road commission to push the road building program as rapidly as possible. It will be left to the commission to decide where the $5,000,000 to be realized from the next bond sale, will be expended. The last letting included projects scattered throughout the state and it is expected the coming letting will be along similar plans.

During his trip of inspection Governor Gore, with other state officials, visited the state penitentiary at Moundsville for the purpose of studying the prison labor question. It was announced at his office it is the intention to employ as much prison labor as possible on road construction of the state.

Various phases of road building and maintenance were investigated by the governor during his trip and it is expected a plan of maintenance will be worked out by the road commission during the summer.

The first two cases on the docket to be called for trial are set for next Tuesday. K. T. K. Defeats Trotters; Wellsville Nine Wins From B. & W.

Potters Jump Into Second Place; Auto Men Back to Third

Davis Nine Threatens in Sixth When Belated Batting Attack Nets Club 3 Runs — Rardin Stars in Left Field — Score 6 to 3.

K. T. K., fresh from its conquest over the first place Chester team earlier in the week, continued its winning streak by defeating the fast and crafty Trotter aggregation last evening at Columbian park, dislodging the auto men and taking runner-up position in the City Industrial league race. The score was 6 to 3.

Witnessed by a large and enthusiastic crowd, and a majority of the Chester club which tonight will clash with Trotters at Patterson Field, the contest was replete with thrills that increased rapidly in the two closing innings when Trotters, finally scoring, threatened to go to the front.

Turned back scoreless for five straight innings and then when two had been retired in the sixth the Fowlerites shook themselves, mixed bats or performed some mystical diamond stunt for almost immediately they released a single and two doubles following a forceout, which netted them a trio of tallies.

But two runs shy of a tie, the side was retired as E. Bayley flied to McShane.

In the seventh, their last chance, they had the needed two scores on the bags, but they failed of finishing. R. Pollock elected to bat for J. Strobel at the outset of the inning, but he popped to Stoffel. Brooks got on when Finley erred. Aufderheide, batting for Deshler, singled. Parsons forced Brooks, C. Coleman to Finley. Then it was all up to A. Bayley and the spectators lingered as he nicked a few fouls. Finally, he swung and missed, it being the only strike-out registered by Stoffel during the entire game.

Stoffel was effective in all but the sixth. Though he allowed eight hits, half of these came in that fateful round while he dealt the remainder out, one per inning, except in the first and fifth when he allowed none at all. His control was almost perfect as he gave no walks. His hitting of Parsons in the sixth was the only blot on his escutcheon for the day.

Rardin, in left for K. T. K., loomed as the day's hero. He duplicated Simcox's stunt of Tuesday by having all the putouts in a single inning by pulling down three straight flies from the bats of A. Bayley, Heckathorn and Kinsey, in the fourth. At the bat he led his and the Trotter clubs by swatting for a mark of 1,000, his double and two singles in three times up giving him that distinction.

Though he failed to hit safely for the day Simcox's out at first in the initial inning gave K. T. K. their first run. Later, getting on by an error, he moved up two men on the bags, enabling them and himself to score later. His stonewall defense was again in evidence, making for the completion of two double plays and the acceptance of every chance that came his way.

Aufderheide came through as a pinch hitter in the seventh for Trotter, singling in his only appearance.

Brooks caught his initial game for Trotter and made an excellent impression. He made the bags twice on a single and an error.

Except in the fourth when he allowed five bingles, Deshler kept the eleven hits he allowed fairly well scattered. He struck out five men, but walked two and hit one. Ragged support behind him at critical junctures contributed to the scoring of his foes in all but the second inning when a pass he issued and the hitting af a player, plus a single, gave his opponents a run.

Stoffel and Simcox were the only potters who did not hit safely, while Parsons, R. Pollock and J. Strobel, of Trotters, had similar records. Shaw, in right for K. T. K., and A. Bayley in middle for Trotters, did not have a fielding chance.

DEIBEL SHOOTS PORTAGE IN 67

Youngstown Golfer Equals Record Set by J. M. Wells

Turning in a 67 score on the Portage Country club course, at Akron, where next week the state amateur championship will be played, Christy Deibel, of Youngstown, yesterday equaled the course record established by Joe M. Wells three years ago, and also made an ominous gesture toward the amateur crown now worn by the East Liverpool man.

Wells set his record while playing with Walter Hagen, Joe Kirkwood and Emmett French, professionals, and although many distinguished golfers have negotiated the course since then, it has never been in danger until yesterday.

In equaling Wells' record, Deibel registered birdies on Nos. 2, 3, 7, 9, 10 and 18. He displayed his best form on the first nine, which he made in 31, four under par. One over par on the twelfth and sixteenth gave him a 36 going back, to equal par.

Last Night's Fights

Youngstown—Babe Herman, California, featherweight, easily defeated Willie Ames, Akron, twelve rounds. Maxie Holub, Akron, outpointed Steve Nugent, Cleveland, six rounds. Kenneth Bee, Youngstown, won from Art Milnes, Elwood City, Pa., six rounds. Battling Kozar, Farrell, Pa., knocked out Johnnny Darcy, Sebring, second round.

At New York—Sid Terris, lightweight, outpointed Pal Moran, of New Orleans, ten rounds. Nat Kawen got decision over Murray Israel nad Leo Heinan in welterweight amateur tournament. Tony Canvoneri, bantamweight, outpointed Tony Lorenzo and Vinney La Guardia.

Wells Brothers Win Rotary Golf Trophy At Cleveland

Joe M. and W. E. Jr., Turn in Card of 153, Five Better Than Runners-Up.

Playing together yesterday at the Willowick Country club, Cleveland, Joe M. Wells, state amateur champion and his brother, W. E. Wells, Jr., shot the course for a 153 and won the Hunter trophy, the international Rotary club convention golf prize.

Joe Wells made the 18 holes in 74, four over Par. Ed Wells negotiated the distance in 79. Their score was five below that of the runners-up, Dr. F. M. Casto and Elmore Phelps, of Cleveland.

The amateur champion played consistenly from start to finish while his partner got into trouble on the eleventh and his return score, consequently, passed the 40 mark.

The Hunter trophy tournament requires a handicap of 14 or under to qualify. The Toronto team won it last year.

YALE - HARVARD CREWS BATTLE

Meet on Thames Today for Supremacy of Oars.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 19.—By nightfall a new chapter in rowing history will have been written on the liquid page of the Thames river course with the blade of an oar dipped in agonized, human sweat. By nightfall the eight-oared varsity crew of Yale University will have preserved its dynasty over the kingdom of the oar or Harvard will have forced its abdication by a victory that even our most expert of experts concede to be well within the bounds of possibility.

Harvard has a fighting crew which has a fight chance.

The phrase was mounted knowingly by the thousands of Yale and Harvard followers who rode into town this morning under crimson and blue hatbands for the annual four-mile seance of legalized back-breaking. Harvard money, seemingly, was in evidence on every hand and it served to back the odds down from 10 to 7 to a rather short price on Yale of 6 to 5.

The Bull Dog remained the favorite, but such was the confidence of the Harvard camp that smart trowing men took refuge behind the non-committal and predicted the closest race for the last ten years.

Ed Stevens, Hard coach, contributed to this idea by declaring today that Harvard had come along so far during recent weeks that it is the fastest crew he ever handled.

Ed Leader, who has yet to lose a race in his three years at the head of the Yale rowing, countered with the declaration that he considered his present outfit to be as good at the four-mile distance as the 1924 ensemble. The latter was just good enough to beat the world at the Olympic games in Paris.

That made the issue a stand-off in the claiming stakes and recent time trials served to confirm this belief. It developed today that both crews broke the up stream record on Saturday last, Yale having done 20:19 and Harvard 20:27.

Allows Oaklanders Four Hits — Score is 7 to 1.

Wellsville, given superior pitching by Kuntzler, defeated Babcock & Wilcox in an exciting City Industrial league contest at Central park last evening, 7 to 1.

Kuntzler allowed but four hits. Sutherin was hit hard and finally gave way to McGeehan.

Manning led in hitting with a perfect record, having a triple and two singles in three times up.

McGonigal's home run in the third inning made B. & W.'s only tally though C. Wagner robbed himself of a four bagger by failing to touch first base in the second inning.

McGonigal and McGeehan did all the hitting for B. & W. dividing the four hits made. The score:

SPOILING
Thousands for other Cars

The Chrysler Six has brought about a startling and unique motor car situation in motor car ownership.

All over America are families which own two, three, four and even seven Chrysler cars.

There are two main reasons—but they both go straight back to the fact that it is a genuine delight to drive a Chrysler Six.

They go straight back to the fact that the Chrysler Six is an entirely new type of car, built on a new kind of engineering, which produces results radically different from any heretofore registered.

At one extreme are the families which can afford the most expensive chauffeur-driven cars.

Many of these have found a new joy in motoring. Men who have not driven their own cars for years are now driving their own Chryslers. They have discarded the heavy, cumbersome cars; or keep them only for occasional use.

For general use—the Chrysler Six. So great is the demand to drive this car on the part of both men and women in the same family, that two or three and even more Chrysler cars are found necessary.

The other side of the picture shows families which have owned a car costing perhaps twice as much as the Chrysler Six, and who have discarded it in the interests of economy and greater convenience.

Now they own and operate two Chrysler Six cars for the cost of one cumbersome car which does not begin to bring the driving and riding thrill ever present in the Chrysler Six.

You, too, will become a Chrysler enthusiast after your first thrilling, delightful ride and drive in a Chrysler Six—a ride we are eager and anxious to give you.

Typical Reasons Why Many Families Own Two or More Chrysler Cars

Mr. Edward C. Taubel, of Norristown, Pa., says:

"The four cars we have purchased from you have been a revelation to us in easy handling, small amount of upkeep and general all around service.

"Having owned high priced cars for the past 15 years we feel we are giving you well deserved thanks for making us Chrysler owners.

"We can recommend your car to anyone looking for that something in automotive performance that we have found lacking in other cars."

E. W. Holmes, of Buffalo, New York, who owns two Chryslers, makes the significant statement:

"The Chrysler handles so well it discourages one from driving anything else."

K. T. K. Defeats Trotters; Wellsville Nine Wins From B. & W.

Potters Jump Into Second Place; Auto Men Back to Third

Davis Nine Threatens in Sixth When Belated Batting Attack Nets Club 3 Runs — Rardin Stars in Left Field — Score 6 to 3.

K. T. K., fresh from its conquest over the first place Chester team earlier in the week, continued its winning streak by defeating the fast and crafty Trotter aggregation last evening at Columbian park, dislodging the auto men and taking runner-up position in the City Industrial league race. The score was 6 to 3.

Witnessed by a large and enthusiastic crowd, and a majority of the Chester club which tonight will clash with Trotters at Patterson Field, the contest was replete with thrills that increased rapidly in the two closing innings when Trotters, finally scoring, threatened to go to the front.

Turned back scoreless for five straight innings and then when two had been retired in the sixth the Fowlerites shook themselves, mixed bats or performed some mystical diamond stunt for almost immediately they released a single and two doubles following a forceout, which netted them a trio of tallies.

But two runs shy of a tie, the side was retired as E. Bayley flied to McShane.

In the seventh, their last chance, they had the needed two scores on the bags, but they failed of finishing. R. Pollock elected to bat for J. Strobel at the outset of the inning, but he popped to Stoffel. Brooks got on when Finley erred. Aufderheide, batting for Deshler, singled, Parsons forced Brooks, C. Coleman to Finley. Then it was all up to A. Bayley and the spectators lingered as he nicked a few fouls. Finally, he swung and missed, it being the only strike-out registered by Stoffel during the entire game.

Stoffel was effective in all but the sixth. Though he allowed eight hits, half of these came in that fateful round while he dealt the remainder out, one per inning, except in the first and fifth when he allowed none at all. His control was almost perfect as he gave no walks. His hitting of Parsons in the sixth was the only blot on his escutcheon for the day.

Rardin, in left for K. T. K., loomed as the day's hero. He duplicated Simcox's stunt of Tuesday by having all the putouts in a single inning by pulling down three straight flies from the bats of A. Bayley, Heckathorn and Kinsey, in the fourth. At the bat he led his and the Trotter clubs by swatting for a mark of 1,000, his double and two singles in three times up giving him that distinction.

Though he failed to hit safely for the day Simcox's out at first in the initial inning gave K. T. K. their first run. Later, getting on by an error, he moved up two men on the bags, enabling them and himself to score later. His stonewall defense was again in evidence, making for the completion of two double plays and the acceptance of every chance that came his way.

Aufderheide came through as a pinch hitter in the seventh for Trotter, singling in his only appearance.

Brooks caught his initial game for Trotter and made an excellent impression. He made the bags twice on a single and an error.

Except in the fourth when he allowed five bingles, Deshler kept the eleven hits he allowed fairly well scattered. He struck out five men, but walked two and hit one. Ragged support behind him at critical junctures contributed to the scoring of his foes in all but the second inning when a pass he issued and the hitting af a player, plus a single, gave his opponents a run.

Stoffel and Simcox were the only potters who did not hit safely, while Parsons, R. Pollock and J. Strobel, of Trotters, had similar records. Shaw, in right for K. T. K., and A. Bayley in middle for Trotters, did not have a fielding chance.

DEIBEL SHOOTS PORTAGE IN 67

Youngstown Golfer Equals Record Set by J. M. Wells

Turning in a 67 score on the Portage Country club course, at Akron, where next week the state amateur championship will be played, Christy Deibel, of Youngstown, yesterday equaled the course record established by Joe M. Wells three years ago, and also made an ominous gesture toward the amateur crown now worn by the East Liverpool man.

Wells set his record while playing with Walter Hagen, Joe Kirkwood and Emmett French, professionals, and although many distinguished golfers have negotiated the course since then, it has never been in danger until yesterday.

In equaling Wells' record, Deibel registered birdies on Nos. 2, 3, 7, 9, 10 and 18. He displayed his best form on the first nine, which he made in 31, four under par. One over par on the twelfth and sixteenth gave him a 36 going back, to equal par.

Last Night's Fights

Youngstown—Babe Herman, California, featherweight, easily defeated Willie Ames, Akron, twelve rounds. Maxie Holub, Akron, outpointed Steve Nugent, Cleveland, six rounds. Kenneth Bee, Youngstown, won from Art Milnes, Elwood City, Pa., six rounds. Battling Kozar, Farrell, Pa., knocked out Johnnny Darcy, Sebring, second round.

At New York—Sid Terris, lightweight, outpointed Pal Moran, of New Orleans, ten rounds. Nat Kawen got decision over Murray Israel nad Leo Heinan in welterweight amateur tournament. Tony Canvoneri, bantamweight, outpointed Tony Lorenzo and Vinney La Guardia.

Wells Brothers Win Rotary Golf Trophy At Cleveland

Joe M. and W. E. Jr., Turn in Card of 153, Five Better Than Runners-Up.

Playing together yesterday at the Willowick Country club, Cleveland, Joe M. Wells, state amateur champion and his brother, W. E. Wells, Jr., shot the course for a 153 and won the Hunter trophy, the international Rotary club convention golf prize.

Joe Wells made the 18 holes in 74, four over Par. Ed Wells negotiated the distance in 79. Their score was five below that of the runners-up, Dr. F. M. Casto and Elmore Phelps, of Cleveland.

The amateur champion played consistenly from start to finish while his partner got into trouble on the eleventh and his return score, consequently, passed the 40 mark.

The Hunter trophy tournament requires a handicap of 14 or under to qualify. The Toronto team won it last year.

HERMAN EASILY DEFEATS AMES

YOUNGSTOWN, June 19.—Babe Herman, California featherweight, gave Willie Ames, Akron junior lightweight, a boxing lesson in 12 rounds here last night. Herman won every round by a wide margin. He smothered the Akron lad under a continuous avalanche of blows, and the battle appeared to be close to a knockout decision on more than one occasion.

YALE - HARVARD CREWS BATTLE

Meet on Thames Today for Supremacy of Oars.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 19.—By nightfall a new chapter in rowing history will have been written on the liquid page of the Thames river course with the blade of an oar dipped in agonized, human sweat. By nightfall the eight-oared varsity crew of Yale University will have preserved its dynasty over the kingdom of the oar or Harvard will have forced its abdication by a victory that even our most expert of experts concede to be well within the bounds of possibility.

Harvard has a fighting crew which has a fight chance.

The phrase was mounted knowingly by the thousands of Yale and Harvard followers who rode into town this morning under crimson and blue hatbands for the annual four-mile seance of legalized back-breaking. Harvard money, seemingly, was in evidence on every hand and it served to back the odds down from 10 to 7 to a rather short price on Yale of 6 to 5.

The Bull Dog remained the favorite, but such was the confidence of the Harvard camp that smart trowing men took refuge behind the non-committal and predicted the closest race for the last ten years.

Ed Stevens, Hard coach, contributed to this idea by declaring today that Harvard had come along so far during recent weeks that it is the fastest crew he ever handled.

Ed Leader, who has yet to lose a race in his three years at the head of the Yale rowing, countered with the declaration that he considered his present outfit to be as good at the four-mile distance as the 1924 ensemble. The latter was just good enough to beat the world at the Olympic games in Paris.

That made the issue a stand-off in the claiming stakes and recent time trials served to confirm this belief. It developed today that both crews broke the upstream record on Saturday last, Yale having done 20:19 and Harvard 20:27.

Wellsville, given superior pitching by Kuntzler, defeated Babcock & Wilcox in an exciting City Industrial league contest at Central park last evening, 7 to 1.

Kuntzler allowed but four hits. Sutherin was hit hard and finally gave way to McGeehan.

Manning led in hitting with a perfect record, having a triple and two singles in three times up.

McGonigal's home run in the third inning made B. & W.'s only tally though C. Wagner robbed himself of a four bagger by failing to touch first base in the second inning.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Watching thee Government.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—"Watch the government and report the facts' is the slogan that has been adopted by the newly organized Civil Service league of the District of Columbia. The quotation is credited to Will Rogers and surprise has been expressed that so serious an organization as the league should turn to the well known lariat-throwing humorist for inspiration. By way of explanation a story is told of how Rogers happened to make a statement.

It seems that Rogers recently had an interview with President Coolidge in the course of which the president is said to have remarked that he didn't see how Rogers thought up all his funny stories.

"I don't, Mr. President," Rogers replied. "I watch the government and report the facts."

In an address delivered on the occasion of the launching of the local league by Robert Catherwood, the head of the National Civil Service Reform league, may be found some of the reasons a humorist can get material by watching the government, for it discloses the fact that Uncle Sam in conducting the biggest business institution in the world is in some respects so unbusinesslike as to be weird if not funny.

For instance, there are government employes who do the same work but are paid widely varying salaries, ranging all the way from extremely liberal remuneration to starvation wages. In one case, forty-five different salaries were paid for precisely the same work, with a difference of $2,000 a year between the best paid and the worst paid employee.

Again, there is no system of promotion in the Federal service, strange as that statement may sound to any private employer. "With Jeffersonian simplicity," says Mr. Catherwood, "the aspiring Federal employee merely uses all the influence he can bring to bear to get a better job or higher pay. This is the Federal promition lack of system, innocent of principle and unadorned.'

Still again, as the Committee on Administration of the Civil Service league points out, when a government department calls upon the Civil Service commission to supply it with a mechanic there is no telling whether it will get a man qualified to paint a roof, build a house, operate machinery, or stop a leak in the departmental water pipes. This is due to the fact that under the classification plan set up by the Federal Personal board the class "mechanic' includes enginemen, carpenters, painters and plumbers.

Aid Rather Than Criticise.

In watching the government and reporting the facts it is the purpose of the new organization to be helpful and constructive rather than to criticise or to attack. It is desired to aid Uncle Sam in getting his immense establishment on a more thorough-going business basis and in bringing about uniformity and efficiency in his relations with his army of employees.

And t is an army whose services he commands—almost a million strong. To be exact the figures are 970,744, and civil service reformers insist that of the number only 744 have to do with politics or judicial decisions, while all the others should be free of politics in every way, shape, and form.

The president, the vice president, ten cabinet officers, 201 judges, 96 United States Senators and 435 representatives comprise the 744 political officials.

Of the 970,000 non-politicians, as Mr. Catherwood classifies them, 270,000 are soldiers, sailors and marines, and 700,000 are employed in government business operations, including 360,000 postal employees, and in the War and Navy departments and the Veterans' bureau 113,000 workmen and clerks. There are 9,000 employees in the Canal Zone and some 15,000 in the Philippines.

"Take the first half dozen biggest industrial concerns in the country, put them together, and the United States is a bigger industrial concern than the lot of them,' says the national leader of the civil service reform forces. "The government builds and maintains ships, aeroplanes, dams, highways, ports waterways, harbors, public buildings, bridges, fortifications, and penal and charitable institutions, and manufactures a list of 70,000 articles from apple jelly to zylophilogistic specimens.

"The government is the biggest banker, the biggest bond house, the largest carpenter, power concern, dredger, cement user, printer and lithographer in the country. The combined faculties of Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Michigan, Chicago, Northwestern, Wisconsin and Stanford Universities are less than the scientific faculty of the department of Agriculture. The United States is not only the largest employer of labor in the world, but the largest industrial, scientific and social concern going."

And, it is added, there never was and never will be a Republican way of manufacturing, a Democratic way of conducting agricultural experiments, or a LaFollette way of issuing marriage licenses. Hence the contention that politics should be absolutely eliminated from Uncle Sam's establishment.

What the Government Needs.

What the government needs, it is asserted, is a permanent employment system, based throughout on merit principles, operating in the people's interest, administered by an expert independent authority, and applicable to the tenure, pay and promotion, as well as to the selection of all non-political employees.

Dr. Ellery C. Stowell, president of the Washington Civil Service league, says that such a system is the kind that will save money for the taxpayer and put cheer and courage into the heart of every faithful and efficient government employee. He adds that the league is the mechanism by which disinterested persons not themselves in the employ of the government may cogently urge the adoption of such obvious improvements in the Federal service as investigation may show to be desirable.

The Committee on Administration, which is composed of Charles E. Hill, professor of political science at George Washington university, and W. J. Shepard, professor of political science of the Robert Brookings Graduate School of Economics and Government, in addition to Dr. Stowell, is now planning to bring about some must be those with the lowes efficiency ruling that when government employees are laid off the first to go must be those with tehe lowest efficiency rating. The manifest injustice of the raigid application of this rule, it is pointed out, lies in the fact that it means that an employee with ten years of service and an efficiency rating of 82 would be retired when one with barely six months of service and an efficiency rating of 83 would be retained.

The Committee will also take up the failure of the Personnel Classification board to set up true classes, as illustrated in the class "mecahnics," the efficiency rating which applies to about 4,000 or 50,000 positions in the Districte of Columbia and is said to be not in accord with recognized employment, and the matter of classification appeals, with a view to expeditinge the consideration of the thousands of appeals now pending before the Personnel board, and of arranging so that employees who submit appeals may have representation at the hearings.

The real drive to build up the membership of the league, which, by the way, is a revival of the old Washington Civil Service association, will not be made until Fall. Meanwhile, however, the cooperation of those actively interested in the league's purposes is being evidenced in the substantial support that is being given the movement.

On November 18, shortly before congress convenes, the annual meet of the league will be held and its legislative program in connection with the approaching session will be adopted.

Ex-Prince Seeks Chauffeur's Job

Anybody want a prince of a chauffeur? Prince Basile Swiatopolk-Mirski, direct descendant of the family that ruled Russia from 1260 to 1600, is in New York, penniless, and looking for a job driving a car for a socially-elect family willing to accept him as a social equal.

Crow Flies Near Golf Course and Steals Balls

Paris.—An oversized, sleek, midnight-black crow, with an apartment somewhere back in the dense pines near the fourteenth hole on the St. Germain golf course, is responsible for more golfing griefs this spring than all the bunkers, traps and fences put together.

This bird is a golf ball thief and is suspected of being a common crow kleptomaniac. Sitting calmly and with pretense of eating worms some 200 yards from the tee, she waits until some golfer taps out a good drive. Then the bird walks over, takes the ball and flops off with it.

This thief is teaching the trick to others of her tribe.

It is assumed that this old gossiper has passed the word along to her sisters, with the result that several hundred golf balls repose now in the nearby rookery with scores of cheating hen crows still trying to hatch them out.

In the meantime, the crow is protected by national laws which suggest that she is a carrion bird and therefore valuable.

Balloon Fish Causes Two Deaths; Victims Warned Before Eating

HONOLULU, Hawaii, June.—Eating a poisonous variety of balloon fish, known among the Hawaiians as dopuhue, caused the death of two Chinese in this city recently. The men succumbed within twenty minutes from the time they had partaken of the fish. Members of their families stated that the men had been previously told the fish were poison, but apparently considered the story only a superstition among the native fishermen.

To date Australia has spent $750,000,000 on repatriating her returned soldiers

SCRIBES NAME COMMITTEEMEN

CLEVELAND, June 19.—James M. Gould, president of the baseball writers' association of America today announced the appointment of the following committees:

Rules—John B. Foster, New York, chairman; James R. Harrison, New York; William G. Evans, Cleveland.

Auditing—Melvelle E. Webb, Jr., Boston; Ed. Ballinger, Pittsburgh; William Slocum, New York.

The rules committee will co-operate with the major league at the joint session next winter in revising and simplifying the present baseball code, there being a few spots where the rules now are contradictory.

Tagging The Bases

The law of gravity stands vindicated today. The leaders in both leagues won and the trailers in both leagues lost. The Philadelphia Athletics scored four runs in the ninth for a 6 to 2 victory over Cleveland. The New York Giants, after six defeats, pulled out a 13-inning victory over Cincinnati, 4 to 3.

The Boston Red Sox dug deeper into eighth place by losing to Chicago, 5 to 1. The Boston Braves also held safely to the cellar position by dropping a game to St. Louis, 4 to 3.

The Detroit Tigers clawed another chunk from the tender New York Yankees, six bites to three.

"Bucky" Harris, Washington manager, hit safely for his twenty-fourth consecutive game, but didn't prevent the Senators from slipping a game to St. Louis. Score, 9 to 6.

French Manufacturer Makes Radio Crystal From Waste Products

PARIS—Proverbial French thrift has brought about a new discovery which, if the claims are proved, will mean a revolution in wireless reception.

Monsieur Felix Thuaud, a well-known French manufacturer, has just come upon a new crystal among the waste products of his steel mill which, he thinks, will receive wireless signals at far longer distances and with greater clearness than the best crystals now in use. And, best of all, the new substance can be produced at about one-quarter of the price of the ordinary crystal.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Watching thee Government.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—"Watch the government and report the facts' is the slogan that has been adopted by the newly organized Civil Service league of the District of Columbia. The quotation is credited to Will Rogers and surprise has been expressed that so serious an organization as the league should turn to the well known lariat-throwing humorist for inspiration. By way of explanation a story is told of how Rogers happened to make a statement.

It seems that Rogers recently had an interview with President Coolidge in the course of which the president is said to have remarked that he didn't see how Rogers thought up all his funny stories.

"I don't, Mr. President," Rogers replied. "I watch the government and report the facts."

In an address delivered on the occasion of the launching of the local league by Robert Catherwood, the head of the National Civil Service Reform league, may be found some of the reasons a humorist can get material by watching the government, for it discloses the fact that Uncle Sam in conducting the biggest business institution in the world is in some respects so unbusinesslike as to be weird if not funny.

For instance, there are government employes who do the same work but are paid widely varying salaries, ranging all the way from extremely liberal remuneration to starvation wages. In one case, forty-five different salaries were paid for precisely the same work, with a difference of $2,060 a year between the best paid and the worst paid employee.

Again, there is no system of promotion in the Federal service, strange as that statement may sound to any private employer. "With Jeffersonian simplicity," says Mr. Catherwood, "the aspiring Federal employee merely uses all the influence he can bring to bear to get a better job or higher pay. This is the Federal promition lack of system, innocent of principle and unadorned.'

Still again, as the Committee on Administration of the Civil Service league points out, when a government department calls upon the Civil Service commission to supply it with a mechanic there is no telling whether it will get a man qualified to paint a roof, build a house, operate machinery, or stop a leak in the departmental water pipes. This is due to the fact that under the classification plan set up by the Federal Personal board the class "mechanic' includes enginemen, carpenters, painters and plumbers.

Aid Rather Than Criticise.

In watching the government and reporting the facts it is the purpose of the new organization to be helpful and constructive rather than to criticise or to attack. It is desired to aid Uncle Sam in getting his immense establishment on a more thorough-going business basis and in bringing about uniformity and efficiency in his relations with his army of employees.

And t is an army whose services he commands—almost a million strong. To be exact the figures are 970,744, and civil service reformers insist that of the number only 744 have to do with politics or judicial decisions, while all the others should be free of politics in every way, shape, and form.

The president, the vice president, ten cabinet officers, 201 judges, 96 United States Senators and 435 representatives comprise the 744 political officials.

Of the 970,000 non-politicians, as Mr. Catherwood classifies them, 270,000 are soldiers, sailors and marines, and 700,000 are employed in government business operations, including 360,000 postal employees, and in the War and Navy departments and the Veterans' bureau 113,000 workmen and clerks. There are 9,000 employees in the Canal Zone and some 15,000 in the Philippines.

"Take the first half dozen biggest industrial concerns in the country, put them together, and the United States is a bigger industrial concern than the lot of them,' says the national leader of the civil service reform forces. "The government builds and maintains ships, aeroplanes, dams, highways, ports waterways, harbors, public buildings, bridges, fortifications, and penal and charitable institutions, and manufactures a list of 70,000 articles from apple jelly to zylophilogistic specimens.

"The government is the biggest banker, the biggest bond house, the largest carpenter, power concern, dredger, cement user, printer and lithographer in the country. The combined faculties of Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Michigan, Chicago, Northwestern, Wisconsin and Stanford Universities are less than the scientific faculty of the department of Agriculture. The United States is not only the largest employer of labor in the world, but the largest industrial, scientific and social concern going."

And, it is added, there never was and never will be a Republican way of manufacturing, a Democratic way of conducting agricultural experiments, or a LaFollette way of issuing marriage licenses. Hence the contention that politics should be absolutely eliminated from Uncle Sam's establishment.

What the Government Needs.

What the government needs, it is asserted, is a permanent employment system, based throughout on merit principles, operating in the people's interest, administered by an expert independent authority, and applicable to the tenure, pay and promotion, as well as to the selection of all non-political employees.

Dr. Ellery C. Stowell, president of the Washington Civil Service league, says that such a system is the kind that will save money for the taxpayer and put cheer and courage into the heart of every faithful and efficient government employee. He adds that the league is the mechanism by which disinterested persons not themselves in the employ of the government may cognently urge the adoption of such obvious improvements in the Federal service as investigation may show to be desirable.

The Committee on Administration, which is composed of Charles E. Hill, professor of political science at George Washington university, and W. J. Shepard, professor of political science of the Robert Brookings Graduate School of Economics and Government, in addition to Dr. Stowell, is now planning to bring about some must be those with the lowes efficiency ruling that when government employees are laid off the first to go must be those with tehe lowest efficiency rating. The manifest injustice of the raigid application of this rule, it is pointed out, lies in the fact that it means that an employee with ten years of service and an efficiency rating of 82 would be retired when one with bareiy six months of service and an efficiency rating of 83 would be retained.

The Committee will also take up the failure of the Personnel Classification board to set up true classes, as illustrated in the class "mecahnics," the efficiency rating which applies to about 4,000 or 50,000 positions in the Districte of Columbia and is said to be not in accord with recognized employment, and the matter of classification appeals, with a view to expeditinge the consideration of the thousands of appeals now pending before the Personnel board, and of arranging so that employees who submit appeals may have representation at the hearings.

The real drive to build up the membership of the league, which, by the way, is a revival of the old Washington Civil Service association, will not be made until Fall. Meanwhile, however, the cooperation of those actively interested in the league's purposes is being evidenced in the substantial support that is being given the movement.

On November 18, shortly before congress convenes, the annual meet of the league will be held and its legislative program in connection with the approaching session will be adopted.

Crow Flies Near Golf Course and Steals Balls

Paris.—An oversized, sleek, midnight-black crow, with an apartment somewhere back in the dense pines near the fourteenth hole on the St. Germain golf course, is responsible for more golfing griefs this spring than all the bunkers, traps and fences put together.

This bird is a golf ball thief and is suspected of being a common crow kleptomaniac. Sitting calmly and with pretense of eating worms some 200 yards from the tee, she waits until some golfer taps out a good drive. Then the bird walks over, takes the ball and flops off with it.

This thief is teaching the trick to others of her tribe.

It is assumed that this old gossiper has passed the word along to her sisters, with the result that several hundred golf balls repose now in the nearby rookery with scores of cheating hen crows still trying to hatch them out.

In the meantime, the crow is protected by national laws which suggest that she is a carrion bird and therefore valuable.

Balloon Fish Causes Two Deaths; Victims Warned Before Eating

HONOLULU, Hawaii, June.—Eating a poisonous variety of balloon fish, known among the Hawaiians as dopuhue, caused the death of two Chinese in this city recently. The men succumbed within twenty minutes from the time they had partaken of the fish. Members of their families stated that the men had been previously told the fish were poison, but apparently considered the story only a superstition among the native fishermen.

To date Australia has spent $750,000,000 on repatriating her returned soldiers

Ex-Prince Seeks Chauffeur's Job

Anybody want a prince of a chauffeur? Prince Basile Swiatopolk-Mirski, direct descendant of the family that ruled Russia from 1260 to 1600, is in New York, penniless, and looking for a job driving a car for a socially-elect family willing to accept him as a social equal.

SCRIBES NAME COMMITTEEMEN

CLEVELAND, June 19.—James M. Gould, president of the baseball writers' association of America today announced the appointment of the following committees:

Rules—John B. Foster, New York, chairman; James R. Harrison, New York; William G. Evans, Cleveland.

Auditing—Melvelle E. Webb, Jr., Boston; Ed. Ballinger, Pittsburgh; William Slocum, New York.

The rules committee will co-operate with the major league at the joint session next winter in revising and simplifying the present baseball code, there being a few spots where the rules now are contradictory.

Tagging The Bases

The law of gravity stands vindicated today. The leaders in both leagues won and the trailers in both leagues lost. The Philadelphia Athletics scored four runs in the ninth for a 6 to 2 victory over Cleveland. The New York Giants, after six defeats, pulled out a 13-inning victory over Cincinnati, 4 to 3.

The Boston Red Sox dug deeper into eighth place by losing to Chicago, 5 to 1. The Boston Braves also held safely to the cellar position by dropping a game to St. Louis, 4 to 3.

The Detroit Tigers clawed another chunk from the tender New York Yankees, six bites to three.

"Bucky" Harris, Washington manager, hit safely for his twenty-fourth consecutive game, but didn't prevent the Senators from slipping a game to St. Louis. Score, 9 to 6.

French Manufacturer Makes Radio Crystal From Waste Products

PARIS—Proverbial French thrift has brought about a new discovery which, if the claims are proved, will mean a revolution in wireless reception.

Monsieur Felix Thuaud, a well-known French manufacturer, has just come upon a new crystal among the waste products of his steel mill which, he thinks, will receive wireless signals at far longer distances and with greater clearness than the best crystals now in use. And, best of all, the new substance can be produced at about one-quarter of the price of the ordinary crystal.

Napoleon's Love Letters Reveal Ardent Courtship

'Love a Little One Who Loves You Very Much," Famous Soldier Pleaded in Letter to "Emma."

BRUSSELS, June.— Napoleon may have been the greatest soldier of history, but he fell to the level of all lovers, and grovelled before woman.

Five love letters attributed to Napoleon have been published here by the Princes de Ligne. The letters are addressed to an unknown woman, whom Napoleon calls "Emma," and who may have been Mlle. de Laubrie de Saint Germain.

The letters are written in one too grammatical French in the execrable hand of the famous soldier.

Napoleon's pleas as a lover were but little different than the pleas of lovers the world over since time began.

Excerpts from these love letters follow:

"Tell me that you will do justice to feelings worthy of you, and above all do not speak to me of social distinctions, for it is not I who can give you any. . . .

"You fly away from me, you are cold and indifferent to me. Emma, your letter has upset me and I find no happiness but in your knowing the influence you have on me, the happiness which it would give me to know that you also feel a little, and in the hopes that you will love a little one who loves you very much. . .

"The idea that you were angry, hurt and tired of flattery and compliments, pure as they were, hurt me. Write to me and tell me that your heart is not unfeeling, and that you believe in the truth of what I am feeling and that you are not altogether indifferent to my happiness or pain—pain because of you, Emma."

No More Flies No More Mosquitoes Wonderful Black Flag Kills Them All

Kill every fly in your home with BLACK FLAG. And every mosquito! And every roach! BLACK FLAG is the surest death to insects ever discovered. For it contains a secret vegetable ingredient which bugs breathe and die. Not one escapes.

Ordinary insecticides kill, at best, only 6 out of every 10 bugs. The four which get away breed hundreds which return.

But BLACK FLAG kills 10 out of every 10 pests. It will completely rid a home of bugs when all else fails And it kills every kind of bug! Flies, mosquitoes, roaches, moths, ants, bedbugs, dog fleas, plant lice and chicken lice! But BLACK FLAG is absolutely harmless to humans and animals.

And this master insect killer kills every roach, too!

BLACK FLAG comes in two forms—powder and liquid. Both are equally effective, with these three exceptions—never use any liquid on furs; use the powder to make them mothproof. Use the powder to kill dog fleas and lice.

Either BLACK FLAG powder or liquid costs less. Many people use both, preferring the liquid to kill flies, mosquitoes and moths—and the powder to kill roaches, ants, bedbugs, dog fleas and lice. BLACK FLAG comes in two forms—powder and liquid. Both are equally effective, with these three exceptions—never use any liquid on furs; use the powder to make them mothproof. Use the powder to kill dog fleas and lice.

Either BLACK FLAG powder or liquid costs less. Many people use both, preferring the liquid to kill flies, mosquitoes and moths—and the powder to kill roaches, ants, bedbugs, dog fleas and lice. BLACK FLAG Powder, 15c up. Powder Gun, 10c. Liquid, 25c up. Sprayer, 45c. Special introductory package containing can of liquid BLACK FLAG and Sprayer for only 65c. At drug, grocery, hardware and department stores. Buy BLACK FLAG today.

Tip For Beginners.

Solve this puzzle by comparing the synonyms listed in the "Horizontal" and "Vertical" columns with the number of spaces extending crosswise or downward on the diagram, as the case may be. If a word occurs to you meaning substantially the same as the synonym and the correct number of letters to fit in the spaces between its number and the first shaded stop following, write it in lightly. Work away the small words, the "easy" words, first, and they will give you plenty of clues to the difficult ones.

"CUPID'S CHURCH" HAS CELEBRATION

Many Famous Names Adorn Register of London Edifice.

London.—London's fashionable church, St. George's, Hanover Square, celebrated its bicentenary recently with a special series of services. Often called "St. Cupid's church" in the latter part of the last century, St. George's is still popular for fashionable weddings, and second only to St. Margaret's, Westminster.

Sixty years ago as much as 1,000 weddings occurred each year at St. George's, but during the last fifty years the average has been about 300. Included among the latter was that of Theodore Roosevelt, who described himself in the register as a "ranchman" when he walked over from Brown's hotel in a bowler hat to be married to Edith Kermit Carew.

The registers are rich in signatures of other prominent men, as well as royalties. The signatures of King Edward and Queen Alexandria, alongside those of the present king and queen, are recorded against the wedding of a member of the Gosford family.

The signatures of four prime ministers of England also are there inscribed at the wedding of Henry Asquith, now Lord Oxford, to his present wife. They are Lord Roseberry, William Ewart Gladstone, Henry Asquith and Arthur Balfour, now Lord Balfour.

Officials of the church assert that if all the couples who have been married at the famous old edifice during the last forty years had been present at the bicentenary services, the congregation would have numbered about twelve thousand.

For gifts of fire engines to the department at Ramsgate, England, Mrs. Stancomb Wills has been appointed honorary chief.

"CUPID'S CHURCH" HAS CELEBRATION

Many Famous Names Adorn Register of London Edifice.

London. — London's fashionable church, St. George's, Hanover Square, celebrated its bicentenary recently with a special series of services. Often called "St. Cupid's church" in the latter part of the last century, St. George's is still popular for fashionable weddings, and second only to St. Margaret's, Westminster.

Sixty years ago as much as 1,000 weddings occurred each year at St. George's, but during the last fifty years the average has been about 300. Included among the latter was that of Theodore Roosevelt, who described himself in the register as a "ranchman" when he walked over from Brown's hotel in a bowler hat to be married to Edith Kermit Carew.

The registers are rich in signatures of other prominent men, as well as royalties. The signatures of King Edward and Queen Alexandria, alongside those of the present king and queen, are recorded against the wedding of a member of the Gosford family.

The signatures of four prime ministers of England also are there inscribed at the wedding of Henry Asquith, now Lord Oxford, to his present wife. They are Lord Roseberry, William Ewart Gladstone, Henry Asquith and Arthur Balfour, now Lord Balfour.

Officials of the church assert that if all the couples who have been married at the famous old edifice during the last forty years had been present at the bicentenary services, the congregation would have numbered about twelve thousand.

For gifts of fire engines to the department at Ramsgate, England, Mrs. Stancomb Wills has been appointed honorary chief.

All-Star Cast In "Adventure," at Ceramic Theatre

Here is an item of interest to hapless horsemen, frenzied Ford owners and suffering subway straphangers. It concerns a new mode of transportation, called pick-a-back, and there are never any delays caused by broken bridle reins, punctures or engine trouble.

Pick-a-back, which, as the name suggests, consists of one man riding around on the back of a larger man, is said to be the only method of travel on some islands of the South Seas.

Authority for this information is the Victor Fleming-Paramount company, which recently completed filming Jack London's South Sea story, "Adventure," featuring Tom Moore, Pauline Starke, Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, at the Ceramic theatre today and tomorrow. Throughout the course of the picture, Moore rides on the back of a huge native.

"It was a lot of fun, letting the other fellow do the work," said the popular Paramount player. "But on the last day he got even with me. He stubbed his toe and I was thrown over his head into a pile of brush."

There is this much to be said in favor of our modern rapid transit facilities. If you are in a hurry to get anywhere, the horse, the Ford, the subway or the aeroplane will get you there much faster than the pick-a-back. You are lucky to cover three miles an hour by pick-a-back whereas, the aeroplane, for example, has an average speed of one hundred and twenty miles per hour.

Air excursions between Paris and London have become so popular that extra planes often are necessary to carry the passengers.

Motion picture theatres of Peru have an intermission of five minutes before each reel, during which time advertising slides are shown.

New Moving Picture Stars Will Soon be Installed in Favor

HOLLYWOOD, June.—A new day of stars is dawning in picture land.

Names unheard of a year ago will be ablaze this fall from coast to coast as the winter movie season is ushered in.

With many of the leading present-day stars producing only one picture a year, new and younger faces are believed bound to be installed in high favor.

This is the general opinion of producers in Hollywood.

"The day of the movie star has returned and the coming year will see an avalanche of new favorites on the screen,' said Louis B. Mayer, head of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

"I have a carefully prepared chart showing to a surprising degree a marked decline of popularity among many stars whose names today are household words. Only those stars who continue to show a steady increase in popularity will in the future, I believe, be seen in big productions."

—We consider it our prime duty to insure the absolute safety of this company by building a surplus that will take care of any possible emergency.

If it is the duty of a financial institution to save out of its earnings for the security of its depositors, it is equally important that he who depends on his labor for an income should save such part of that income as will protect himself and his family against the uncertainties of tomorrow.

New Moving Picture Stars Will Soon be Installed in Favor

HOLLYWOOD, June.—A new day of stars is dawning in picture land.

Names unheard of a year ago will be ablaze this fall from coast to coast as the winter movie season is ushered in.

With many of the leading present-day stars producing only one picture a year, new and younger faces are believed bound to be installed in high favor.

This is the general opinion of producers in Hollywood.

"The day of the movie star has returned and the coming year will see an avalanche of new favorites on the screen,' said Louis B. Mayer, head of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

"I have a carefully prepared chart showing to a surprising degree a marked decline of popularity among many stars whose names today are household words. Only those stars who continue to show a steady increase in popularity will in the future, I believe, be seen in big productions."

Woman Burglar, 54, Given Prison Term; Convicted 19 Times

LEEDS, Eng., June.—A good wife, and mother of eighteen children, Mrs. Mary Ann Cowl, has just been sentenced to five years for burglary at Rotherham.

Her only defense was that she could not resist the craving for excitement, adventure and danger after the monotony of home life.

For years she had been known in Sheffield as a model mother looking equally well after her children and her home, and seemingly absorbed in these interests. None suspected her as an ex-convict.

At fifty-four years of age Mrs. Cowl has already served one term of three years and been convicted nineteen times in all. She recently initiated her eldest daughter into the business. The girl was used as a female Oliver Twist to get into houses through narrow openings in order to let her mother in through the door.

Although collections in nearly all other lines in Porto Rico are slow, automobile dealers report that cash sales of cars are increasing.

Abd-El-Krim—Bad News.
$5,000 for Guessing.
Yes, We Are Very Rich.
Coal to Come Back.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

Abd-El-Krim, leader of the Riffs against the French, is reported killed in battle.

It's not unlikely, for the Arab leader, a fighter by choice, does not conduct war from a safe distance, as do the rulers of Europe. And, his death would mean more than any dozen deaths in our modern "civilized" war.

With us the power is in guns, gas, science and money.

With the Arabs, still living back in the days of Mohammed, the power is in personal leadership.

David Cowan, a young Canadian, won $5,000 for the best essay predicting the developments in electrical energy between 1920 and 1930.

At the end of 1930, the American super power corporation will give $10,000 to the essay writer whose predictions come nearest to the truth.

Young Cowan knew nothing about electricity, when Bonbright & Co. offered the prize. He used his brains, studied the history of electricity in industry, let his imagination work, and won.

Some time imagination does more than knowledge. The inventor of the sewing machine could not sew.

No one can guess at the possibilities of electricity in industry. For one thing, according to Haldane, able British scientist, chemistry and electricity combined may make sugar as cheap as sawdust.

Industry already produces money on a big scale. The Du Pont Co. is expected to "cut a melon" in the slang of Wall Street, by handing to its stockholders a bonus of $50,000,000 in stock. Increasing capitalization from one hundred to one hundred and fifty millions will do it. That will seem to stockholders more impressive than making sugar as cheap as sawdust.

With such melons you can afford to buy sugar at old prices.

French francs and Italian lire were weak yesterday. Our suggestion that wtar debs be paid has a disturbing effect. But financiers that should know say that with debts refunded, on a fair basis, the nations' currency will revive.

"England would not today have her pound practically at par had she not arranged to pay her debt. And what she saves in her gold purchases will be enough to pay her debt to America."

So say the experts.

This is a frightfully rich nation. The countries of Europe owe us ten thousand million and will pay us, including interest, thirty thousand millions in the next 61 years.

Old Rome, with her consuls pouring in men and slaves from conquered territory was not nearly as "well fixed" as Uncle Sam. No wonder some of our friends in Europe worry, and ask "did we fight each other only to make Uncle Sam rich?"

Our answer is, "we didn't ask you to fight. Be wiser next time."

Two of Britain's ablest scientists, J. Haldane and Sir John Cadman, tell a gathering of engineers that the age of coal is not passing, and that steam will crowd out the internal combustion engine—steam being more powerful.

Just as you were bidding goodbye to coal and wondering what would happen when oil gave out you are told that oil will do many things that coal can't do, but coal will be king.

Most surprising, to serious men, is the statement that steam, instead of gasoline, will be used in airplane en-

BOARD OF EDUCATION DEFERS RULING UNTIL ATTORNEY GENERAL ACTS

Proponents and Opponents of Ministerial Association's Proposal to Use Public Schools During Fall Term Crowd Assembly Room to Hear Arguments at Board Meeting.

REV. DR. F. G. FOWLER OUTLINES PLAN; DR. SAMUEL RICH LEADS OPPOSITION

After Listening to 90-Minute Debate, in Which J. H. Brookes Submits Series of Questions, Board Members Decide to Await Opinion on Legality of Pastor's Suggestion.

The board of education last night decided to defer action on the Ministerial association's proposal to use the public schools next fall for classes in religious education until Attorney General C. C. Crabbe makes a ruling upon the legality of the plan. The question will likely come up for a vote at a special meeting which has been called for Friday evening, June 26.

This decision was reached after a public hearing in a high school assembly room was crowded with proponents and opponents of the pastors' proposal, numbering approximately 150. Supporters of the ministers' plan probably outnumbered the opposition five to one. Once during the hearing, the crowd applauded and near the close they booed.

Rev. Dr. Frank G. Fowler, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, outlined the ministers' proposal.

Dr. Samuel Rich, eye, throat and nose specialist, was chief spokesman for the opposing forces.

The argument, during which President J. H. Brookes, of the board of education, submitted 18 questions to the pastors, continued for 90 minutes.

That to teach the Protestant or any other religion in the "tax supported" public school would be a "step backwards" in the educational system of the city, was the charge made by a committee who protested against the proposal.

Dr. Fowler Outlines Plan.

"Let us carry out our plan and within 10 years we will present to you a better East Liverpool than we have today."

This statement from Dr. Fowler caused friends of the proposal to cheer and applaud.

Dr. Fowler, at the opening of the hearing explained the plan of the Ministerial association. He declared that the school board had dismissed children for these classes last year but that the course had not proved as successful as it would have been had the children remained in the school building where they would be under an atmosphere of discipline.

He explained that no child except those whose parents would make written application would be permitted to take the course. A competent teacher would be sent to the schools for one period each week to conduct these classes. Rooms which were lighted and heated and furnished with janitor service under ordinary circumstances would be used, eliminating any additional expense. The salary of the teacher would be paid by the various co-operating churches.

The teacher would work under the direction of an organization to be known as the East Liverpool Council of Religious Education, which would include a representative of the board of education and the superintendent of schools.

In touching upon the recent decision of the supreme court in declaring the Oregon school law unconstitutional, Dr. Fowler declared that the court's decision was the great American thing.

"The court held that 'we should not

Additional Accommodations Planned in Three Districts.

Five additional school rooms will be opened in the East Liverpool city school district next September, the board of education decided last night, when report of School Enumerator W. C. Dickey for the Lincoln highway, Pleasant Heights and East End districts was submitted.

A two-room portable building will be erected on Pleasant Heights. Another one-room structure will be added to the Glenmoor group, while two one-room structures will be placed in the East End.

When the enumerator completes his work, the school board will determine the exact locations for the two East End structures. At least one, and possibly both, will be on the Horace Mann grounds, however.

Manufacturers of portable schools were asked to submit bids on or before next Friday, June 26, when a special meeting will be held. The five structures will cost approximately $9,000.

A committee made up of D. F. White and F. T. Weaver, named to negotiate with Henry Goodwin for the purchase of a school site in East End, was continued. The committee will get prices from Mr. Goodwin on three and one-half acres of the tract and also on the entire seven acres making up the site.

Appoint Instructors.

Upon recommendation of Superintendent Geiger and the teachers' committee, the board approved the appointment of Miss Mildred Faulk as

CAPT. AMUNDSEN NATIONAL HERO OF NORWAY AS PARTY RETURNS

Expedition Got Within 150 Miles of North Pole.

WILL TRY AGAIN

Explorer and Ohio Aviator Arrive at King's Bay.

OSLO, Norway, June 19.—Captain Roald Amundsen was the national hero of Norway today.

An official message of congratulation was forwarded by the Norwegian government to the explorer, who with his party, has returned safely to King's Bay, Spitzenbergen, after being missing 28 days in the regions of the North pole.

"The Norwegian government," the message said, "sends you and your brave companions hearty greetings and congratulations on your wonderful journey. Welcome home."

Cheers for Amundsen.

Members of the Norwegian parliament, stood while the president opened the chambers session today with congratulations for Captain Amundsen. Dr. Skatum told the chamber the soundings made by Amundsen within 160 miles of the pole were significant and valuable.

Mr. Salvesen, president of the Baltic White Sea conference, proposed three cheers for Amundsn, which were enthusiastically given.

"He belongs not to Norway, but to the world," Salvesen said.

Amundsen, Lieut. Lincoln Ellsworth and the expedition crew of four men returned yessterday to King's Bay aboard a Danish sailing steamer.

Await Details of Trip.

The expedition got to within 150 miles of the North Pole, according to

Ellsworth Rescues Polar Observers From Icy Waters.

LONDON, June 19.—Lieut. Lincoln Ellsworth, the Ohio aviator who accompanied Roald Amundsen in his attempt to fly to the North Pole, rescued two members of the expedition from drowning while Amundsen's plane was ice bound, Commander Christian Presturd, naval attache in London of the Norweigian government, declared here today. Prestrud was with Amundsen when he discovered the South Pole.

"I have not all of the details as yet of what happened during Amundsen's flight," Presturd said, "but I have heard a great deal of Ellsworth and his determination to reach the pole."

"I feel sure Ellsworth will work with Amundsen to start a new expedition, but probably the new expednion will be with an airship because, it seems to be, Amundsen has demonstrated the impracticability of aeroplanes flying to the Pole. An airship could not land at the Pole, but it could fly over it and make many observations, and possibly anchor over the Pole.

"You will hear more of Amundsen and Ellsworth. I am sure they have not finished with their ambition, and that they will yet reach the North Pole."

Dr. Tucker Scores Modernists In Closing Lecture On Bible

Tells Large Audience at First United Presbyterian Church That He Stands for Every Fundamental Part of Faith.

Declaring the Bible humanly unmakable, unbreakable and unshakable, Dr. Leon W. Tucker, of New York city, eloquently and unqualifiedly asserted its 66 books to be divinely inspired and without a doubt God's revelation to man in a farewell address at the United Presbyterian church Thursday evening that concluded a week's series of scriptural study under auspices of the First Baptist church.

Dr. Tucker unhesitatingly maintained that the greatest conrtibutors to lawlessness in the world were those who had sworn to proclaim, preach and expound its tenets and then denied the fundamentals of the doctrines which, he held, exuded from it. "I hold that this book of books is the conservator of all our liberties," he explained. "I believe it from cover to cover and stand for every fundamental part of our faith as against every mederistic, nationalistic and materialistic fight that is now being waged against it."

Mayor Expresses Appreciation.

At the request of Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist church, Dr. Tucker spoke on "The Bible" instead of his announced subject of "Morals and Sex in the Light of God's Word."

In behalf of the First Baptist congregation, under whose auspices Dr. Tucker and party came to East Liverpool, Mayor Charles Brown voiced its appreciation at "being steeped in the facts of the book we all love," wished the party God-speed and expressed the hope it would return here soon again. "You have, all of you, made us feel that 'our Redeemer liveth,'" he said, "and, I am sure, will cause all of us to stand more firmly upon its truths."

Rev. O'Brien also spoke his appreciation of every member of the party and announced its tentative return to East Liverpool for a period, including two Sundays, in December, following which Dr. Tucker and his assistants will proceed to the Pacific coast

Rioters Wreck British and Japanese Shops — General Strike Is Threatened in Canton.

LONDON, June 19.—New anti-foreign riots have broken out in Shanghai and Chung King and rioters have wrecked British and Japanese shops, according to dispatches reaching here today. A general strike was threatened for Canton.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Anti-foreign agitation is rapidly growing at Chung King, a port 1,500 miles up the Yangtse river from Shanghai, American Vice Consul Robert L. Smyth advised the state department today.

Three foreigners, a Britisher, Swede and Pole, have been severely beaten by mobs, Smyth reported, but there is no agitation at the present time against Americans.

The chief danger, the dispatch stated, is that General Yuan Tsu Ming's troops may assist the agitators.

The British consul has moved from the consulate in the city to a British gunboat in the river because of the forced desertion of his Chinese staff and servants as well as because the bitter anti-British feeling.

CHUNG KING, China, June 19. — The situation here has reached a point of grave danger for foreign residents.

All foreigners are preparing to take refuge on foreign war craft.

The British consulate has been evacuated. Foreigners have been stoned by mobs and anti-foreign feeling is at its height

PEKING, June 19.—With anti-British feeling apparently reaching new heights, responsible organizations were today going so far as to urge the Chinese government to sever relations with Great Britain and prepare to fight.

Shipping in Black Sea Harried by Storm Which Sweeps From Southern Siberian Province Along Coast

MOSCOW, June 19.—Twenty-eight persons were killed and hundreds injured in a tornado which wiped out two villages in the province of Altai, according to advices received here today.

Shipping in the Black sea also was harried by the storm, which swept from the southern Siberian province along the coast.

Snow covered northern Russia for the first time in a century in June as an aftermath of the southern storm.

Croxall Dump Fire Sends Smoke Screen Over Downtown Zone

Sections of Dresden avenue, West Eighth street, West Ninth street, and other adjoining thoroughfares were hidden behind a smoke screen for more than two hours last night, as a result of fire breaking out in the Croxall dump, Claiborne avenue.

Firemen were called about 10 o'clock and kept a stream of water on the blaze for about two and one half hours before it was extinguished. The fire is said to have been started by persons living near the dump.

Harry F. Sinclair Wins Decision in Teapot Dome Case

CHEYENNE, Wyo., June 19.—The Teapot Dome naval oil reserve lease granted Harry F. Sinclair by former Secretary of the Interior A. B. Fall was secured without conspiracy or fraud. This decision was rendered by Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy in district court here today in a lengthy opinoin in the equity suit wherein the United States government sought to annul the lease Sinclair has on the $50,000,000 Wyoming naval oil field.

Burial Will Be Made in Wisconsin on Monday.

By KENNETH CLARK.

WASHINGTON, June 19. — Away from the strive of politics, away from the scenes of his greatest triumps, away from the worries and toils of a swift-moving world, Senator Robert Marion La Follette, of Wisconsin, will be taken today.

And he goes, as he said just before his death, "At peace with all the world," and "with love in my heart for all the people which sustained me throughout life."

But before he is carried away for the last time to Madison, Wisconsin, he will lie quietly in that little home in Wyoming avenue where, with a smile on his lips, and surrounded by those dearest to him—his family—he closed his eyes in eternal sleep.

There he will pause for a brief few hours that the people he loved and for whom he fought for so many years might pay final tribute to his memory.

Grief in Flower-Filled Home.

And to him these people came throughout the long, hot day. They were of all sorts, rich and poor, high official and clerk, one in grief at the passing of this dynamic little man who for more than three decades had been so prominently known in the national political arena.

They came to express condolences to the widow and the two sons and two daughters, and to pause a moment before the unpretentious coffin that held his mortal remains. There was grief, deepest grief, in the little flower-filled home, but for all, it seemed as if "Dad," as they always called him, had laid down to rest and had fallen asleep, and the whisperings and tiptoeing were that he should not be awakened.

They were a brave lot—his family, and they bore up well under the terrific strain. For weeks they had gone

WIDOW MAY GET SENATE PLACE

LaFollette's Death Probably Means Third Party's Collapse

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The political consequences of the death of Senator LaFollette will be far-reaching.

In the opinion of Republican and Democratic leaders here his removal from the American political scene at this time will mean:

1—The collapse of the independent third party movement which LaFollette started a year ago

2—The crumbling of the little bloc of insurgents in the senate, and

3—An opportunity for the regular Republican organization, not only in Wisconsin, but throughout the northwest, to capture control from the LaFollette followers.

In Wisconsin, the field is wide open for candidates to succeed to the seat which La Follette has held in the senate for 20 years. It is expected that La Follette's death will greatly improve the chances for re-election of Senator Irvine Lenroot, now the senior senator from Wisconsin, who is a strong supporter of the Coolidge administration. Governor John J. Blaine, of Wisconsin, a La Follette lieutenant, is known to have senatorial aspirations and would give Lenroot a stiff fight in the primaries.

Under the Wisconsin law, the man who is named to succeed La Follette can only serve until the elections of 1926. There were reports here today that the senator's widow, Mrs. Belle Case La Follette, who fought by his side through a dozen political campaigns, might be named by Governor Blaine to take his seat and finish up the odds and ends of his work left uncompleted at his death.

EIGHTEEN QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS IN SCHOOL BOARD DEBATE ON PLAN OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

The proposal of the Ministerial association to conduct classes in religious training in the public school buildings, starting next September, was explained by Rev. Dr. Frank G. Fowler in a series of answers to 18 question submitted by President J. H. Brookes, of the board of education, at last night's public hearing on the question.

Here are the questions asked by Mr. Brookes and the answers given by Dr. Fowler:

Q.—Does the Ministerial association that you represent consist of Protestant ministers only?

A.—To the best of my knowledge it does at the present time. I am not exactly certain though.

Q.—Well, the Ministerial association of East Liverpool now consists of Protestant ministers only, does it?

A.—To the best of my knowledge.

Q.—Who will compose the organization that you have spoken of to be known as The East Liverpool Council of Religious Education?

A.—Yes—any churches that want to come in and affiliate.

Q.—Will only Protestant churches be represented on this board?

A.—Not exactly so.

Q.—Do you know of anybody now desiring to join with you except Protestants?

A.—I don't know. I don't know who is with us or who is not.

Q.—Do you know of anybody interested in this matter except Protestants?

A.—No, I cannot say that I do.

Q.—What do you mean when you say that you expect to carry on religious instruction in the schools in a "co-operative way," quoting your statement in the newspaper the other night?

A.—Just what it says. Everybody who comes into the East Liverpool Council of Religious Education will cooperate in the work of religious education that is done in the city by way of teaching the Bible.

Q.—You would hardly expect the Catholics or Jews to join with you in this?

A.—They are certainly welcome.

Q.—You would hardly expect them, would you?

A.—It is a matter for them to determine. I am mighty sure that we would be very glad to have them.

Q.—You would not expect them to join in the method of teaching the Bible by a teacher in the employ of the association, would you?

A.—I will say this, Mr. Brookes, that we might as well recognize this now: If there is to be perfect harmony, we should recognize the fact that our teaching is not the same as the Jewish teaching. Our teaching is not the same as the Roman Catholic teaching, and I am sure that as far as representing my own attitude is concerned we would not want to teach the Catholics or the Jews—we have enough to do to convert our own people.

Q.—Are you asking for the use of the public school rooms in public school times with all facilities such as lighting, heating, supplies, janitor service and supervision of principal and superintendent?

A.—We are not asking for supervision of the superintendent or the principal. The superintendent will be a member of the council of religious education and will help to select the teacher and will also help to decide how much money is paid to the teacher. We are asking for the room. We assume that the room will already be heated. Therefore, we are not asking for any extra expenditures in this way. We assume that the same janitor service will take place whether we use the room or do not use it.

Q.—Do you expect to select, hire and pay these teachers from privately contributed funds?

A.—We do.

JAZZ OPERA OF FUTURE, IS KAHN'S BELIEF

Banker Ready to Produce it as National Duty.

SON IS STUDENT

New Yorker Prophesies While he Visits in England.

LONDON, June.—Otto Kahn, famous banker, has been prophesying, while in England, regarding the future of music, and also of his son.

"Jazz is going to be the music of the future,' said Kahn, as reported in an English newspaper. "I will go further and say that jazz is going to be the opera of the future. If any composer can come to me with a well-developed jazz opera I will produce it at the Metropolitan opera house as a national duty."

Kahn, after publication of the interview, wrote to the newspaper complaining that it had misinterpreted the spirit of the interview.

"America," continued the banker, "has only produced two great national inspirations. One of these is the sky-scraper, the other is jazz music.

"I was brought up in Germany in an atmosphere of music. I have loved it all my life, but the first music that I learned to love was that of Wagner and the other great classical masters of the past. When I went to live in America and became naturalized there, my son showed the same love for music that I had shown, but, because he was in different surroundings, his appreciation of the art developed along different lines. He is American and imbued with all that is finest in America. He knew the hurry and bustle of American life, and that became manifest in his music. It was not the classical musical mind that he developed but the jazz mind.

Vinorously Alive.

"It is true for the moment that musical expression called jazz is imperfect and spotted with crudities, but yet it is vigorously alive and characteristically novel. It will bear its fruit and, to my mind, will be the music of the future.

"For this I am anxious that my son should go to those schools of thought where classical music is still predominant, I, therefore, suggested that he should come to Europe and study in Rome and Paris, where he will find himself up against something entirely new.

"What will be the result? Surely a combination of what is best in the old and in the new. From that experience I am certain he will discover the jazz of the future.

"At the moment he is playing in a hotel in New York. I was not keen on his playing in public at first, but now his jazz band has become the second finest jazz band in the world. He can play every instrument in his orchestra and is a clever and accomplished musician.

"Opera is languishing because new blood has not ben put into it. And there is a point to be noted. No foreign composer has ever been able to copy jazz. It is a thing of its own. It is America's peculiar form of self-expression, just as the skyscraper has been her form of producing wonderful architectural structures.

Yankee Tang.

"A first-rate jazz band, or a first-rate Broadway revue or musical comedy, with its swiftly rushing pace, the spontaneous grace, zest and swing of its dancing, the tang of its humor, the kaleidoscope of its color, the hustling, palpitating rhythm of its orchestra; have more claim to be ranked as an approximation to American art than a savorless grand opera composed with painstaking erudition and technical impeccability after the model of Wagner, Debussy and Strauss.

"Jazz will have to pure itself from crudities. It will have to frown upon vulgarity. It will have to eliminate, not humor, but clowning. It will have to aim, as some of its leaders do, at evolution from its present stage. We should try to help to hasten that process.

"Instead of turning up our noses at jazz, in superior musical virtue, we ought to take the attitude of spurring it on with friendly interest."

Officials of United States Lighthouse Service Face Task

HONOLULU, Hawaii, June — Officials of the United States lighthouse service here have a task of almost herculean proportions in store for them this summer in the establishment of an automatic light on the bleak rock of Kaula.

So far as known, only one white man has been on this rock, which is about 550 feet high at its greatest elevation. The lighthouse service will rely mainly on the natives to carry out the project.

A native legend relates that a shark god lives in a huge cave below the rock. Before the natives will trust themselves in the water roundabout, they consult the shark god. If they find that he is favorably inclined, they are then not afraid to leap into the water and swim about the place.

Dodging Progress

Is about the hardest thing we know of. Did you read of the famous novelist who buried himself in the wilds last year in order to escape the radio? Well, it seems that same chap has become a radio "bug" now. Says "it's the most enjoyable hobby ever devised, and helps him immensely to keep "in tune" for his work.

Every forward step brings its momentary objections from some quarters. "Old-timers" may recall with what pessimism some merchants regarded the transition of the department store from a mere place of barter, to the semi-public institution it is today.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June—Judge Ira Gardner, of the South Side Municipal Court here, does not admit being a poker player, but he does know his Hoyle, it was revealed when R. A. McCaskill pleaded he had been playing pitch and not poker.

"You don't play pitch with five cards in your hand," Judge Gardner told R. A. McCaskill. "It sounds more like poker to me."

McCaskill protested that the five-card hand was the result of a misdeal, but the judge only smiled and assessed a fine.

Predict Record Attendance At National Educators' Meet

Nationally Known Instructors Gather in June in Indianapolis Educational Convention.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June.—Predictions were made freely today that the annual convention of the National Education Association, to be held, starting June 28, will attract a record-breaking attendance from all over the country.

The tentative program outlined by J. E. Morgan, editor of the Journal of the National Education association, while on a visit here recently from Washington in connection with the convention, is unusually attractive and calls for the appearance of nationally known educators.

Unless preliminary plans are changed, the convention will be opened formally with a vesper service on the north steps of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument on the afternoon of Sunday, June 28, with Robert J. Aley, president of Butler college and an ex-president of the National Education association, presiding.

The first general gathering of the association will be held on the evening of the opening day, when James J. Tagert, United States Commissioner of Education, is slated to deliver an address on "The Faith of the American People in Public Education." Then will come more talks by leaders in the educational field of the United States on "New World Movement in Education."

EAST LIVERPOOL — AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

"Fighting Bob" LaFollette

Friends and foes today paid tribute to the memory of Senator Robert Marion La Follette, the fiery independent Republican from Wisconsin, whose death occurred in Washington yesterday. And although thousands of Americans were unable to subscribe to his political and economical policies, the nation as a whole mourns the loss of a man whose potency was never denied.

"Fighting Bob," as he said just before his death, goes to his eternal reward "at peace with all the world and with love in my heart for all the people which sustained me throughout life."

Although he was the favorite son of Wisconsin, where he lost but one political battle, Senator La Follette probably died a disappointed man, for his last great effort, the independent campaign for the presidency in 1924, was a setback. While Mr. La Follette probably never expected to win the national race, he was saddened by the poor showing his independent party made in the battle in which he carried only his home state.

Despite the fact that he was the leader of a minority in the senate—a group that not infrequently was a thorn in the side of the majority—Senator La Folloette essayed an important role in his 40 years in politcal life. And many of his warmest friends were men whose policies he fought.

And his death means not only the loss of a powerful factor in Wisconsin politics, but also the recognized leader of the so-called third party movement.

China For The Chinese

The civilized western powers are growing very indignant at China, apparently because China has the nerve to take "self-determination" seriously.

Stupid old China doesn't get it through her head that while those powers are quite serious about self-determination, that commodity is intended primarily for the west, and very little if at all for the east. Particularly it is not intended for the yellow race, at least for the Chinese branch of that race.

Asiatics are presumptuous when they venture to assert their own rights, politically or economically. Japan is treated more nearly as an equal, but that is because Japan has always stood up for her rights and compelled recognition.

It is bad business, of course, this latest Chinese outbreak against "foreign devils" and their property. It is remmiscent of the Boxer troubles. But to a fair-minded Caucasian, even that Boxer Rebellion was a fairly natural reaction to foreign contempt and aggression.

The Chinese are patient and peace-loving more than most races. But there is a limit to their patience and pacifism. Their rights have been very slightly considered in any of the recent international gatherings in which they have participated. They have had opium forced on them against their will, for many years. They have had their seaports occupied, their resources seized, exploited, their dignity flouted. They have seen China regarded by the "modern nations," including Japan, as a great carcass, with every other nation eager to hack out a piece for itself. Indignation grows slowly, but now and then it has to break out.

The obvious leaders in outrages against foreigners are often, no doubt, adventurers and brigands rather than patriots, and their trained followers are often mercenaries who will serve any cause for pay. But there is a spirit back of them, and upholding their aggressive action, which the western powers would do well to take seriously. It is the Chinese dragon's way of protesting. And if baited too far, that dragon may writhe and lash around and breathe fire and smoke. If a great "yellow peril" develops, it will be the fault of the western powers.

Married Men's Minds

The married man has been having so much the best of it in public esteem in these latter years that perhaps the single man deserves an inning. He gets it, in a statement from a big Chicago taxicab owner.

"When we first hired men," he says, "we always insisted on married men, preferably those with children, believing they would be more careful and conservative. We have found, however, that single men are generally more satisfactory, and have concluded that married men, with more on their minds, are less likely to give undivided attention to the work."

Married men, indeed, usually have "more on their minds." But who would have thought that the supposedly erratic and irresponsible young bachelors would make more trustworthy automobile drivers than the heads of families?

If this is true of driving, it may be true of many less exciting and exacting occupations. Father had better get his mind on the job.

"Thus far," writes the German chancellor, "the formula of disarmament under the treaty of Versailles has led not to the pacification of Europe, but rather in the opposite direction." Still, we haven't seen much fighting in Europe since that treaty was made—nothing but arguing, which isn't near so fatal.

Having outlawed poison gas, when will that Geneva disarmament conference get around to suppressing poison booze?

"Vacation" means by derivation an "empty" period. And yet vacationers try to crowd a whole year's physical activity into it.

The Terrible Tempered Mr. Bang— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 19. — Thoughts while strolling around New York: Afternoon tea crowds. Heavy lashed eyes and shingled necks. Modern Becky Sharpe in a modern Vanity Fair. Whatever became of the croak-anole craze? Life seems to suave and easy.

After all life is a great adventure and I'm glad I sneaked in on it. Leisured patrons of the arts. Going to the galleries. An abandoned block in the Sixties. Mellow brick walls. And sunken plastered niches. A block away a dance hall teaches the Charleston.

Elsie Janis and, of course, her mother. And why not? The yard wherein Andrew Carnegie used to stroll. A shaggy pup asleep with a rag doll. Wonder if that policeman is rushing after me. No, he wants a match. I'll never get over my fear of police.

Across town to upper Broadway. The cheerful hubbub of children at play. Window pots. Drowsy mothers in camp chairs. Sidewalk hop-scotch. Ruddy cheeked green grocers who wear aprons. And know their customers by name. Barber shop loafers.

Firemen tilted back in their chairs. Looks like an easy life. But, O, my! in the winter time. The Yankee Stadium. Where Sunday had his tabernacle. And what has become of Billy? Congestion begins to thin. Store keepers sit out front.

The West Indians playing cricket in Van Cortland Park. And running elevators at night. The cranes in the pond. Artists sketching at their easels. Men sleeping under newspapers and women working cross-word puzzles.

And here I am out in the country. The old Post Road where coaches rumbled and whips cracked. Tankards of ale. Open fireplaces. Rounds of beef, hustling post boys and snug inns with deep feather beds. And now back to the chain store existence.

It has been definitely established that Sydney Porter picked up the pseudonym O. Henry in New Orleans when the New York writer was hibernating there to flee to Honduras from the law. One of the drinking places frequented by the writers had a drink dispenser named Henry. When he was wanted it was natural to call out "Oh, Henry!" Porter was there one night with a new manuscript. For obvious reasons he did not want to sign his own name. He asked for suggestions and then called out "Oh, Henry!" to stand treat while they thought the matter over. "Why not O. Henry?" said one. And O. Henry it was.

A stray little green Carolina parakeet flew into New York, broke into nearly all the first pages and winged its way out again. It happened to alight in that small mid-town breathing spot—Bryant Park. There are more sparrows there than jobless men. Somehow the parakeet aroused their ire and they swooped en masse. Two policemen went to the rescue and drove the sparrows off. The parakeet flew off with two tiny green feathers fluttering away as a signal of Manhattan's inhospitality.

Edna Ferber, Fannie Brice and Bebe Daniels are among the New York celebrities to have their noses bobbed—or straightened. It is now threatening to become a fad like appendicitis operations a few years ago. Two leading men, following Dempsey's example, are now in hospitals for the same purpose. And a young lady to be starred in pictures has it in her contract that she must have a nasal bump removed before she can begin working.

What one Woman learned 35 Years ago

Years ago when the first spoonful of Calumet Baking Powder was used, one housewife learned the secret of success on bake-day. She found that what she had thought bad luck in the past was really the fault of inferior leaveners.

Over a third of a century has passed since that housewife experienced the perfect results that came from using

CALUMET
THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 oz. cans instead of 16 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

Today millions upon millions have realized the same satisfaction that goes with using a perfect baking powder.

Calumet has more friends than any of the other brands on the market today—women who after one trial found that for uniform, wholesome bakings it has no equal.

Don't forget that a few cents worth of unreliable baking powder can ruin several dollars worth of other ingredients used in baking. Use the best and know what the results will be.

EMPLOYMENT O. K. IN U. S.

Federal Survey Shows Trend Upward and "Quite Satisfactory."

WASHINGTON, June 19. — Industrial employment is "quite satisfactory" throughout the country, the United States employment service announced today in making public a survey of working conditions during May.

"The upward trend noted in employment in April was sustained," the report said. "This increase is not large, but it is gratifying to note that there is no great amount of unemployment apparent in any section of the country."

Noting further curtailment of bituminous coal mining during the past 30 days, the report said that a number of mines were entirely closed and that many of those still open were operating on a two or three-day per week basis, while a number of the miners had found employment on road construction and seasonal farm work.

The iron and steel industry slightly curtailed operations in some plants last month, causing a decrease in the number of employes, but with few exceptions textile mills operated on a satisfactory schedule.

"The encouraging feature of this report," said Francis I. Jones, director of the employment service, "is that the automotive industry is adding to its working forces.

"The increase demand for all classes of farm labor in practically every state is affording emplyoment to large numbers of men, while some localities report a shortage of skilled agricultural help.

"There is no apparent let-up in building construction work, and all building tradesmen are able to find employment. The building of state and county roads is now well under way, and is affording a large amount of employment."

Q. Where did President Harding help harvest wheat in the summer of 1923? D. H.

A. President Harding went into the wheat fields near Hutchinson, Kansas, which is in the south central part of the state, on June 23, 1923. He had a binder and shocked a few sheathes on a hundred acre wheat field known as the Chester O'Neil farm.

Q. Why was Portsmouth, New Hampshire, chosen for the Russian-Japanese conference in 1905? O. L.

A. The naming of Portsmouth, New Hampshire, by President Roosevelt as the place where the conference between envoys of Russia and Japan for the framing of a peace treaty should take place, was on account of climatic conditions. The conference took place in the summer and it was judged that less hardship would be entailed through hot weather at this place than some others which were named.

Q. When will the Welland Canal be finished? F. T.

A. The completion of this ship canal is due in 1929. Its estimated cost is approximately $100,000,000.

Q. Why is an after dinner speech called a toast? A. S. T.

A. The origin of the term is somewhat doubtful. An old practice was to hand around a cup of wine in which each guest dipped his piece of bread or toast while wishing good health or good luck to the owner of the cup.

Q. What were the swords made of that were used in the conquest of Canaan by the Twelve Tribes? F. I. M.

A. The swords mentioned in the Scriptures had blades of iron.

Q. In England is the word government followed by a singular or a plural verb? D. A. C.

A. When the word refers to the English government, the plural verb is used.

Q. Who were the four famous beauties of China? T. G. S.

A. They were Chao Chun, "the most virtuous." Hsi Shih, "the most beautiful;" Tiao Chan, "the most patriotic" and Yong Kuei-fei, "the most artful."

Q. When were diamonds first discovered in Brazil? G. W. D.

A. They were discovered in 1730. In the following 10 years stones totaling 200,000 carats, were found. It has been estimated that the total yield of the Brazilian field from its discovery to the present time is well over 15,000,000 carats.

Q. In the heyday of Volga river traffic how many barges (freight carriers) plied the river? C. M. E.

Q. There were approximately 25,000. By 1922, however, they were said to be not more than 5,000.

Q. Did the United States government ever make a $3 paper bill? W. H. T.

A. The United States government has never issued three dollar bills. State bank notes were issued before June 3, 1864, when the state banking system went into effect. Large concerns, banking houses, produce dealers, etc., issued notes of all denominations, and they are of no value today, as far as the government is concerned. They were redeemed only by the concern by which they were issued.

SHEPHERD CASE STAR FUMBLES

State's Evidence in "Germ Murder" Shows Signs of Crumbling

CHICAGO, June 19. — The state's carefully built case against William D. Shepherd, alleged murderer of his foster son, William Nelson McClintock, shows signs of crumbling today as its star, Charles C. Faiman, openly admitted he was confused by the hammering cross-examination of the defense.

To refute his testimony given on direct examination, the defense repeatedly confronted the witness with contradictory evidence he had given at the bail hearing, until Faiman, not so dapper as he had appeared when he first took the stand, sought refuge in spaarring.

"I'm confused," he said in answer to William S. Stewart's rapid fire of questions.

"Of course, you are," answered Stewart in a tone of mock solicitude.

gines—the combustion engine being "too inefficient."

The west coast of South America has recently known torrential downpours in places where rain had been unknown for generations. Scientists attributes the change in weather to the Humboldt current, said to have wandered from its course, several miles out into the Pacific and away from the coast.

Earnest Florida real estaters are even guessing that perhaps the Humboldt current, moving out, will take Southern California's champion current away with it and leave Florida the only "winter climate." Needless to say, this does not worry California.

Redwood trees, older than Christianity, stand as proof that California is fair and not fickle. This is a good place to say that, in addition to being a perfect winter resort, California is the ideal summer resort—all things to all men, in all seasons.

In New Jersey primaries the "dry" Republican wins the nomination from the "wet" Republican. So far, prohibition wins.

The decision will come on election day, when the "dry" Republican meets a "wet" Democrat. Since Governor Edwards became Democratic governor on his promise to make New Jersey as wet as the Atlantic ocean, New Jersey's Democracy has been the wettest party in the country.

Senator La Follette is reported dangerously ill. That news will grieve even his enemies, that tried to drive him out of his party.

You admire real courage, even when you hate a man for disturbing your plans. There is no more courageous man than La Follette in public life.

China, huge dinosaur of the east, continues to take seriously her right to manage her own affairs. Crowds mob foreign policemen, 14,000 students demand that China break off diplomatic relations with England. And, England, bothered by the Shanghai strike that ties up shipping, is inclined to make any reasonable arrangement.

It pays to assert yourself, if you can follow it up.

On our side of the Pacific, Senator Borah, head of the committee on foreign affairs, declares that Uncle Sam should mind his own business and let China mind hers. He would have the United States give up all claim to special privileges on Chinese soil.

Eighteen Questions

Q.—If so, who is to determine the doctrines they shall teach?

A.—I cannot say absolutely, but I can answer it from my own standpoint, that they themselves will determine the doctrine they will teach.

Q.—You say, then, that the teachers who come in will teach their own doctrines?

A.—Yes, if we hire a teacher we turn them loose—we would not dictate to them what they should teach.

Q.—Will they be subject to the orders of the board of education, or to the orders of you who employ them, in what they teach?

A.—Well, I would say, Mr. Brookes, that they would be subject to the orders of the committee of the Council of Religious Education who has employed them.

Q.—And not to the orders of the school board?

A.—If you continue president of the board of education, you would be a member of this council. The superintendent of the schools would certainly be a member.

Q.—Suppose he did not want to be, what then?

A.—Of course, he could not be forced to be.

Q.—Do you expect to pay anything for the use of the school rooms and the facilities you ask?

A.—No, sir, we do not expect to pay.

Q.—You realize, of course that these school rooms are heated, lighted and supervised at the expense of the general taxpayers?

A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You do not expect to pay any part of that?

A.—Well, we are the taxpayers, are we not—a part of them?

Q.—But you do not expect to pay?

A.—Well, no.

Q.—Will the teachers you employ hold teachers' certificates issued by authority of the state of Ohio?

A.—Not exactly from my standpoint. Unless the superintendent would require it for religious education state certificates would not be required. Of course, some of the teachers might hold life certificates

Failure to Use Auto "Dimmers" is Blamed for Death

CINCINNATI, June 19. — The failure of another motorist to use his "dimmers" is said to have caused an automobile accident in which one man was killed and five other persons injured near Dent, O., early today. Charles Hirsch, 28, a chauffeur, was driving the auto to which was wrecked. Hirsch was blinded by the lights of an approaching machine and lost control of his car which swerved from the road. Frederick Bauersfeld, 40, was dead when taken from the wreckage. His wife, Mrs. Hannah Bauersfeld, 38, and son, Charles, 18; Margaret Rapp, 14; Joe Kramer, 31, and Hirsch were injured. Kramer is expected to die and Mrs. Bauersfeld is seriously hurt.

Q.—Well, then, the teachers will not necessarily hold certificates issued by the state of Ohio?

A.—Not necessarily. As I said before, they may hold life certificates, I don't know.

Q.—The board of education and the superintendent have something to say about teachers being employed in the school who do not hold certificates issued by authority of the state.

A.—Well, of course, there is still to be an interpretation of that law. The plan that we are suggesting is already in operation in more than one city in the state.

Q.—That is, in Ashtabula, where you came from a few months ago—you helped to put it in operation there?

A.—I did. It is in operation at Marietta and out of 1770 children last year 1735 were taking the course.

Q.—Will these teachers teach the Bible as recognized and approved by Protestant churches only?

A.—I would say so.

Q.—They will not, then, teach such versions of the Bible as are approved and believed by the Roman Catholics and Jews?

A.—We decided on that question a while ago—that the teaching is so different—we would teach the Protestant version only.

Q.—The Protestants are pretty well divided on certain questions. Would you teach the fundamental version or the liberal?

A.—Well, they are getting together now. It won't be long until they are united.

Q.—What will they teach—will they teach the Divine birth or will they teach the liberal version?

A.—Well, of course, that will all be settled. If the teacher was a fundamentalist I suppose he would teach that version. If he was a liberal I suppose he would teach his views. That will all be taken care of.

Q.—Are you expecting the school authorities to grade and give credit in Bible instruction as a basis for promotion?

A.—We would—that is, the teacher in religious instruction would grade the work the same as any other teacher. The matter of credits would be determined by the superintendent of the schools, I suppose.

Q. Then do you mean that promotions would be made in our schools upon the recommendations of your teachers who did not have state certificates?

A.—I think, Mr. Brookes, that all that would be worked out by the committee—worked out splendidly.

Q.—You know that we shall have approximately five thousand pupils next year—how many of these do you expect to reach with religious instruction during the school term?

A.—It will all depend upon how many teachers we could afford to employ—how much we raise in employing teachers. If we can employ only one teacher the probabilities are that we will not be able to reach more than three grades. If we employ two teachers we may be able to reach all the grades.

Q.—How many teachers do you expect to employ?

A.—At the present time we have only one teacher in mind.

Q.—Will you give me the names of any ministers whom you have not consulted or any who have not fully agreed as to the wisdom of the move?

A.—Now, I don't think that is quite a fair question because there are some of our ministers that are not decided as yet.

Q.—How many ministers are not decided?

A.—I would not be able to tell you the exact number.

Q.—Well, approximately?

A.—I think every man should speak for himself.

Q.—You could tell me how many surely?

A.—Well, I don't know exactly.

Q.—We want to know whether this is unanimous or not?

A.—It is fairly unanimous.

Q.—Are there any of the Protestant ministers who are not in accord with you?

A.—I would not say so. Three-fourths of them are anyway.

Q.—Have you approached the Catholics and Jewish people in an effort to agree upon some plan of Bible instruction that might be acceptable to all?

A.—I have talked with Leon Rubin. He is the only member of the Jewish brethren that I have talked to. I also talked with Father Walsh—I think that is his name—the name of the new Catholic priest here. Those are the only men to whom I have talked on the subject.

Q.—What does Father Walsh say about it?

A.—Father Walsh thinks that religious education ought to be carried to all children without question, but as I naturally expected his judgment is that it ought to be carried as it was last winter—away from the schools.

Q.—If you were granted the right by this board to teach the Protestant version of the Bible in the public schools, can we refuse the Catholic and Jewish people the same privilege?

A.—No more than you can refuse us.

Q.—Then if the parochial school down here on Fifth street would require more room, and it is growing, are you willing that this board shall set apart to the parochial school one or more rooms of the public school buildings where they may instruct their children in Bible instruction by their own teachers?

A.—I am agreed.

Board of Education

take the care of the child out of the control of the parent.' This is an argument in favor of our plan. No one should object when this course will be available only upon the request of the parents."

Dr. Rich's Argument.

"Dr. Rich then took the floor to express his opposition to the proposal.

"One of the basic principles of the constitution of the United States is to keep the church and state separate,' said the speaker. "No one objects to the plan of releasing the children and permitting them to go to their churches for this study. But this year they want it different. They seek to transfer this course of study from the church to the schools. This is not a step forward—it's a step backward. The public schools are not Protestant schools, not Catholic schools or not Jewish schools. They are built and supported from taxation levied upon people of all creeds. To use public funds to teach religion in American institutions is wrong.'

At this point Dr. Rich stated that he had sent inquiries to more than 50 Ohio cities and towns asking for information concerning religious education. Three cities replied that the classes were meeting in the schools; three others stated that the course was given in the high school only and one other stated that the course was given in such rooms only where the children were unanimous in their request for it. The others, 41 in number, do not have the instruction at all or have a plan whereby the children are dismissed to go to their churches once each week.

"We have been facing a financial crisis lately but this situation is far more important than the matter of finances, in my opinion,' continued Dr. Rich. "I am not opposed to religious education but I am opposed to using the school buildings for such a course. It would be class legislation and would not hold before the courts. This is a country ruled by a majority with protection for the minority. It would be a step backward and I appeal to the board not to grant this request.

Attorney J. H. Brookes Speaks.

Attorney Jason H. Brookes, president of the school board, next took the floor.

"I can speak impartially on this question," he said, "for I am a member in good standing of a Protestant church. I feel as a Protestant that this is a step in the wrong direction. Our schools are opened each morning with the reading of the Bible and the repeating of the Lord's prayer. We recognize the importance of the Bible instruction for those who want it, and last year dismissed the children electing this course to go to their churches for one hour each week.

"You want to use school property built by Protestant, Jew, Catholic and unbeliever and maintained by the same persons for the teaching of the Protestant religion. This would be a violation of the constitution.

"You would be using a teacher for these classes who may not hold a teacher's certificate. This the state absolutely prohibits. Every teacher must hold a certificate. I have been opposed to this plan, am now and always will be."

Here Mr. Brookes quoted a ruling handed down by the Ohio supreme court many years ago in a case arising in Cincinnati, in which the presiding judge held that it was a violation for religion to be taught in the public schools.

Rev. F. A. Dean's Inquiry.

Rev. Frederick A. Dean, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, pointed out that in Van Wert, religious education classes were meeting in the schools and asked if it was a violation there.

"It certainly is but no one has appeared to oppose it," was Mr. Brookes' reply.

"We all want to see the right thing done,' said Dr. Fowler, who again took the floor. "We all feel that religious education is needed but in the manner of giving it, we differ. Attorney General Crabbe's decision in this matter is not final. The decision of the supreme court is final only. Mr. Brookes lays emphasis on the letter of the law rather than the spirit of the law.

"We seek this change to make a better community and do not seek to convert any one. I would not oppose the parochial school, for there Catholics are taught their religion. I do not feel that you should oppose our plan which has for its aim the making of better citizens. The letter of the law does not cut much figure, it is the spirit of the law.

Lemuel Washutzky at this point asked Mr. Brookes how long he had been a resident of the city.

"All my life, practically," said Mr. Brookes.

"And you, Dr. Fowler?" asked Washutzky.

"Less than a year, but what difference does that make?"

"That's all I wanted to know," said Washutzky.

Patrick McNicol, former county commissioner and pottery manufacturer, was next given the privilege of the floor.

"Is it fair to give this instruction, when it is known that either the Jews nor the Catholics will attend?" he inquired.

"No, I don't think it is," said Mr. Brookes.

Solicitor Brokaw Present.

City Solicitor Harry Brokaw took the floor and, in referring to the law cited by Mr. Brookes, charged that he had not read the entire ruling. He asked that another section be read. Mr. Brookes handed him the book and asked that he read it himself.

Mr. Brokaw stated that the decision of the courts on this matter covered more than 50 printed pages. He, however, read one section in which entire jurisdiction in the matter was left with the board of education.

"I cite this ruling as the legal adviser of the board of education," said Mr. Brokaw.

"Do you think the schools can be legally used for the teaching of the Protestant religion?" asked Mr. Brookes.

"I do," he replied.

"Did the board of educatoin ask you for a ruling on this matter?" Mr. Brookes next inquired.

"I looked into the statutes upon request of one of its members."

"The board as a whole did not solicit your advice. When we want it we will call you," was Mr. Brookes' reply.

Hoots and jeers greeted this remark from President Brookes, who only smiled.

Four Members Silent.

D. F. White, R. W. Sample, F. T. Weaver and George M. Wilhelm, other members of the board, listened in on the arguments, but declined to say a word when given the privilege by Mr. Brookes, who presided.

The hearing then adjourned, the school board going into executive session in their quarters adjoining the superintendent's office.

The crowd lingered in the school lobby and about the building for nearly an hour afterwards in hopes that the board would immediately vote on the matter, but it was not until nearly the close of their meeting, which did not adjourn until 11 o'clock that it was decided to defer a vote until Mr. Crabbe had made his ruling.

Familiar Colors Lessen Sadness in Funeral of Today

YOUNGSTOWN, June 19.—Along with other things of a past age, the old type funeral, with its unique sadness and solemnity, is dead and buried, Roscoe T. Sharer, of Alliance, president of the Ohio Funeral Directors' association, told that body at its final session here today.

"Everything that made the old-time funeral something to be dreaded has been done away with," Sharer said.

"Lengthy services have been shortened. It is no longer necessary to bury men in a black suit or women in their wedding gowns, or a white dress of black silk.

"Now they are dressed in familiar colors, except the more brilliant ones."

where the winter months will be spent.

Announcement of the probable second visit to East Liverpool of the party moved the large audience in attendance to generous applause which caused Dr. Tucker to say: "Though we have more than 100 places asking for us at this time we shall do our best to come to you again about the time designated by Rev. Mr. O'Brien."

All the members of the musical trio made brief remarks before the meeting's close in which they thanked all whom they had met for the appreciation shown of their work while in the city and the friendships that had been formed.

Miss Evelyn McKee Coons, the brilliant young harpist of the party, modestly affirmed: "I praise God for having been here. I am very glad at the thought that some of my messages have made you closer to Him; they have me. Should any of you ever go to Long Beach, Cal.," she concluded, "I hope you will at least ask about me."

Miss Alice May Schmidt, the St. Louis member of the party, who sang herself into the hearts of her hearers from her first appearance here, declared: "I am, indeed, pleased to be here. I have counted it a privilege to be with you and, perchance, as best I could, lift you through the medium of song to any livelier appreciation of the Christian graces." And, seemingly mindful the spirit of one of her songs: "In the Land Where the Roses Never Fade," she said, "should we not meet again here, we shall in glory. I ask that you pray for me as I continue to do His will."

Miss Cora Belle Young, the exceptionally capable young violinist, was slightly handicapped by the noise of a passing car, but even those in the far rear managed to discern her conclusion: "There has been so much kindness shown us here that I appreciate it deeply," she said. "I praise God for all things that He has given me, and particularly any ability that is mine to use the violin in His service. I would rather play for folks like you than any in the world. I hope I shall be remembered in your prayers and that God will bless us as never before."

Party Is Applauded.

Spontaneous and generous applause broke out at the conclusion of the young people's remarks.

Dr. Tucker was equally appreciative of his visit to East Liverpool. "Should we come again we shall not have to put in any time getting acquainted, but just start in where we leave off now," he said. "You have been kind from Rev. O'Brien down. Particularly would I thank Mrs. A. G. Ellis for assisting from time to time with the piano, and the officers of this church for the use of this beautiful auditorium, which stands out as few that I have been in anywhere."

Before Dr. Tucker's discourse, Miss Allie May Schmidt, accompanied by Mrs. A. G. Ellis on the piano and Miss Young with the violin, sang "O, Bless My Soul," from the 103rd Psalm. Miss Young gave as a violin number, "Tell Mother I'll be There."

"The Bible is God's own word," said Dr. Tucker in his address. "He is the author of it from the beginning in Genesis to the Amen in Revelations. It is the product of His forethought. It is the only inspired volume in all the earth. God breathed in it the atmosphere and breath of God. It is wonderful in its inspiration, translation, salvation, preservation and consummation. Despite the apathy of the country and the din of the city the old book lives. It will always be what it is—the impregnable rock of the Holy Scriptures."

Dr. Tucker's lecture was exceedingly trite and rich in story and reminiscences bulwarked every stage of his tribute to the volume.

At the conclusion of Dr. Tucker's lecture Miss Schmidt, accompanied by Miss Adda McLean, United Presbyterian organist, sang the 91st Psalm by McDermid and Miss Young, by request, repeated on the violin "Tell Mother I'll Be There."

Miss Coons did not have her harp at the night service, it having been previously shipped so as to be available for the initial meeting at Hardy, Ark., on Sunday morning. Her mother Mrs. Jessie McKee Coons, promoter of prayer, and Miss Hellitzer, who had charge of the books and periodicals during the campaign, left the city by an earlier train and were not at the final service. They planned to rejoin the party en route.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. O'Brien, following which a reception was tendered the party in which well wishes were given and the adieus made.

The party left East Liverpool on the 10:20 East Liverpool-Steubenville traction line for the latter city, where connection was made with the St. Louis train which point will be reached at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon. There a two-hour stop will enable the travelers to dine with the parents of Miss Schmidt, following which the journey southwest will be continued. They will remain one week in Arkansas and then begin a three weeks' vacation before resuming the fall campaign.

instructor in the commercial department of the high school, Miss Lillian Brookes as principal of the Trentvale school, Mrs. Lititia Campbell as principal of the Maplewood school and Miss Gladys Campbell as principal of the West End school. The following elementary teachers were also named: Elizabeth Coleman, Jane Davidson, Helen Hannahs, Margaret Birch, Sarah Blazer, Gladys Hunter, Irma Jones, Anna Johnston, Nancy McBane, Ruth Mauderbch, Ruth Sloan, Violet Vorndran, Mary Weaver, Ruth Willis and Julia Beck; substitutes, Ada Ketchum and Mayme Shepherd. Misses Hilda Goltz and Elizabeth Bloor were granted leaves of absence to attend normal school next year.

The action on the proposed fencing of Patterson Field was taken after Member George Wilhelm submitted figures showing the cost would be from $2,000 to $2,500. The board also discussed fencing two sides of the Glenmoor school lot, but decided to defer action until the owner of adjoining property could be interviewed in an effort to have him bear one half of the cost.

The board did not discuss the election of a superintendent. The question probably will come up at the special session next Friday evening.

sleepless to stay by his side as he lay seriously ill; they had administered his every need; they realized that the end was approaching, but they never flinched, not one, and least of all Mrs. La Follette.

Simplicity Will Mark Funeral.

La Follette always hated trappings and pomp and hypocrisy. He lived a fulsome life—three score and ten—of utmost simplicity.

In death, simplicity will mark his last journey homeward, and his funeral.

The funeral train, a special section of the Capital Limited of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, will leave Washington at 3 o'clock for Madison. The coffin will be placed on a simple catafalque in the observation car. The family will occupy compartments in the same car.

advices today. No land was sighted.

Amundsen plans, it was said, again to try to fly to the pole.

Details of Amundsen's daring trip were eagerly awaited by all Norway today. The news of his safety was received with rejoicing. National anthems were played in public places and crowds stood in the streets cheering.

There was much conjecture here today what Amundsen's conclusions will be as a result of his flight. He said he was not able to see many miles beyond the point where one of his aeroplanes was frozen in an ice lane. When he started on the return journey in the second plane, he said his "observation" indicated there was no land in the vicinity of the North Pole.

It is believed from preliminary reports which have come from him at King's Bay that he is convinced that on the Norwegian side of the polar regions there is nothing but ice and open water.

What More Could You Ask?

The contractors offered the carpenters $10 a day, which is the scale they had been working under. The carpenters refused it.

The contractors pointed out that this was really an increase, as wages are going down in many industries. The carpenters still refused.

The contractors offered to submit the whole issue to arbitration. The carpenters refused.

The contractors offered to agree, on their part, not to have the arbitration board even consider wage reduction and not to reduce wages, even if an arbitration board should suggest it. Nothing could be fairer than that, but the carpenters still refused.

The contractors have suggested, advised, urged arbitration. Anything within reason to get the thing settled. The carpenters just go on refusing.

The carpenters are now going away and working elsewhere. They have tied up East Liverpool, they have caused considerable inconvenience to people who want to build, they have refused to lend a hand in working out a settlement. And now they go away, leaving things tied up. They cannot expect things to stay that way indefinitely.

What can the contractors do but bring in other carpenters and go on with the work? Ten dollars a day is a good wage. Lots of carpenters are eager to get it.

The contractors have tried to do everything in their power. They cannot sit idly by, forever.

LEGION NEARS DRIVE QUOTA

Lindeman Predicts End of Campaign Saturday

That the Wellsville American Legion endowment drive for $813 will be over the top by Saturday night was the prediction today of Chairman Joe Lindeman.

Reports that have reached Lindeman's hands within the past few days from various committees and workers indicate that sufficient cash and pledges will have been obtained by the end of the week to place Wellsville post 70 among the quota cities of the state.

The local post's ambition to go over first is now unattainable as a result of the fact that Findlay, home of several of the state officers of the legion, reached its quota of approximately $3,000 in a one day's drive. Findlay, in addition, contributed an excess of almost $1,500.

The campaign for the national quota of $5,000,000 is still under way with every prospect of success, Legion officers say.

The $5,000,000 obtained through the campaign will be placed on deposit and only the interest utilized. The money will be spent for the relief of wounded and disabled veterans and for orphans of the World war.

RAIL WORKERS SEEK INCREASE

Chairmen's associations of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors will hold joint divisional meetings in November to consider the proposition of seeking a wage increase from approximately 200 railroads in the United States for trainmen and conductors, W. G. Lee, president of the trainman, announced today.

The amount of the increase to be asked was not announced, but Mr. Lee said the wage reduction to railroad men in 1921 was about 12 per cent, approximately 64 cents a day, that an increase last year amounted to approximately 5 per cent and that the request would probably at least be enough to make up the 1921 reduction.

The dates of the joint meetings follow: Chicago local chairman's association, Chicago, November 1; Western general chairman's association, Chicago, November 3; Southern general chairmen's association, Washington, November 10; Eastern general chairmen's association, Cleveland, November 17.

HANG UP FREIGHT RECORD IN MAY

On a basis of gross ton-miles hauled per freight train hour, the Central region of the Pennsylvania railroad hung up a new record during the month of May.

The regional record was made possible through three general divisions breaking their own records, a feat necessitating six operating divisions—the Eastern Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Pittsburgh, Conemaugh, Panhandle and Monongahela—establishing new marks.

The C. & P. division's average gross ton miles per freight train hour for May was 20,564; for April it was 17,165.

C. & P. NINE TRIMS LEAGUE RIVALS

By trimming the Babcock-Wilcox team, of East Liverpool, 7 to 1 here last night, the Wellsville C. & P. team of the City Industrial league kept out of the cellar position which their tail-end rivals now occupy.

In their series this week, the Wellsville and the Babcock-Wilcox teams split even.

The C. & P. nine got its first real pitching of the season last night with Kuntzler, of Toronto, on the hilltop. The hurling department has been a weak phase of the Wellsville club's makeup since early in the season, but from now on is expected to keep step.

Wild Man of Indian Seen in Hamilayas By Exploring Party

CALCUTTA—The "wild man of the snows" has been brought into the limelight again. Signor A. Tombazi, back from an expedition in the higher peaks, said he saw the creature walking upright. The figure was naked and covered with hair, he said.

Tibetans, Bhutans and Sikkimese believe that savages dwell in the upper regions of the Hamilayas. These savages are supposed to be cannibals, who live naked in caves. The Tibetans declare that these wild troglodytes avoid a party, but attack a lonely traveler.

Sergeant Dahlquist, who is fifty-two, lives in Winthrop.

Food and Powder Are Chief Items In U. S. Navy Maneuvers

Single Broadside by Combined Fleet in Recent War Game Cost $456,000.

LOS ANGELES, June — Food and powder!

These two items are the chief ones in the gigantic cost, totaling millions of dollars, for the American fleet maneuvers recently completed off Hawaii.

Figures revealed here today by navy officers show a single broadside fired by America's superdreadnaughts during the maneuvers cost more than $163,000.

When a broadside was fired for one minute by the more than 500 guns in the combined Atlantic and Pacific fleet during the huge mimic war, the cost to Uncle Sam was more than $456,000, official navy figures disclosed.

The cost of powder alone in a single broadside was $31,000, the balance of the expenditure being made up in the cost of the immense shells.

And America's sailors, riding the bounding main, do not go hungry for a solitary minute, according to expense reports covering food bills of the navy forces.

Mammoth Appetite.

It cost just $17,075 each day to feed the men of the combined fleet during the maneuvers in Far-Eastern waters. This was the actual cost of serving three meals daily.

The weight of the food consumed in one day by the fleet was 234,320 pounds.

The cost of feeding each man per day totaled 45 cents.

Here is what the men of the fleet ate in 24 hours' time:

Corned beef, 3,300 pounds.
Fresh beef, 33,000 pounds.
Bread, 33,000 pounds.
Salt pork, 2,770 pounds.
Beans, 12,000 pounds.
Sugar, 9,000 pounds.
Potatoes, 66,000 pounds.
Other vegetables, 33,000 pounds.
Rice, 4,000 pounds.
Pickels, 4,500 pounds.
Jam, 7,000 pounds.
Canned fruit, 12,000 pounds.
Butter, 9,000 pounds.
Pepper and spices, 150 pounds.
Coffee and tea, 3,500 pounds.

STATE TO SELL HIGHWAY BONDS

Announcement Follows Governor Gore's Trip of Inspection.

West Virginia's road building program will be increased this summer by the sale of an additional $5,000,000 in road bonds, the latter part of this month, it was announced last night at the offices of Governor Howard M. Gore.

After a road inspection tour through out northern and western counties of the state, Governor Gore returned to Charleston yesterday and announced through his executive secretary that the road building program of the state is to be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

Of the $50,000,000 road bond issue provided by the state there is $15,000,000 now available. During the closing days of former Governor Morgan's administration $5,000,000 of the bonds were sold and contracts for road building projects in all section of the state were subsequently let by the state road commission.

Bids will be advertised within the next ten days for sale of the additional $5,000,000 in bonds. Governor Gore was in conference today with the state road commission to push the road building program as rapidly as possible. It will be left to the commission to decide where the $5,000,000 to be realized from the next bond sale, will be expended. The last letting included projects scattered throughout the state and it is expected the coming letting will be along similar plans.

During his trip of inspection Governor Gore, with other state officials, visited the state penitentiary at Moundsville for the purpose of studying the prison labor question. It was announced at his office it is the intention to employ as much prison labor as possible on road construction of the state.

Various phases of road building and maintenance were investigated by the governor during his trip and it is expected a plan of maintenance will be worked out by the road commission during the summer.

The first two cases on the docket to be called for trial are set for next Tuesday. K. T. K. Defeats Trotters; Wellsville Nine Wins From B. & W.

Potters Jump Into Second Place; Auto Men Back to Third

Davis Nine Threatens in Sixth When Belated Batting Attack Nets Club 3 Runs — Rardin Stars in Left Field — Score 6 to 3.

K. T. K., fresh from its conquest over the first place Chester team earlier in the week, continued its winning streak by defeating the fast and crafty Trotter aggregation last evening at Columbian park, dislodging the auto men and taking runner-up position in the City Industrial league race. The score was 6 to 3.

Witnessed by a large and enthusiastic crowd, and a majority of the Chester club which tonight will clash with Trotters at Patterson Field, the contest was replete with thrills that increased rapidly in the two closing innings when Trotters, finally scoring, threatened to go to the front.

Turned back scoreless for five straight innings and then when two had been retired in the sixth the Fowlerites shook themselves, mixed bats or performed some mystical diamond stunt for almost immediately they released a single and two doubles following a forceout, which netted them a trio of tallies.

But two runs shy of a tie, the side was retired as E. Bayley flied to McShane.

In the seventh, their last chance, they had the needed two scores on the bags, but they failed of finishing. R. Pollock elected to bat for J. Strobel at the outset of the inning, but he popped to Stoffel. Brooks got on when Finley erred. Aufderheide, batting for Deshler, singled, Parsons forced Brooks, C. Coleman to Finley. Then it was all up to A. Bayley and the spectators lingered as he nicked a few fouls. Finally, he swung and missed, it being the only strike-out registered by Stoffel during the entire game.

Stoffel was effective in all but the sixth. Though he allowed eight hits, half of these came in that fateful round while he dealt the remainder out, one per inning, except in the first and fifth when he allowed none at all. His control was almost perfect as he gave no walks. His hitting of Parsons in the sixth was the only blot on his escutcheon for the day.

Rardin, in left for K. T. K., loomed as the day's hero. He duplicated Simcox's stunt of Tuesday by having all the putouts in a single inning by pulling down three straight flies from the bats of A. Bayley, Heckathorn and Kinsey, in the fourth. At the bat he led his and the Trotter clubs by swatting for a mark of 1,000, his double and two singles in three times up giving him that distinction.

Though he failed to hit safely for the day Simcox's out at first in the initial inning gave K. T. K. their first run. Later, getting on by an error, he moved up two men on the bags, enabling them and himself to score later. His stonewall defense was again in evidence, making for the completion of two double plays and the acceptance of every chance that came his way.

Aufderheide came through as a pinch hitter in the seventh for Trotter, singling in his only appearance. Brooks caught his initial game for Trotter and made an excellent impression. He made the bags twice on a single and an error.

Except in the fourth when he allowed five bingles, Deshler kept the eleven hits he allowed fairly well scattered. He struck out five men, but walked two and hit one. Ragged support behind him at critical junctures contributed to the scoring of his foes in all but the second inning when a pass he issued and the hitting af a player, plus a single, gave his opponents a run.

Stoffel and Simcox were the only potters who did not hit safely, while Parsons, R. Pollock and J. Strobel, of Trotters, had similar records. Shaw, in right for K. T. K., and A. Bayley in middle for Trotters, did not have a fielding chance.

DEIBEL SHOOTS PORTAGE IN 67

Youngstown Golfer Equals Record Set by J. M. Wells

Turning in a 67 score on the Portage Country club course, at Akron, where next week the state amateur championship will be played, Christy Deibel, of Youngstown, yesterday equaled the course record established by Joe M. Wells three years ago, and also made an ominous gesture toward the amateur crown now worn by the East Liverpool man.

Wells set his record while playing with Walter Hagen, Joe Kirkwood and Emmett French, professionals, and although many distinguished golfers have negotiated the course since then, it has never been in danger until yesterday.

In equaling Wells' record, Deibel registered birdies on Nos. 2, 3, 7, 9, 10 and 18. He displayed his best form on the first nine, which he made in 31, four under par. One over par on the twelfth and sixteenth gave him a 36 going back, to equal par.

Last Night's Fights

Youngstown—Babe Herman, California, featherweight, easily defeated Willie Ames, Akron, twelve rounds. Maxie Holub, Akron, outpointed Steve Nugent, Cleveland, six rounds. Kenneth Bee, Youngstown, won from Art Milnes, Elwood City, Pa., six rounds. Battling Kozar, Farrell, Pa., knocked out Johnnny Darcy, Sebring, second round.

At New York—Sid Terris, lightweight, outpointed Pal Moran, of New Orleans, ten rounds. Nat Kawen got decision over Murray Israel nad Leo Heinan in welterweight amateur tournament. Tony Canvoneri, bantamweight, outpointed Tony Lorenzo and Vinney La Guardia.

Wells Brothers Win Rotary Golf Trophy At Cleveland

Joe M. and W. E. Jr., Turn in Card of 153, Five Better Than Runners-Up.

Playing together yesterday at the Willowick Country club, Cleveland, Joe M. Wells, state amateur champion and his brother, W. E. Wells, Jr., shot the course for a 153 and won the Hunter trophy, the international Rotary club convention golf prize.

Joe Wells made the 18 holes in 74, four over Par. Ed Wells negotiated the distance in 79. Their score was five below that of the runners-up, Dr. F. M. Casto and Elmore Phelps, of Cleveland.

The amateur champion played consistenly from start to finish while his partner got into trouble on the eleventh and his return score, consequently, passed the 40 mark.

The Hunter trophy tournament requires a handicap of 14 or under to qualify. The Toronto team won it last year.

HERMAN EASILY DEFEATS AMES

YOUNGSTOWN, June 19.—Babe Herman, California featherweight, gave Willie Ames, Akron junior lightweight, a boxing lesson in 12 rounds here last night. Herman won every round by a wide margin. He smothered the Akron lad under a continuous avalanche of blows, and the battle appeared to be close to a knockout decission on more than one occasion.

LEWIS VICTOR OVER ITALIAN

CLEVELAND, June 19.—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, defeated Mike Romano, Italian contender, in two straight falls here last night, winning both by the headlock. The first fall came after 41 minutes. The second took scarcely a minute.

YALE - HARVARD CREWS BATTLE

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 19.—By nightfall a new chapter in rowing history will have been written on the liquid page of the Thames river course with the blade of an oar dipped in agonized, human sweat. By nightfall the eight-oared varsity crew of Yale University will have preserved its dynasty over the kingdom of the oar or Harvard will have forced its abdication by a victory that even our most expert of experts concede to be well within the bounds of possibility.

Harvard has a fighting crew which has a fight chance.

The phrase was mounted knowingly by the thousands of Yale and Harvard followers who rode into town this morning under crimson and blue hatbands for the annual four-mile seance of legalized back-breaking. Harvard money, seemingly, was in evidence on every hand and it served to back the odds down from 10 to 7 to a rather short price on Yale of 6 to 5.

The Bull Dog remained the favorite, but such was the confidence of the Harvard camp that smart trowing men took refuge behind the non-committal and predicted the closest race for the last ten years.

Ed Stevens, Hard coach, contributed to this idea by declaring today that Harvard had come along so far during recent weeks that it is the fastest crew he ever handled.

Ed Leader, who has yet to lose a race in his three years at the head of the Yale rowing, countered with the declaration that he considered his present outfit to be as good at the four-mile distance as the 1924 ensemble. The latter was just good enough to beat the world at the Olympic games in Paris.

That made the issue a stand-off in the claiming stakes and recent time trials served to confirm this belief. It developed today that both crews broke the up stream record on Saturday last, Yale having done 20:19 and Harvard 20:27.

Allows Oaklanders Four Hits — Score is 7 to 1.

Wellsville, given superior pitching by Kuntzler, defeated Babcock & Wilcox in an exciting City Industrial league contest at Central park last evening, 7 to 1.

Kuntzler allowed but four hits. Sutherin was hit hard and finally gave way to McGeehan.

Manning led in hitting with a perfect record, having a triple and two singles in three times up.

McGonigal's home run in the third inning made B. & W.'s only tally though C. Wagner robbed himself of a four bagger by failing to touch first base in the second inning.

McGonigal and McGeehan did all the hitting for B. & W. dividing the four hits made. The score:

SPOILING
Thousands for other Cars

The Chrysler Six has brought about a startling and unique motor car situation in motor car ownership.

All over America are families which own two, three, four and even seven Chrysler cars.

There are two main reasons—but they both go straight back to the fact that it is a genuine delight to drive a Chrysler Six.

They go straight back to the fact that the Chrysler Six is an entirely new type of car, built on a new kind of engineering, which produces results radically different from any heretofore registered.

At one extreme are the families which can afford the most expensive chauffeur-driven cars.

Many of these have found a new joy in motoring. Men who have not driven their own cars for years are now driving their own Chryslers. They have discarded the heavy, cumbersome cars; or keep them only for occasional use.

For general use—the Chrysler Six. So great is the demand to drive this car on the part of both men and women in the same family, that two or three and even more Chrysler cars are found necessary.

The other side of the picture shows families which have owned a car costing perhaps twice as much as the Chrysler Six, and who have discarded it in the interests of economy and greater convenience.

Now they own and operate two Chrysler Six cars for the cost of one cumbersome car which does not begin to bring the driving and riding thrill ever present in the Chrysler Six.

You, too, will become a Chrysler enthusiast after your first thrilling, delightful ride and drive in a Chrysler Six—a ride we are eager and anxious to give you.

Typical Reasons Why Many Families Own Two or More Chrysler Cars

Mr. Edward C. Taubel, of Norristown, Pa., says:

"The four cars we have purchased from you have been a revelation to us in easy handling, small amount of upkeep and general all around service.

"Having owned high priced cars for the past 15 years we feel we are giving you well deserved thanks for making us Chrysler owners.

"We can recommend your car to anyone looking for that something in automotive performance that we have found lacking in other cars."

E. W. Holmes, of Buffalo, New York, who owns two Chryslers, makes the significant statement:

"The Chrysler handles so well it discourages one from driving anything else."

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Watching thee Government.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—"Watch the government and report the facts' is the slogan that has been adopted by the newly organized Civil Service league of the District of Columbia. The quotation is credited to Will Rogers and surprise has been expressed that so serious an organization as the league should turn to the well known lariat-throwing humorist for inspiration. By way of explanation a story is told of how Rogers happened to make a statement.

It seems that Rogers recently had an interview with President Coolidge in the course of which the president is said to have remarked that he didn't see how Rogers thought up all his funny stories.

"I don't, Mr. President," Rogers replied. "I watch the government and report the facts."

In an address delivered on the occasion of the launching of the local league by Robert Catherwood, the head of the National Civil Service Reform league, may be found some of the reasons a humorist can get material by watching the government, for it discloses the fact that Uncle Sam in conducting the biggest business institution in the world is in some respects so unbusinesslike as to be weird if not funny.

For instance, there are government employes who do the same work but are paid widely varying salaries, ranging all the way from extremely liberal remuneration to starvation wages. In one case, forty-five different salaries were paid for precisely the same work, with a difference of $2,000 a year between the best paid and the worst paid employee.

Again, there is no system of promotion in the Federal service, strange as that statement may sound to any private employer. "With Jeffersonian simplicity," says Mr. Catherwood, "the aspiring Federal employee merely uses all the influence he can bring to bear to get a better job or higher pay. This is the Federal promtion lack of system, innocent of principle and unadorned.'

Still again, as the Committee on Administration of the Civil Service league points out, when a government department calls upon the Civil Service commission to supply it with a mechanic there is no telling whether it will get a man qualified to paint a roof, build a house, operate machinery, or stop a leak in the departmental water pipes. This is due to the fact that under the classification plan set up by the Federal Personal board the class "mechanic' includes engineemen, carpenters, painters and plumbers.

Aid Rather Than Criticise.

In watching the government and reporting the facts it is the purpose of the new organization to be helpful and constructive rather than to criticise or to attack. It is desired to aid Uncle Sam in getting his immense establishment on a more thorough-going business basis and in bringing about uniformity and efficiency in his relations with his army of employees.

And t is an army whose services he commands—almost a million strong. To be exact the figures are 970,744, and civil service reformers insist that of the number only 744 have to do with politics or judicial decisions, while all the others should be free of politics in every way, shape, and form.

The president, the vice president, ten cabinet officers, 201 judges, 96 United States Senators and 435 representatives comprise the 744 political officials.

Of the 970,000 non-politicians, as Mr. Catherwood classifies them, 270,000 are soldiers, sailors and marines, and 700,000 are employed in government business operations, including 360,000 postal employees, and in the War and Navy departments and the Veterans' bureau 113,000 workmen and clerks. There are 9,000 employees in the Canal Zone and some 15,000 in the Philippines.

"Take the first half dozen biggest industrial concerns in the country, put them together, and the United States is a bigger industrial concern than the lot of them,' says the national leader of the civil service reform forces. "The government builds and maintains ships, aeroplanes, dams, highways, ports waterways, harbors, public buildings, bridges, fortifications, and penal and charitable institutions, and manufactures a list of 70,000 articles from apple jelly to zylophilogistic specimens.

"The government is the biggest banker, the biggest bond house, the largest carpenter, power concern, dredger, cement user, printer and litehographer in the country. The combined faculties of Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Michigan, Chicago, Northwestern, Wisconsin and Stanford Universities are less than the scientific faculty of the department of Agriculture. The United States is not only the largest employer of labor in the world, but the largest industrial, scientific and social concern going."

And, it is added, there never was and never will be a Republican way of manufacturing, a Democratic way of conducting agricultural experiments, or a LaFollette way of issuing marriage licenses. Hence the contention that politics should be absolutely eliminated from Uncle Sam's establishment.

What the Government Needs.

What the government needs, it is asserted, is a permanent employment system, based throughout on merit principles, operating in the people's interest, administered by an expert independent authority, and applicable to the tenure, pay and promotion, as well as to the selection of all non-political employees.

Dr. Ellery C. Stowell, president of the Washington Civil Service league, says that such a system is the kind that will save money for the taxpayer and put cheer and courage into the heart of every faithful and efficient government employee. He adds that the league is the mechanism by which disinterested persons not themselves in the employ of the government may cogently urge the adoption of such obvious improvements in the Federal service as investigation may show to be desirable.

The Committee on Administration, which is composed of Charles E. Hill, professor of political science at George Washington university, and W. J. Shepard, professor of political science of the Robert Brookings Graduate School of Economics and Government, in addition to Dr. Stowell, is now planning to bring about some must be these with the lowes efficiency ruling that when government employees are laid off the first to go must be those with tehe lowest efficiency rating. The manifest injustice of the raigid application of this rule, it is pointed out, lies in the fact that it means that an employee with ten years of service and an efficiency rating of 82 would be retired when one with barely six months of service and an efficiency rating of 83 would be retained.

The Committee will also take up the failure of the Personnel Classification board to set up true classes, as illustrated in the class "mecahnics," the efficiency rating which applies to about 4,000 or 50,000 positions in the Districte of Columbia and is said to be not in accord with recognized employment, and the matter of classification appeals, with a view to expeditinge the consideration of the thousands of appeals now pending before the Personnel board, and of arranging so that employees who submit appeals may have ropresentation at the hearings.

The real drive to build up the membership of the league, which, by the way, is a revival of the old Washington Civil Service association, will not be made until Fall. Meanwhile, however, the cooperation of those actively interested in the league's purposes is being evidenced in the substantial support that is being given the movement.

On November 18, shortly before congress convenes, the annual meet of the league will be held and its legislative program in connection with the approaching session will be adopted.

Crow Flies Near Golf Course and Steals Balls

Paris.—An oversized, sleek, midnight-black crow, with an apartment somewhere back in the dense pines near the fourteenth hole on the St. Germain golf course, is responsible for more golfing griefs this spring than all the bunkers, traps and fences put together.

This bird is a golf ball thief and is suspected of being a common crow kleptomaniac. Sitting calmly and with pretense of eating worms some 200 yards from the tee, she waits until some golfer taps out a good drive. Then the bird walks over, takes the ball and flops off with it.

This thief is teaching the trick to others of her tribe.

It is assumed that this old gossiper has passed the word along to her sisters, with the result that several hundred golf balls repose now in the nearby rookery with scores of cheating hen crows still trying to hatch them out.

In the meantime, the crow is protected by national laws which suggest that she is a carrion bird and therefore valuable.

Balloon Fish Causes Two Deaths; Victims Warned Before Eating

HONOLULU, Hawaii, June.—Eating a poisonous variety of balloon fish, known among the Hawaiians as dopuhue, caused the death of two Chinese in this city recently. The men succumbed within twenty minutes from the time they had partaken of the fish. Members of their families stated that the men had been previously told the fish were poison, but apparently considered the story only a superstition among the native fishermen.

To date Australia has spent $760,000,000 on repatriating her returned soldiers

SCRIBES NAME COMMITTEEMEN

CLEVELAND, June 19.—James M. Gould, president of the baseball writers' association of America today announced the appointment of the following committees:

Rules—John B. Foster, New York, chairman; James R. Harrison, New York; William G. Evans, Cleveland.

Auditing—Melvelle E. Webb, Jr., Boston; Ed. Ballinger, Pittsburgh; William Slocum, New York.

The rules committee will co-operate with the major league at the joint session next winter in revising and simplifying the present baseball code, there being a few spots where the rules now are contradictory.

Tagging The Bases

The law of gravity stands vindicated today. The leaders in both leagues won and the trailers in both leagues lost. The Philadelphia Athletics scored four runs in the ninth for a 6 to 2 victory over Cleveland. The New York Giants, after six defeats, pulled out a 13-inning victory over Cincinnati, 4 to 3.

The Boston Red Sox dug deeper into eighth place by losing to Chicago, 5 to 1. The Boston Braves also held safely to the cellar position by dropping a game to St. Louis, 4 to 3.

The Detroit Tigers clawed another chunk from the tender New York Yankees, six bites to three.

"Bucky" Harris, Washington manager, hit safely for his twenty-fourth consecutive game, but didn't prevent the Senators from slipping a game to St. Louis. Score, 9 to 6.

French Manufacturer Makes Radio Crystal From Waste Products

PARIS—Proverbial French thrift has brought about a new discovery which, if the claims are proved, will mean a revolution in wireless reception.

Monsieur Felix Thuaud, a well-known French manufacturer, has just come upon a new crystal among the waste products of his steel mill which, he thinks, will receive wireless signals at far longer distances and with greater clearness than the best crystals now in use. And, best of all, the new substance can be produced at about one-quarter of the price of the ordinary crystal.

Napoleon's Love Letters Reveal Ardent Courtship

'Love a Little One Who Loves You Very Much," Famous Soldier Pleaded in Letter to "Emma."

BRUSSELS, June.— Napoleon may have been the greatest soldier of history, but he fell to the level of all lovers, and grovelled before woman.

Five love letters attributed to Napoleon have been published here by the Princes de Ligne. The letters are addressed to an unknown woman, whom Napoleon calls "Emma," and who may have been Mlle. de Lauberie de Saint Germain.

The letters are written in one too grammatical French in the execrable hand of the famous soldier.

Napoleon's pleas as a lover were but little different than the pleas of lovers the world over since time began.

Excerpts from these love letters follow:

"Tell me that you will do justice to feelings worthy of you, and above all do not speak to me of social distinctions, for it is not I who can give you any. . . .

"You fly away from me, you are cold and indifferent to me. Emma, your letter has upset me and I find no happiness but in your knowing the influence you have on me, the happiness which it would give me to know that you also feel a little, and in the hopes that you will love a little one who loves you very much. . .

"The idea that you were angry, hurt and tired of flattery and compliments, pure as they were, hurt me. Write to me and tell me that your heart is not unfeeling, and that you believe in the truth of what I am feeling and that you are not altogether indifferent to my happiness or pain—pain because of you, Emma."

No More Flies & No More Mosquitoes Wonderful Black Flag Kills Them All

Kill every fly in your home with BLACK FLAG. And every mosquito! And every roach! BLACK FLAG is the surest death to insects ever discovered. For it contains a secret vegetable ingredient which bugs breathe and die. Not one escapes.

Ordinary insecticides kill, at best, only 6 out of every 10 bugs. The four which get away breed hundreds which return.

But BLACK FLAG kills 10 out of every 10 pests. It will completely rid a home of bugs when all else fails And it kills every kind of bug! Flies, mosquitoes, roaches, moths, ants, bedbugs, dog fleas, plant lice and chicken lice! But BLACK FLAG is absolutely harmless to humans and animals.

And this master insect killer kills every roach, too!

BLACK FLAG comes in two forms—powder and liquid. Both are equally effective, with these three exceptions—never use any liquid on furs; use the powder to make them mothproof. Use the powder to kill dog fleas and lice.

Either BLACK FLAG powder or liquid costs less. Many people use both, preferring the liquid to kill flies, mosquitoes and moths—and the powder to kill roaches, ants, bedbugs, dog fleas and lice. BLACK FLAG Powder, 15c up. Powder Gun, 10c. Liquid, 25c up. Sprayer, 45c. Special introductory package containing can of liquid BLACK FLAG and Sprayer for only 65c. At drug, grocery, hardware and department stores. Buy BLACK FLAG today.

Tip For Beginners.

Solve this puzzle by comparing the synonyms listed in the "Horizontal" and "Vertical" columns with the number of spaces extending crosswise or downward on the diagram, as the case may be. If a word occurs to you meaning substantially the same as the synonym and the correct number of letters to fit in the spaces between its number and the first shaded stop following, write it in lightly. Work away the small words, the "easy" words, first, and they will give you plenty of clues to the difficult ones.

"CUPID'S CHURCH" HAS CELEBRATION

Many Famous Names Adorn Register of London Edifice.

London. — London's fashionable church, St. George's, Hanover Square, celebrated its bicentenary recently with a special series of services. Often called "St. Cupid's church" in the latter part of the last century, St. George's is still popular for fashionable weddings, and second only to St. Margaret's, Westminster.

Sixty years ago as much as 1,000 weddings occurred each year at St. George's, but during the last fifty years the average has been about 300. Included among the latter was that of Theodore Roosevelt, who described himself in the register as a "ranchman" when he walked over from Brown's hotel in a bowler hat to be married to Edith Kermit Carew.

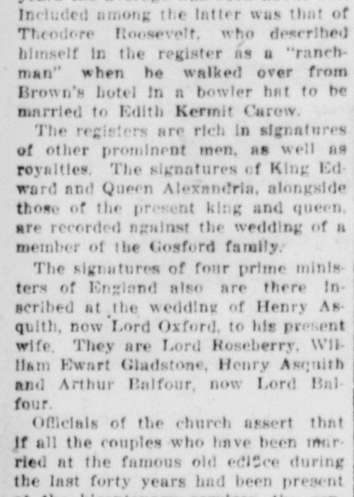

The registers are rich in signatures of other prominent men, as well as royalties. The signatures of King Edward and Queen Alexandria, alongside those of the present king and queen, are recorded against the wedding of a member of the Gosford family.

The signatures of four prime ministers of England also are there inscribed at the wedding of Henry Asquith, now Lord Oxford, to his present wife. They are Lord Roseberry, William Ewart Gladstone, Henry Asquith and Arthur Balfour, now Lord Balfour.

Officials of the church assert that if all the couples who have been married at the famous old edifice during the last forty years had been present at the bicentenary services, the congregation would have numbered about twelve thousand.

For gifts of fire engines to the department at Ramsgate, England, Mrs. Stancomb Wills has been appointed honorary chief.

All-Star Cast In "Adventure," at Ceramic Theatre

Here is an item of interest to hapless horsemen, frenzied Ford owners and suffering subway straphangers. It concerns a new mode of transportation, called pick-a-back, and there are never any delays caused by broken bridle reins, punctures or engine trouble.

Pick-a-back, which, as the name suggests, consists of one man riding around on the back of a larger man, is said to be the only method of travel on some islands of the South Seas.

Authority for this information is the Victor Fleming-Paramount company, which recently completed filming Jack London's South Sea story, "Adventure," featuring Tom Moore, Pauline Starke, Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, at the Ceramic theatre today and tomorrow. Throughout the course of the picture, Moore rides on the back of a huge native.

"It was a lot of fun, letting the other fellow do the work," said the popular Paramount player. "But on the last day he got even with me. He stubbed his toe and I was thrown over his head into a pile of brush."

There is this much to be said in favor of our modern rapid transit facilities. If you are in a hurry to get anywhere, the horse, the Ford, the subway or the aeroplane will get you there much faster than the pick-a-back. You are lucky to cover three miles an hour by pick-a-back whereas, the aeroplane, for example, has an average speed of one hundred and twenty miles per hour.

Air excursions between Paris and London have become so popular that extra planes often are necessary to carry the passengers.

Motion picture theatres of Peru have an intermission of five minutes before each reel, during which time advertising slides are shown.

Deceased members of both lodges follow: Ray Fiber, Homer Hadley, Marion Botson, Mrs. Ivy May and Mrs. Eleanor Larimer.

Cattle Tested.

Cattle owned by several farmers back of Newell were given the tuberculin test during the past week by Dr. W. B. Smith, representative of the government, who is now stationed at Wheeling. Number of other farms in the county will be visited this month.

To Attend Social.

Number of local people plan to attend the social and entertainment to be given by the Christian church of Pughtown next Thursday evening in the town hall.

In her recent British tour Galli-Curci is said to have received $5,000 a recital.

New Moving Picture Stars Will Soon be Installed in Favor

HOLLYWOOD, June.—A new day of stars is dawning in picture land.

Names unheard of a year ago will be ablaze this fall from coast to coast as the winter movie season is ushered in.

With many of the leading present-day stars producing only one picture a year, new and younger faces are believed bound to be installed in high favor.

This is the general opinion of producers in Hollywood.

"The day of the movie star has returned and the coming year will see an avalanche of new favorites on the screen,' said Louis B. Mayer, head of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

"I have a carefully prepared chart showing to a surprising degree a marked decline of popularity among many stars whose names today are household words. Only those stars who continue to show a steady increase in popularity will in the future, I believe, be seen in big productions."

Woman Burglar, 54, Given Prison Term; Convicted 19 Times

LEEDS, Eng., June.—A good wife, and mother of eighteen children, Mrs. Mary Ann Cowl, has just been sentenced to five years for burglary at Rotherham.

Her only defense was that she could not resist the craving for excitement, adventure and danger after the monotony of home life.

For years she had been known in Sheffield as a model mother looking equally well after her children and her home, and seemingly absorbed in these interests. None suspected her as an ex-convict.

At fifty-four years of age Mrs. Cowl has already served one term of three years and been convicted nineteen times in all. She recently initiated her eldest daughter into the business. The girl was used as a female Oliver Twist to get into houses through narrow openings in order to let her mother in through the door.

Although collections in nearly all other lines in Porto Rico are slow, automobile dealers report that cash sales of cars are increasing.
